THIS WILL BLOW YOUR MIND:

MIND CONTROL

Newly De-Classified U.S. Electronic Harassment Technologies

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>, 5/28/98: [quoting]

This page lists articles from technology publications which show how these technologies are being marketed in commercial form, and have also been and are being used to harass covert weapons testing victims:

The reader is asked to remember that ANNOUNCED inventions with potential for “national security” use are ALWAYS already in use covertly when announced. The SR-71 “Blackbird” surveillance aircraft was in use almost 30 years before the public saw it.

This page lists articles from technology publications which show how these technologies are being used to harass covert weapons testing victims, and are now coming out in commercial form, or have been announced to the public:

1. Aviation Week & Space Technology, March 10, 1997: “Radar Warns Birds of Impending Aircraft”

This article by Bruce Nordwall (Washington bureau) describes research being carried on by the USAF Wright Laboratory at Dayton, Ohio. The article describes the use of MODULATED radar signals to produce AUDIBLE SOUND within the brains of birds near airport runways to cause them to fly away and avoid collisions with landing aircraft.

This list was furnished by the lab at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base (*) where this type of unclassified development is now in progress.

 The transmission via MODULATED microwave pulses carrying voices to selected weapons testing victims has been carried on for more than two decades, as reported by the victims. There has been little published about this phenomenon, and since direct-to-skull voice transmissions are consistently misinterpreted by psychiatrists as ‘schizophrenia’, getting this information to the public needs concerted attention.

2. Electronic Business Today, February 1997 “Business Trends” section, page 20:

Inventor Elwood Norris, and his small company, (American Technology Corp., Poway, CA) have designed a market ready device called an “acoustical heterodyne”.

This device sends out two sound signals in the ultrasonic (above-human-hearing) range which, when they impact a surface, which may be a living creature, then and only then produce a sound at a frequency equal to the DIFFERENCE (“heterodyne”) of the two ultrasound frequencies.

 This technology has been used extensively by harassers who follow a walking or driving victim and bounce raucous, unnatural bird calls and other strange sounds off surfaces near the victim. This type of sound is tape recordable.

3. New York Times, April 7, 1997, “Devices May Let Police Find Hidden Guns on Street” article.

This article, with photos supplied by Millitech Corporation, describes recently unclassified “millimeter wave” cameras (and some other see-thru technologies less well developed).

These units operate like camcorders, giving the user a real-time thru-clothing, thru-luggage image for detecting weapons and drugs.

Technology like this does not just pop out of nowhere overnight, and it probably has its roots in the 1960s classified microwave weapon “renaissance”—about the same time as the U.S. Embassy staff in Moscow discovered they were being bathed in Soviet microwave signals.

OEM Magazine, February 1997, page 20, “Electronic Dipstick” article.

This article describes “micropower impulse radar” or “MIR” radar, developed at Lawrence Livermore Lab in California, and licensed to several large companies for consumer products. Basically, this radar uses the highest radio frequencies and does not require the supporting hardware like rotary antennas, which ‘conventional’ radar does.

Uses include vehicle blind-spot sensors, traffic control sensors, heart muscle response monitors, and see-thru-plaster stud finders.

 Thru-the-wall radar has been covertly used for a number of years on weapons testing victims. One common use has been to detect where the victim is standing or walking in their apartment, and ‘follow’ the victim’s position by rapping floor, walls, or ceiling from an adjacent apt. This is designed to let the victim know he/she is under constant surveillance.

4. Defense Electronics, July 1993, page 17.

DOD, INTEL AGENCIES LOOK AT RUSSIAN MIND CONTROL CLAIMS

Federal law enforcement officials considered testing a Russian scientist's acoustic mind-control device on cultist David Koresh a few weeks before the fiery conflagration that killed the Branch Davidian leader and 70 of his followers in Waco, Texas, DEFENSE ELECTRONICS has learned.

In a series of closed meetings beginning March 17 in suburban northern Virginia with Dr. Igor Smirnov of the Moscow Medical Academy, FBI officials were briefed on the Russian's decade-long research on a computerized acoustic device allegedly capable of implanting thoughts in a person's mind without that person being aware of the source of the thought.

His account of the meetings was confirmed by Psychotechnologies Corp., a Richmond, Virginia-based firm that owns the American rights to the Russian technology.

[Not necessarily unclassified, but at least made known to a limited segment of the public.]

5. Dan Rather's CBS Evening News, Dec. 9, 1997:

Police helicopters were the topic, and one of the features soon to be added to police helicopters was "an electromagnetic ray gun which can stop speeding cars dead".

While this is primitive technology compared with that used to manipulate the minds and nervous systems of e-weapons victims of the 1990s, it does demonstrate quite clearly that government is putting substantial resources into electromagnetic weapons development.

6. Canadian version, Discovery Channel, "Invention" segment, Thursday December 25, 1997:

During part of the show, it was stated that the current development of polygraphs (lie detectors) using massive computer-aided database comparisons was now a reality and these machines were making substantial progress towards near-perfect accuracy.

The final statement in that segment was: It is expected that the next stage in polygraph development will be REMOTE MICROWAVE detection of bodily functions, which will mean the polygraph can then be used SECRETLY, at a distance.

7. Associated Press (Dec. 2, 1997):

TOKYO—Tired of reaching for the remote control every time you surf the channels? Help is on the way—at a price. A Japanese company plans to market a device that changes television channels and activates household appliances at the flicker of a brain wave. The price: roughly 600,000 yen ($4,800). The product, called the Mind Control Tool Operating System, or MCTOS, is the result of a collaboration between the Technos Japan Co. and the Himeji Institute of Technology in southwestern Japan.

Say you want to turn on the air conditioner. Simply focus on that icon on the MCTOS computer display menu while wearing a pair of beta-wave-trapping goggles. Then, according to Technos spokesman Sadahiro Ushitani, say something like “Ei!!” inside your head. Soon your air conditioner will be pumping cool air into the room.

MCTOS is scheduled to go on sale in April 1998.

8. On Jan. 19 the Washington Post had an article about a device for remotely detecting heartbeats by detecting the electromagnetic pulses emitted by beating hearts.

URL: <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/WPlate/1998-01/19/0171-011998-idx.html>

[An excerpt:]

“The pumping of the human heart is controlled by electrical signals, which doctors measure in electrocardiograms. The heart’s activity generates an irregular, ultralow-frequency electric field that extends in a circle around the body.

“The field is faint, but it can pass through almost any physical barrier. The LifeGuard can pick up on the strongest part of the field, the heart, through barriers including concrete walls, heavy foliage and rocks. Company officials say the LifeGuard can detect a person in less than five seconds and can pinpoint his or her location with a high degree of accuracy.”

The company is marketing the device for potentially locating people in need of rescue, or detecting where individuals are located inside a building.

The Life Assessment Detector System (LADS), a microwave Doppler movement measuring device, can detect human body surface motion, including heartbeat and respiration, at ranges up. [Sic]

9. Nature magazine, Vol 391, January 22, 1998, page 316, “Advances in neuroscience may threaten human rights”, by Declan Butler:

(PARIS - Pasteur Institute - Speech by Chairman of the French national bioethics committee, Jean-Pierre Changeaux)

“But neuroscience also poses potential risks, arguing that advances in cerebral imaging make the scope for invasion of privacy immense.

“Although the equipment needed is still highly specialized, it will become commonplace and capable of being used at a distance, he predicted. That will open the way for abuses such as invasion of personal liberty, control of behavior, and brainwashing.

“These are far from being science-fiction concerns, said Changeaux, “and constitute a serious risk to society.”

[Also in that article:]

“Denis LeBihan, a researcher at the French Atomic Energy Commission, told the meeting that the use of imaging techniques has reached the stage where we can almost read people’s thoughts.”

NOTE: These scientists are speaking ONLY about the UNCLASSIFIED scientific arena. Classified technology can always be assumed [to be] well ahead of unclassified.

Sightings HomePage, Richard Hansen <rhansen5@hotmail.com> [End quoting]

We were warned ages ago that this planet would be under the control of Satan and/or Lucifer in the end times—which this is. Little could most of us imagine to what extent the mind-control scientists would be able to imprison us, without conscious knowledge of the fact that we are being manipulated like puppets. Talk about lessons—we are certainly getting a post-college course in the lessons of evil versus good—GOD.

May we all be strong and wise enough to be included in the graduating class into a life of peace and prosperity in a higher dimension of higher learning and experiencing. What a pleasant break that will be from these constant wars.

CHAPTER 2

RE-ESTABLISH THE CONSTITUTIONAL REPUBLIC OR START ANEW? PART 3 AND END OF SERIES

by Ray Bilger 5/27/98

The land masses of planet Earth have been divided up into what we call nations, some very large and some very small. The human inhabitants of Earth are scattered all across the land masses, some concentrated into urban areas and others spread out in rural areas, with the boundaries of these nations running between the inhabitants, dividing the humans up into different national groupings, much the same as we might divide up paramecia and amoebas into different drops of water in order to study them.

Each of the nations on Earth has a government which coordinates and conducts the infrastructure functions and operations which appear to make things happen in their respective nations. Although most of these national governments purport to represent the interests of the human inhabitants of their respective nations, an in-depth examination of things as they exist just below the visible surface impressions reveals that no government really represents the genuine interests of those governed.

This being the case, and there existing today an ever-growing awakening of the masses to this realization with a concomitant desire to correct the predominant injustice, it should come as no surprise that there is more and more discussion about how to achieve a greater measure of justice for all human beings on Earth.

An important attempt at making a just national government was begun in 1776 in what became the United States of America. But those pernicious attorneys and international bankers made sure the experiment would be circumvented for their own interests, while still making it appear on the surface as though it was working for the people.

Today, what Dr. John Coleman has termed the “Committee of 300” (made up of Bilderbergers, the Trilateral Commission, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Club of Rome, etc., etc.) runs the entire world from behind the scenes like a giant octopus with its tentacles reaching into every facet of our lives.

Educating the people about what is really happening in the world is still the key to changing things and is a major challenge before us. But would it be better to first try to re-establish the Constitutional Republic here in America so as to have some sort of example for the rest of humanity to see as an incentive for working to improve things elsewhere (if that is even possible in the face of the New World Order), or should we instead begin to work immediately at establishing a just world government? Both avenues would appear to have good points and bad points.

Re-establishing the Constitutional Republic could certainly serve to improve conditions for citizens here, something which is long overdue, and that could act as a catalyst, a visible first step, toward tackling the world situation. On the other hand, it could take a lot of time and a lot of work to accomplish, and the government in place in Washington, D.C. would not necessarily look favorably upon what we were doing, and could actually shut us down by declaring martial law, or by sending in troops (or both) to stop us. We would more than likely be branded communists, terrorists or subversives, who are taking the law into their own hands and breaking every law meant to serve the American people.

Of course that would be a lie, but those who control the media control the impressions and opinions presented to the general public and, thus, our actions could be seen as a bizarre aberration. And, while we would be working to get America back on track, the rest of the world could blow up in a nuclear holocaust! We have to face the fact that we have reached a critical point in time where we may not have the luxury of being able to fix America first.

As the problems in America are only a small part of the world's problems, perhaps it might be wise to go for the big picture now and let the chips fall where they may. Since we are already totally controlled slaves who own nothing (the New World Order owns everything), we have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

This will only be achieved properly, however, if we can do it without firing a single shot. If we are armed only with truth, wisdom and our pens, and never lose our ground, and never lose sight of our goal, and stand always in our Creator's Light, we shall not fail. The question remains then, how exactly do we do it? Exactly, that's how. Very exactly and very precisely.

The governments of the world absolutely cannot let you know the truth (that the world's people hold vastly more power than all of the governments put together), and still maintain the control they now wield. It would be very interesting if we could, for example, commandeer the entire Blue Beam Project, currently designed to present us with fully realistic holographic projections of Jesus in the sky here to save us, and for scaring us, with projections of "bad aliens", into believing our controllers' "fake alien invasion", and instead reprogram the whole thing to present the truth about our world's situation, and actually show the world a projection in the sky of a Human Planetary Constitution which would put an end to our enslavement and make our public servants just that, "our" servants! But perhaps that's just an unrealistic dream.

Then again, if we were to get some major funding through the Peruvian Bonus Contract-3392, we could purchase some land and/or some land with buildings in, let us say, Egypt, to set up the permanent foundation for a Human Planetary Governance System. In this way there could be published material, outlining the goals and plans for planet Earth, that could be circulated to those in each nation in a position to share the information with their respective national populations for their general consideration.

Constantly updated information would be transmitted around the globe as each new nation joined together for truth and justice. All it would take would be one nation to join, because that one would provide just the incentive needed for the second nation to join, and then the third, and so on it would go.

All of this is, perhaps, a bit of an oversimplification, but the entire process would be relatively simple once the groundwork has been laid and the people made aware of the Planetary Constitution and its benefits for all. What human being who is a part of the suppressed masses would not want to have their rights secured as set forth in the Planetary Constitution? This is good beyond their dreams. But it is simply what is right and just for all people on this planet.

If such major funding were not available, the entire process would have to be initiated pretty much at the grass-roots level, with a lot of volunteer work and energy. This could take considerably longer, but if we are determined to achieve that which is the right of all human beings, then it is what we must do, one way or another.

This brings up again the concept of money. As was stated in Part II of this series, money is an artificial creation of man used for the purpose of controlling the masses. That is only partially true because, as with all else, the money issue has two sides to it.

It has been said that money is the root of all evil. This is not true because money can be used for either good or evil. Money is a commodity that does not itself have the power to determine what it will be used for. This is where the human being enters the picture. It takes people to decide what money will be used for.

An interesting study was recently revealed on a Los Angeles television station. A news crew placed a wallet, with a one-hundred-dollar bill in it, on the floor of a busy shopping mall and then watched what happened. The experiment was continued over and over to see what a number of different people would do, and no one was followed or exposed if they kept the money.

The results were very informative about how far our society (or at least Los Angeles) has slipped from the commandments which form the basis of the Common Law (such as thou shalt not steal). A majority of those who found the wallet kept the money, with some simply discarding the empty wallet. There may be a number of different reasons why the results were what they were, but it should not be too surprising given the current state of things in the world today.

Everything which people see or hear today is designed to lower moral standards until they are no more (including things like showing violence to be acceptable). Those who control the world (and us) are taking us beyond immoral to amoral (“not concerned with moral standards; neither moral nor immoral.” [Webster’s]). Thus, one can take the hundred dollars without any feeling of guilt.

As well, we are shown over and over again how politicians, mobsters, wealthy business people, bankers, etc., steal vast sums of money and get away with it. This is because they can afford to purchase a lot more justice (i.e., with attorneys in the courts) than one who does not have a lot of money. True justice is not for sale.

Also, most people do not carry around hundred dollar bills (because the system is designed to keep them poor) and they may feel that someone who has that kind of money must certainly have more where that came from and they won’t miss it.

Those who control the world have basically all the money, therefore, they are in control, and they like to keep it that way. When something like the Peruvian Bonus Contract-3392 comes along, the powers-that-be check it out, but when they find out it is real they are reluctant to honor it for someone not of the ruling class. And, if the powers-that-be issue explicit instructions not to honor it to those who would work to establish an alternative system which would disrupt the control in place, then it becomes a real challenge to get any meaningful change toward justice accomplished.

In our case, the Peruvian Bonus Contract (worth trillions of trillions of dollars) has been stolen, forged and now used by the likes of one George Herbert Walker Bush (former President of the U.S.), and he is not using it to help humanity but rather to further enslave us through the New World Order.

All of this forms part of the testing and lessons we came to Earth to experience. Should you take that which is not rightfully yours? Moral reason would tell us no, but in a world where we are led to believe that there is nothing after death (i.e., no one to judge what we do here), things soon deteriorate to a situation of every man for himself, and ones end up doing what they think they can get away with.

This brings to mind an interesting saying: If you steal a little bit of money you will end up going to jail, but if you can steal a lot, like millions or billions, you can become a politician, maybe even a President. Sad that we have reached this point, but it really does show us who is who.

So then, in order to establish a just world system, designed and run by human beings, having funds to accomplish the task appears to be a decided advantage. Sometimes it happens with great things in life that there must first be the initiative to achieve some great project, and then when it is firmly in mind, the visualizing of what needs to be done and how to do it, and then the actual working to make it happen, when suddenly, as if by surprise, that which is needed to facilitate the completion of the project makes itself available. This is what is meant by the Cosmic Law that energy follows thought.

This line of reasoning can be applied to the matter at hand. More and more it appears that real funding will soon be made available. If we are up to the task and begin to do what needs to be done to lay the groundwork for Human Planetary Governance, then perhaps that funding which will facilitate its fulfillment will become available. It will do no good to have funds if we are not already working on this project and ready to have it funded.

Of course, major funds could help to keep CONTACT in print and to pursue other needful projects, but we always seem to be able to manage to continue our work by the generous support of a dedicated ground crew. Again, it is important that all of this unfold exactly as it has, as this is all part of that testing which we all must experience.

Remember, the major thrust of why we came here in the first place may be to see how we can improve conditions for all human beings on Earth, and that means a just and workable Planetary System with guidance, oversight and actual participation by real human beings, not by robots, and not by corporations and bankers. Once this is firmly established, then motion picture studios, etc., etc. will fulfill their much-needed purpose, and will not be so likely to be shut down by the corruption we now have in place running the world. We first need stability in the world, because a nice motion picture studio will do us no good today if the world is going to blow up tomorrow.

In this way, by actually working from the big picture down to the local level of governance, we can improve conditions in America, as this nation and this nation's laws will have to be in conformity with the Planetary Constitution if we are to participate (Planetary Constitution, Art. V, Sec.1). The organization for it all must always start locally, everywhere, but it is toward the big picture which we will all be working, which then reflects back to improve conditions locally. This is kind of like the constant in-breathing and out-breathing of life itself, and is really a matter of working to improve conditions on both levels at the same time.

We have to remember that it is the overwhelming amount of hate rampant in the world today that has brought us to the edge of the abyss of self-destruction. And one need look no further than their own television set to see just how much hate we are being programmed with each and every day.

If we love the entire planet and all the people on it with an all-pervasive, all-encompassing love (as our Creator loves all of HIS Creations), then that love will be sufficient for all the nations on Earth, for those nations are not the governments thereof, and not the physical land, and certainly not the bankers. The nations of the world are composed of the people who inhabit them.

When we speak of the united States of America, we do not mean the land mass between the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean, and we do not mean that mess of criminals in that 10 miles square called Washington, D.C. No! America is the 260 million people who so desperately want and deserve something better than the incessant lies, manipulation, disinformation, abuse, and terrorism that our so-called “leaders” dish out to us each day like some spoiled, rotten and poisoned food.

But we will not get anything better until we realize that the sheer mass of our numbers is enough to have what is right and just if we can but make our will and determination greater and stronger than that of those who now oppress us. This cannot be done with any kind of physical force. The power of love, when we really have it and feel it and share it, as our Creator does with all of HIS Creations, is sufficient as the strongest power in all the universe. Nothing can overcome that power when it comes from the heart and is genuinely given and shared with others to better conditions for all human beings.

This is the end of this series, and, hopefully, the beginning of the actual process of building a just world for all human beings. Words can serve to inform, and enlightenment comes from actually visualizing what the mind perceives needs to be done, but it takes wisdom to know exactly how and when to take action and then do it and make it happen.

The time is now. Earth is the place. Whatever you decide to do in life, if you can make love your motivation, and the first and primary ingredient of all your actions (a love for all of humanity, all living things and all of Creation), you will be adding to the total of goodness working to turn things around on Earth, and you will thereby insure the successful completion of Earth Project Transition.

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

WARS AND ECONOMIC SLIDE BUBBLING ON SUMMER SCENE

PREPARE FOR A VERY HOT SUMMER!

According to some of the news reports I've seen, the elite are working overtime to incite a war between Macedonia, Albania, Greece, Bulgaria, Turkey and Bosnia. Greece against Cyprus is also a possible target starting point.

It is thought that this will expand into involving Israel, Syria and Iran and by this time the whole area will probably go up in bombs and flames. The elite will try to enlist Western European and Americans to get involved—Deja Vu of WWI and WWII of how the elite draws the U.S. into their European Wars—and all others. Of course, England will be directing behind the scenes—if not openly fighting. Russia will, probably at least, continue to supply weapons.

The reports are saying the elite need this war soon—they have a time-table they need to meet for their shackling of their slaves—US!!

Also a lot of “fires” are heating up in and around the Straits of Malacca and the Indian Ocean area. The fact that India and Pakistan set off their nuclear weapons doesn't help matters any.

Japan is in very dire circumstances as well as Indonesia, Thailand, Korea and other countries in that area.

Russia just announced interest rates of 150% and will accept a discounted price for the sell-off of its state oil company. Its financial markets have been under siege in recent weeks.

Wall Street was wild this week as it tries to absorb the shockwave from the Asian markets.

We can't forget that Japan is entirely relying on outside oil since she has none of her own and this could be her Achilles' heel if the power-mad elite want to close down any of her supplies. If war gets going in the Middle East it would probably cut off most of her oil. However she is also receiving some from the fields in the Indonesia area.

From what I understand, the U.S. is moving some ships into the area and China and Japan are quite active with their ships there also.

On top of all of this there is a problem called the y2k problem which stands for the year 2000 computer problem [explained below]. Whether or not it is a real problem in itself, it is a real problem because there is so much controversy about it, all over the world, that it becomes a serious problem either way.

Also Gordon-Michael Scallion in his Earth Changes Report [1-800-628-7493] for Summer 1998 said, "I have been getting an uneasy feeling about the summer of this year, especially July. Recently, I've had many dreams about the Earth's tectonic plates shifting and volcanoes suddenly coming alive in vast numbers. In one dream, I was outside; the weather was very warm, and apples were on the trees. I turned around, expecting to see something in the sky. Then, the dream-scene shifted, and I was floating above the Pacific Ocean, watching smoke and fire coming from hundreds of volcanoes all around the Ring of Fire. Suddenly the scene changed once more, and I witnessed fireworks in the sky.

"In analyzing this dream, I have come to believe that July '98 will be a time period of mega-Earth changes."

All in all, it appears it may be a very hot summer and will extend into an indefinite time period.

The elite are really itching to bury anybody who gets in their way of fully foreclosing on this planet.

Stories below give more detail.

MAJOR BANKS WARN PEOPLE

From THE AMERICANS BULLETIN, May 1998: [quoting]

Their source: The Sunday Times Of London

A SENIOR executive at Barclays [bank] has warned people to sell their homes, stockpile their cash and buy gold in case of a global economic collapse caused by the millennium computer bug.

This extraordinary warning is echoed by other bank managers who fear a run on deposits. When computers click over from the year 99 to 00 experts say many applications will crash and create indecipherable data. Under this "doomsday scenario" global markets and economics may fail to cope with millions of computers crashing at once. It is feared currencies and stock exchanges could go into free fall, slashing the value of savings.

The scenario is now being treated seriously because European banks are struggling to change systems in time for the single currency. Many have not even begun to tackle the millennium bug. From next year, insurance policies, bank accounts and other financial products must incorporate the year 2000 in many of next year's transactions.

Experts are unsure how computers will cope: they may produce huge bills and interest calculations, shut down completely, or carry on as usual. "The average man or woman does not appreciate what is going to happen," said the Barclays executive, who wishes to remain anonymous. "I'm going to plan for the absolute worst—I am talking about the need to start buying candles, tinned food and bottled water from mid-1999 onwards. People think that I am mad, but a company director I met last week is intending to set up a commune and buy a shotgun because the potential for looting is also quite high."

Although many may see this view as far-fetched, a senior Midland executive was also pessimistic: "Gold wouldn't be a bad thing to get into." Tony Blair will tomorrow make his first public statement on the millennium bug, although many computer experts feel it is a case of too little, too late. Even the government-backed agency dealing with the problem is now concentrating on maintaining essential services.

Gwynneth Flowers, director of Action 2000, said: “At present we are making sure that the fabric of society as we know it can continue, by making emergency contingency plans with the government. I am now confident that essential services will work, but every man, woman and child will still be affected.”

Most experts agree with the government’s stance—that the millennium bug will not prove catastrophic, just inconvenient.

“We are expecting that organizations will now prioritise and avoid doomsday scenarios,” said John Cotterell, director of Year 2000 services at Cap Gemini, Europe’s largest computer consultancy. However, most companies are still making contingency plans in case of disaster. Last Tuesday, the government met with Britain’s largest companies and utilities to discuss an emergency plan. The bank holiday on December 31, 1999, is expected to be cancelled, so that the expected problems can be tackled.

Such is the lack of confidence that London Electricity is planning to issue engineers with bicycles in case traffic lights are not working; and Fidelity has increased the size of its generators and stockpiled enough fuel for a month, should the electricity supply fail.

WHOA!

Asian Woes Jolt World Markets,
And Wall Street Feels The Shockwave

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 5/28/98: [quoting]

A week ago, short-term trader Rick Zulawski got the jitters while watching the gyrations of the U.S. stock market.

“I got out,” the Canoga Park resident said Wednesday. “It was too volatile.”

It seems that a lot of people had the same idea.

Over the past four trading days, the Dow Jones industrial average and the Standard & Poor's 500—two of the most actively watched indexes of the U.S. markets—have steadily lost ground. Whether because of the Asian financial crisis or investor pessimism—or both—the bull market of yesterday looks nothing like the tumultuous market of today.

The Dow, which rebounded to close at 8,936.57 after hitting an intraday low of 8,788.10 on Wednesday, is down 3 percent from its May 13 high. The S&P 500 closed at 1,092.23 on Wednesday, down 3.4 percent from its April 22 high. The Nasdaq Composite closed at 1,781.10, down 7.1 percent from its high on April 22.

“I think you can boil it down to renewed concerns over (the economic crisis in) Asia, which in turn led to justifiable concerns about the corporate earnings outlook for U.S. companies,” said Leo Grohowski, chief U.S. equity strategist for Bankers Trust in New York, which manages more than $300 billion in global investments.

“On top of that ... the technical underpinnings of the market for the last month have deteriorated,” he said.

While Grohowski doesn't see the recent volatility as an end to the bull market, “we could easily see another 5 percent correction soon,” he said.

How did this start? Most analysts point to Asia.

Massive foreign debt, inadequate regulatory supervision and a slowing economy have pummeled Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines and South Korea. In turn, they affected Japan, which is a major lender in the region, and Hong Kong.

As a result, U.S. sales to the region have slowed down, hurting companies that do a lot of business in Asia, especially high-tech firms. U.S. banks with loans to the area also have been hammered.

Business is “terrible in Asia, with few exceptions,” said James Tso, chief investment officer for the America Asia Allocation growth fund, which buys stock in Asia-based companies, firms that sell to Asia and businesses run by Asian-Americans. “The only companies we're touching right now are exporters to dynamic economies, such as the U.S. and Europe.”

The recession gripping Japan, a major trading partner of many nations including the United States, dampens the prospect of immediate help.

“If (Japan) doesn't right itself, not only will Asia suffer, but the world will suffer,” Tso said.

Over the past month, technical signals have been pointing to a correction in the U.S. stock market. For example, the number of stocks responsible for gains in the market have declined in the past few weeks. That means fewer stocks are boosting increases in the stock market and more stocks are losing ground.

In addition, the number of trades has decreased, suggesting that the market has fewer buyers than it did before. Stock market volume peaked at 650 million shares in April and since then has fallen below average—not a good sign, Grohowski said.

Also hurting the market was a recent sell-off in technology stocks, weakness in financial services stocks and slowing mutual fund investments.

In mid-May, about $4.2 billion flowed into all equity funds. Last week, it trickled down to $472 million, according to AMG Data Services in Arcata, which tracks money flows.

But Grohowski doesn't think the bull market is over. The market is expensive, about 20 percent overvalued, he believes, but not excessively so. Right before the 1987 crash, the market was overvalued by 40 percent, he said.

Bull markets end when the market is extremely overvalued and investor speculation is rampant, Grohowski added.

"There's still enough (investor) skepticism out there to really get me comfortable that this isn't the end," he said. "If those readings go off the charts, that's the time you want to get out." [End quoting]

Sounds to me like "famous last words". The elite's pundits are paid to keep you confident until the hammer drops. I hope you know something about the last depression and put it to good use.

COMMUNIST LEADER WARNS OF "CATASTROPHE" AS MARKET CONTINUES PLUNGE

From the INTERNET, 5/27/98 (Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>): [quoting]
By Vladimir Isachenkov, Associated Press

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russian stock market plunged again today, prompting the head of the Communist Party to declare that Russia is on the verge of collapse and needs early presidential elections.

"You've come here at the height of national catastrophe," Gennady Zyuganov told members of the International Press Institute on the third and last day of its gathering in Moscow.

President Boris Yeltsin called a meeting Thursday with Premier Sergei Kiriyenko, Finance Minister Mikhail Zadornov and Central Bank Chairman Sergei Dubinin to discuss the situation in the financial markets, the Interfax news agency reported.

Speculation is growing that Russia will need a rescue package from the International Monetary Fund, similar to the ones arranged after Asia's financial crisis hit last year.

Investors continued dumping Russian stocks and bonds. This morning, stocks dropped a further 7.1 percent.

Russia's ruble was relatively stable, but traders said that was a lingering effect of heavy Central Bank intervention, estimated at $400 million on Tuesday alone.

The IMF is sending a senior representative to Moscow on Thursday, and hoped to decide later this week whether to release the next $700 million installment of Russia's $10 billion loan.

But even with another installment, investors fear that the government's short-term debt obligations are unmanageable, and Central Bank reserves insufficient to defend the ruble.

Zyuganov blamed the crisis on Yeltsin's policy of free-market reforms, claiming it had brought industry to a virtual standstill and impoverished the majority of Russians. "The government lacks the money to pay wages to miners, teachers, doctors, servicemen and others and that has sparked mass protests," he said.

The government counters that Russia's economic problems stem from decades of misguided economic policy and mismanagement during the Soviet era. It has also blamed coal mine managers for the most recent crisis, accusing them of misappropriating wages. In the southern Rostov region, officials have filed criminal charges against coal company officials who continued to ship coal to companies that had failed to pay for previous supplies, the ITAR-Tass news agency reported today.

Thousands of unpaid coal miners went on strike and blockaded several key railways last week. The authorities managed to quell the protests by paying some of the debts.

Meanwhile, Yeltsin's government has found it increasingly hard to raise money, as tax collection has fallen and the spiraling market crisis has made domestic borrowing increasingly expensive.

Zyuganov said the crisis could result in chaos and lead Russia to total ruin unless early presidential elections are held to replace Yeltsin.

Communists, who dominate the Russian parliament's lower chamber, the State Duma, have repeatedly called for impeachment proceedings against Yeltsin.

They launched their latest attempt last week. All such attempts have died without reaching the floor, partly because Russian law gives the president sweeping powers.

RUSSIA TRYING TO STABILIZE RUBLE, STOP ECONOMIC SLIDE

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 5/28/98: [quoting]

Moscow—As its financial markets teetered on the brink of collapse, Russia Launched a desperate effort Wednesday to defend the ruble and stem the exodus of foreign investors.

In a quick series of steps, the Russian government sent interest rates soaring to 150 percent, announced that it would be willing to accept a discounted price for the sell-off of its state oil company and appealed for support from the International Monetary Fund.

Russia's financial markets have been under siege in recent weeks as fears have mounted that economic turmoil in Asia would overwhelm Russia. But in recent days the financial disarray has turned into a profound political crisis.

President Boris Yeltsin has staked the credibility of his government on its ability to maintain the stability of the ruble.

For many ordinary Russians, the dollar-ruble exchange rate has become the ultimate barometer of the nation's economic and political stability. Maintaining a stable ruble is also important for keeping Russia's banks solvent and for preventing a further ballooning of the nation's debt.

The rising panic among investors has made Russia's markets a major worry for U.S. policy-makers. It has taken place against the background of a decline of stock markets around the world. From Hong Kong to Frankfurt, London to New York, stock markets fell Wednesday.

Most analysts agree that Yeltsin's new prime minister has worked hard to reduce Russia's budget deficit, though collecting taxes remains a major problem. The main issue is the ruble and the reserves the Central Bank is using to prop it up.

On Wednesday, the bank disclosed that its reserves had dwindled to about $14 billion, more than $1 billion less than last week. About $4.5 billion of that is held in gold, which is not readily available to spend to prop up the currency.

By contrast, the Central Bank's reserves were about $23 billion in October.

As the Central Bank's reserves have shrunk, foreign investors have become increasingly worried that it might be forced to devalue the currency.

There are some additional sources of funds. The IMF is expected soon to approve the next $700 million disbursement of its $10 billion loan. Russia may also be able to obtain financing through commercial banks.

"We have some proposals from the biggest private banks," Oleg Vyugin, the Russian deputy finance minister, said in an interview. "We have to consider whether that would be useful or not."

The Russian government also hopes to press ahead with the auction of state property. Prime Minister Sergei Kiriyenko had canceled the sale of the Rosneft oil company, the last major oil privatization, after the government failed to receive a single bid.

But on Wednesday, Russian officials said that a new auction would be arranged and that the starting price of $2.1 billion would be cut. The new starting price will be from $1.6 billion to $1.7 billion and the government hopes to announce a buyer by mid-June.

Still, a growing number of Russian officials and foreign investors are worried that none of this may be enough and that much greater assistance from the IMF is needed. They are urging the fund to provide billions of dollars in emergency financing.

“Russia desperately needs some kind of stand-by facility,” said Marc Holtzman, the president of corporate finance for ABNAMRO, a major international bank. “The Russian government has done a very commendable job to date. The IMF has to take some decision action.”

Kiriyenko has also talked about the need for additional IMF assistance to help it restructure its debts.

Kiriyenko spoke by telephone Wednesday night with Michel Camdessus, the IMF managing director, who is attending a conference in Kyrgyzstan.

Following that conversation, the IMF’s chief Russian specialist, John Odling-Smee, was dispatched to Moscow. [End quoting]

Maybe Russia selling off gold is the reason for the recent drop of its price again. The elite are raking in all the gold they can, it appears, and when they get enough of it they will certainly jack the price beyond our wildest imagination. “They who control the gold, control all.”

JAPAN: FALLING YEN SIGNALS TROUBLE

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 5/28/98: [quoting]

TOKYO—As the currency crisis swept through Asian markets last year, world leaders were counting on Japan, the region’s largest economy, to come to the rescue.

Instead, Japan has seen its own currency hit the skids. And, though currency trends are hard to predict, economists worry Japan may become Asia’s next big problem.

By letting the yen fall, the argument goes, Tokyo has given up trying to save the region and is now just trying to save itself. That could trigger another round of currency devaluations across Asia, pushing the region’s economics into even deeper distress and roiling financial markets around the globe.

RUSSIA: RUBLE ON BRINK OF COLLAPSE

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 5/28/98: [quoting]

MOSCOW—Boris Yeltsin’s government took drastic measures to halt panic selling in Russia’s financial markets Wednesday, but investors kept bailing out as the nation slid closer to a full-fledged economic crisis.

The Central Bank tripled its main interest rate Wednesday to a whopping 150 percent. The move was meant to keep investors in the Russian market, but analysts said such high rates were unsustainable.

Seizing the chance to attack his longtime foe, Communist Party leader Gennady Zyuganov declared that Russia was on the verge of economic collapse and needed early presidential elections to replace Yeltsin.

UNITED STATES:
BOEING FEELING THE STING

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 5/28/98: [quoting]

SEATTLE—Boeing Co. said Tuesday that weakening demand from Asian airlines would probably force it to cut production of its 747 jumbo jet next year. The company also said it still faced difficulties meeting demand for the new version of its popular 737 narrow-body jet.

Boeing, the world's largest aerospace company, had been saying for months that the financial crisis in Asia was having only a limited effect on its commercial airplane business. But executives acknowledged Wednesday that declining demand from Asian airlines would most likely force the company to reduce production of the 747, its most profitable airplane. Boeing's production rate of five 747s a month will likely be reduced next year. [End quoting]

Does this series of stories sound like there is much hope for a turn-around in the world's economic problems??

Does it make it look like this world will be free of a major war for several more years? If we pull our heads out of the sand and take a realistic view of the situation and knowing how the adversary is pressed on their time schedules I think you had better get prepared very fast if you have not done so. May God Help Us All!!—However, He is known to help those who make the effort to help themselves.

CONGRESSIONAL MEMORY LOSS OVER BOLD SOVIET (JEWISH) VETERAN BENEFITS

CONGRESSMEN HEM AND HAW WHILE REDS PLOT TO STEAL U.S. BENEFITS

Despite a memory lapse on the part of some members of Congress, ex-Soviet Red Army veterans living in the U.S. may get U.S. VA benefits.

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by Mike Blair, 5/25/98: [quoting]

The SPOTLIGHT has learned that President Bill Clinton has held discussions with Russian President Boris Yeltsin regarding former Soviet Red Army veterans, now living in the United States, being eligible for the same benefits provided U.S. military veterans.

Already, these former Stalinist-era veterans are receiving, having been granted refugee status, a plethora of American social welfare benefits from federal, state and local governments. These include housing assistance, where in some areas of the country they are given priority status over needy U.S. native-born citizens applying for the aid.

In its March 30 issue, The SPOTLIGHT created what appears to be a tempest with an article which indicated that such aid was being sought by the Soviet Red Army vets and they had in fact organized to lobby for it.

A number of SPOTLIGHT readers who called their representatives and senators in Washington were told that the solons knew nothing about it. These across-the-board memory lapses, however, do not negate the reality of the situation.

Last spring, hundreds of the Red vets descended upon Washington to demonstrate for the right to receive U.S. VA benefits, 50 buses arriving in the nation's capital from the New York City metropolitan area alone. The vets' leaders claim that 4,000 ex-Soviet soldiers reside in the Brooklyn and Queens sections of the city.

GREETED BY WELLSTONE

In Washington, they were enthusiastically met by U.S. Sen. Paul Wellstone (D-Minn.), probably the most left-wing member of the U.S. Senate, and discussed with him their desire to receive the U.S. veterans'

Since the original article was published, Wellstone's office has consistently indicated that he knows nothing about the matter. He was joined in memory loss by other members of Congress, including Rep. Benjamin Gilman (R-N.Y.), a supposed conservative, whose representatives have indicated they know of no such effort by the Red Army vets living in the United States.

Before this article was written no less than five calls were made to Wellstone's office, where no one wanted to discuss the matter and every aide spoken to referred this writer to the senator's press secretary, Andrew McDonald, who was consistently unavailable. At the time this story was written he had not answered repeated messages left for him.

One aide did say that the matter has caused the senator's office "considerable concern". No doubt.

REPORTED IN NEW YORK

The fact that Wellstone met with the supposed former Reds appeared April 18, 1997 in The Jewish Week, published in New York City.

The fact that a Jewish publication would be interested in the story is because most of the Red Army vets are in fact Jewish, a point which was not raised in The SPOTLIGHT's initial story but which was brought to the attention of the newspaper by a reader, who chastised its editors in a letter for not mentioning it.

It was not germane, in the judgment of the writer, to the overall story at the time.

That the Red Army veterans have organized to lobby for U.S. VA benefits was duly reported in an extensive story that appeared in the New York Daily News on April 30, 1997, headlined, "Red Army vets eye a share of VA aid".

It would appear that Gilman and his aides are not familiar with one of the largest circulation daily newspapers published in New York, nor, it would seem, are they familiar with the fact that the former Red Army soldiers are organized as the American Association of Invalids and Veterans of World War II from Former USSR, as reported by The SPOTLIGHT in its initial story.

Perhaps they should read The SPOTLIGHT and their own New York daily.

LISTED PHONE

According to the New York daily association, which does not have a listed telephone number, it is located in a small second-story office in the Brighton Beach section of New York City, where many immigrants from the former Soviet Union have settled.

In fact, the Brighton Beach area of New York is known for what is called "the Russian Mafia", an international organized crime ring involved in smuggling, drug trafficking, money laundering, prostitution, nuclear substance smuggling, and so forth, stretching from New York directly to Moscow.

In fairness to Americans of Russian ethnic descent, most of these so-called “Russian” criminals are not Russian, but Russian-speaking Jews.—Ed.)

While demanding U.S. veterans’ benefits, the supposed former communists also observe every February 23 as Red Army Day.

A military attaché at the Russian Embassy in Washington told The SPOTLIGHT that the celebration, which dates back to 1918 and the Marxist takeover of imperial Russia, is now observed in Russia as Russian Armed Forces Day.

But it is not observed so by the Russian army vets seeking U.S. veterans’ benefits while they reside as refugees in the United States. To them it is still a big Red day.

There are obviously many critics in America of any thought of giving American veterans’ benefits to former communist soldiers of Stalin’s army.

The Russians have yet to account for thousands of American POWs captured by the Germans during World War II who were “liberated” by the Red Army, then disappeared into the Soviet gulags, never to be seen again.

And some of the Red Army vets living in the United States could have played an active part in both the Korean and Vietnam wars.

In Korea, as an example, the Russians now readily admit, even boast, that their pilots flew Soviet MiG-15 jet fighters responsible for shooting down American aircraft.

American POWs from both Korea and Vietnam have been reliably reported as being turned over to the Soviets, again never to return home.

Speaking for the Red Army vets in America, one of their kind, Vladimir Press, a former Red Army doctor, said, “We fought the Germans, too—and at a closer range—on our home territory. We want the same support that American veterans get.

However, Bill Smith, a spokesman for the U.S. Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) thinks otherwise.

“We have to take care of our own first,” Smith said.

He added that “we can support any measure in their nation as they try to gain vets’ entitlements”.

In any case, the Reds continue to lobby for U.S. veterans benefits, under the leadership of Leonid Rozenberg of Brooklyn, who founded their association in Brighton Beach two years ago.

Rozenberg, proudly wearing his Stalinist era medals, posed with his wife for the Daily News.

He could not be reached for comment. His telephone has been listed as “unpublished” since The SPOTLIGHT's first story.

Meanwhile, U.S. veterans are seeing their benefits eroding as new regulations are implemented. [End quoting]

When are we going to “get mad as hell and not take it anymore”??

LAW AND BUREAUCRATS COLLIDE OVER VETERANS

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by The Spotlight staff, 5/25/98: [quoting]

When the government refuses to respond to a simple question with a simple answer, what are we to think?

After The SPOTLIGHT reported (March 23, 1998) that veterans are in danger of losing health care benefits if they do not enroll with their local veterans hospital by October 1, 1998 the VA tried to “set the record straight”.

Information from its web site at <www.va.gov> as of May 11, says, “misinformation has led some veterans to wonder whether they will lose their eligibility for VA health-care services if they are not enrolled at VA by October 1, 1998. The answer is NO, (emphasis theirs) they will not lose their eligibility, but in most cases, they do need to apply for enrollment by contacting their nearest VA medical center”. (Italics added.)

Notice that one answer is capitalized, while an answer that is almost the direct opposite is downplayed. “In most cases” is not further described; neither is it explained why vets “need” to so enroll.

WHAT'S STRAIGHT?

The “record straightening” continues by saying, “Veterans can apply for enrollment AT ANY TIME that they come to a VA medical facility for care, even AFTER the trial enrollment period, which ends on October 1, 1998.” (Emphasis in the original.) This insert does not address the issue that the law passed by Congress specifies the date and does not call it a trial enrollment. A key section of the law is photographically reproduced with this story.

The whole law (PL 104-262) may be found at Federal Depository libraries. (Many university libraries are federal depositories and are open to the public.)

The SPOTLIGHT followed up by mailing a letter to Veterans Administration Secretary Togo West asking if the VA would comply with the law as passed by Congress, a copy of which was enclosed. A simple, straightforward yes or no answer was all that was required.

No answer was forthcoming, at which point The SPOTLIGHT called to inquire several times, and faxed the letter and enclosure twice more. None of the officials contacted would address the question of the law.

INTERPRETATION

At length A public relations staffer called to say he was interpreting the “may not” in the law to mean the VA had the choice of whether to follow it or not, as opposed to meaning “is not allowed”. He could not verify how VA attorneys or members of Congress will interpret those words.

A congressional staffer who worked on the legislation said that Congress did not intend the date to be optional, and that it was added (by the Senate) to give the law some teeth.

Before writing the original article, The SPOTLIGHT had called the general counsel’s office of the Veterans Administration and was told by phone that the law would be complied with.

Nothing is simple in a bureaucracy. Veterans who consider that they may want to some day use VA hospital benefits, may want to not only enroll at their nearest VA hospital but keep a photocopy of their enrollment form and either mail it registered so they have a return receipt, or hand deliver it and get the signature of the person accepting the form. Also, if a letter acknowledging the enrollment is not received, follow up.

This is not to say veterans are required to enroll by October 1, but it is also not to say they are not so required. No one in the government seems to know—or is saying. [End quoting]

CHAPTER 5

MICHAEL: COUNTERING THE DISTRACTIONS OF THE PHYSICAL

5/30/98 LORD MICHAEL

Good morning, my friend! It is I, Lord Michael, of the Archangelic realms. I come as a Messenger of Truth, sent by Our Father, the One Light—Creator God.

It has been a while since we have last communed in this manner. Allow for the energy to balance and settle.

We are thankful for yet another opportunity to share in this manner. Your world is truly on “borrowed time”. Many a great soul has contributed toward making this possible. They have done so out of great compassion for you each, so that you would be able to have these opportunities for experiencing that you now have. Look at your current challenges and be thankful for the opportunities that they present to you in terms of inner growth.

Each challenge presents a unique opportunity to learn something about YOURSELF. Every time that you feel frustrated about a “turn of events”, know that the frustration comes from within and is trying to TELL you something.

Learn to recognize and appreciate the experiences in life. There are no “chance” happenings, and with the proper point of view, you can see good in all of life’s experiences. You are never a victim, for the experience alone, whether it “seems” either good or bad, will always have the value of experiential growth.

I have come to remind you all that there are great unseen (but quite perceptible) forces at work this very day in order to ensure that God’s Divine Will shall be done. There is complete balance in ALL of His plans. Be assured that God’s plans include YOU! There are no mistakes made on His part, and if you are reading (or hearing) this message, then please know that it is meant for you.

We, of the Hosts of God, have said to you ones, time and time again, that these are grand times in which to be experiencing. Do NOT dwell upon the seemingly “negative” impact of life, for these “injustices” will be balanced by great redemption—if you but allow for the grace of God to flow naturally and uninhibited through you. The physical “play” on the stage of life that you ones are now experiencing is exactly what you NEED so that you can prepare yourselves for the next step forward in terms of your consciousness as a being.

All experience is connected in some way to achieving this one basic goal: GROWTH OF THE SOUL. The physical experience, while quite beneficial as a teaching environment, is quite temporal and thus tedious to the participants. Ones are almost always trying to speed up the clock

(in terms of sequence of events) while at the same time complaining about not having enough time! This paradox of thought causes unneeded internal pressures that could be avoided by simply remembering the larger picture of why it is that you are there in the first place.

Time, as many of you now perceive, is changing. Those of you who can look twenty-plus years back in your own conscious memory will know that “something” has changed. There are ever increasing demands upon you, both mentally and physically—and yet there seems to be less and less time to address these demands.

Be not frustrated by these perceptual differences. They are for very good reasons and not all of these reasons are natural in origin. This is to say that there is great electronic bombardment that is specifically targeting the physical body, as well as keeping the brain in a semi-conscious state.

Many of you can relate to experiences of great emotional and physical trauma, such as being involved in an automobile “accident”. (There are no accidents, but we are stuck with using terminology familiar to you.) Your perception of time slows down during such traumatic situations, and events appear to happen in slow motion.

What has actually changed?

Your consciousness shifted more fully (if not completely) to the present moment and thus you are able to take-in all of the details at perhaps 10 to 100 times your normal rate. This intense focus of thought gives the illusion of “slowed” time. Conversely, if ones can cause you to defocus your thoughts, then the opposite will occur, and you will find that “time” just seems to “slip by”.

These electronic devices are tuned to very specific frequencies in order to interact with your natural brain-wave functioning in such a manner as to cause you to “lose” your thoughts. This defocusing mechanism will also cause ringing in the ears of most people. The ringing itself will cause a conscious distraction, but be assured that there are other effects (none of them good) upon mental and physical processes due to these UN-natural electronic manipulations.

However, such electronic mind-control is beginning to “backfire” on the ones who are attempting to enslave you. That is to say, these dark elite controllers are attempting to get you to change your thinking in many areas simultaneously. But, since the majority of the people are too mentally scattered (from all the electronic pulsing) to notice, they simply go on believing that nothing has changed. Thus they will not realize that they have been enslaved or that the United Nations now runs the United States. THIS, THEN, RESULTS IN A LACK OF RESPECT (OR FEAR) FOR THE AUTHORITY OF THE WOULD-BE-RULERS OF YOUR PLANET!

There is never the element of Divine Balance within the plans of those who wish to manipulate and control others, no matter how elaborate or sophisticated these ones think they are. This is why they will never win and why God always wins.

God’s plans have a perfect balance to them, wherein EVERYONE who participates wins; there are no losers. And yet, from the balanced viewpoint of the larger picture, God allows for unbalanced conditions to exist and play out. They provide exceptional learning opportunities for individuals as ones are caused to search for that which will restore balance—and more importantly, find and understand what caused the out-of-balance condition in the first place.

I, Michael, am credited with having done battle with Lucifer and casting him out of Heaven. I simply demanded of him that he maintain a certain level of high-frequency emotional ethics. When he could no longer maintain these standards of vibrational ethics, he was, by his own hand, forced to leave my presence and find a match for his frequency vibration. I was simply exercising my right to maintain my own high-level standards. I would not lower myself to his level!

My actions stood as example to others in the Archangelic realm, and they, too, demanded high-level standards, and thus Lucifer and those who would not allow for their frequency to raise were “cast out” BY THEIR OWN HAND. Let not the misperception of the biblical accounts let you come to the erroneous conclusion that he was forced to leave. God’s laws are not of force! He left as a result of his own free-will choices.

Likewise, you each can demand that only high-frequency energies be allowed within your space. When you do so with sincere (heart-felt) intent, the dark ones will leave, for we of the higher realms will always show up to assist when a sincere petition is expressed. (Note well: The heart-felt intent is very important here. We will gladly lower our frequency to meet you part-way when the intention or call is sincere.) When we show up, they leave, just as they have always done! This is the basic mechanism behind the technique of “clearing your space” and why it works.

Please know that we can assist you ones in overcoming the effects of the electronic bombardment—if you but clear your space and call upon the Lighted Brotherhood for assistance. We will come and offer focus, if that be your desire. When you can remain directly and deliberately focused upon a goal, then there will be greater efficiency in your use of time. When you focus with goodly (Godly) intent in your heart, there will always come an answer to your petition for assistance.

Let not any distractions of the physical environment—be they natural or un-natural—keep you from connecting within to Higher Source. The dark elite controllers are trying every way they know to keep you Lighted ones from making and maintaining this most important inner connection.

Remember that YOU are a unique fragment of God and within His realm the possibilities are without limit! Thus is the importance of YOUR connection within to Source.

Keep, always, the larger picture in mind, and learn to appreciate those experiences that cause you to feel frustration, for the frustration is begging you to look deeper within so that a greater lesson about self can be recognized.

I am Lord Michael of the Archangelic realms and biblical “fame”. I have come so that clarity about past misperceptions can be set to right, for that is God’s promise at this time in your evolution upon Earth-Shan. I come also as a Messenger for God, so that His Divine Will be done.

In Light, blessings to you all! Salu.

FALLEN ANGELS & SERPENT PEOPLE THE ADVERSARY BY ANY OTHER NAME AN EXAMINATION OF MYTHOLOGY & HISTORY PART 1: THE FALL FROM GRACE

by Rick Martin 6/2/98

It all started simply enough, a brief flash of a concept for a story—no big deal. I started researching from many, many esoteric sources the subject of Lucifer and his so-called “fallen” band of angels, as well as investigating the concept of the serpent race. As I moved from “Creation” through history, the sheer volume of material became, literally, overwhelming. After several months of reading from an eclectic range of sources and continually coming up with new aspects to this recurring theme throughout history, I realized the job I had embarked upon was, simply put, too big. It was a lot like trying to write a new history of the world; pretty weighty stuff. That was about the time I decided to regroup and take a different approach. What you are about to read is that pared-down, streamlined crack at a very complex subject. So with that in mind, let’s get started with this new series.

IN THE BEGINNING...

The first real reference to serpent in allegory, representing “evil” appears in The First Book of Moses, called GENESIS: [quoting]

Chapter 3: Now the serpent was more subtle than all the wild beasts that the Lord God had made. And the serpent said to the woman, Truly has God said that you shall not eat of any tree of the garden?

2 And the woman said to the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of all the trees of the garden;

3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God has said, You shall not eat of it, neither shall you touch it, lest you die.

4 And the serpent said to the woman, You shall not surely die;

5 For God knows that in the day you eat of it, your eyes shall be opened, and you shall be like gods, knowing good and evil.

6 So when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and that the tree was delightful to look at, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and she also gave to her husband with her; and he did eat.

7 Then the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons.

8 And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day; and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God among the trees of the garden.

9 And the Lord God called to Adam, and said to him, Where are you, Adam?

10 And he said, I heard Thy voice in the garden, and when I saw that I was naked, I hid myself.

11 And the Lord God said to him, Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten of the tree of which I commanded you that you should not eat?

12 And Adam said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the fruit of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the Lord God said to the woman, What is this that you have done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

14 And the Lord God said to the serpent, Because you have done this thing, cursed are you above all cattle, and above all beast of the field; on your belly shall you go, and dust shall you eat all the days of your life;

IDIOMS EXPLAINED

In his book titled Idioms In The Bible Explained (A Key to the Holy Scriptures), George M. Lamsa writes: [quoting]

Darkness. Genesis 1:4—Ignorance; lack of enlightenment and understanding.

Tree of life in the midst of the garden. Genesis 2:9—Sex; posterity, progeny.

The tree of the knowledge of good and evil. Genesis 2:9—Moral law; the knowledge of good and evil.

The tree of good and evil. Genesis 2:17—Metaphorically—sexual relationship.

Serpent. Genesis 3:1—An enemy; deception.

The dragon. Rev. 12:13—Evil forces; adversary—opposition to the truth. Also a dictator.

REVELATION 12

[Quoting, also from Lamsa's Holy Bible:]

7 And there was war in heaven. Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon and his angels fought.

8 But did not prevail, neither was their place found any longer in heaven.

9 Thus the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent called the Devil and Satan, who deceives the whole world; he was cast out on the Earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

THE SERPENT

Throughout the ages, the serpent has been representative of many things, not just evil. It is represented, in many cultures, as fertility; in others, longevity, wisdom, and in some cases, immortality.

In Manly P. Hall's The Secret Teachings Of All Ages, we read another theory on the subject of what the serpent represents: "The tree that grows in the midst of the garden is the spinal fire; the knowledge of the use of that spinal fire is the gift of the great serpent."

In Isis Unveiled, H.P. Blavatsky makes this statement concerning the origin of serpent worship: "Before our globe had become egg-shaped or round it was a long trail of cosmic dust or fire-mist, moving and writhing like a serpent. This, say the explanations, was the Spirit of God moving on the chaos until its breath had incubated cosmic matter and made it assume the annular shape of a serpent with its tail in its mouth—emblem of eternity in its spiritual and of our world in its physical sense."

[Quoting further from Manly P. Hall's The Secret Teachings Of All Ages:] The seven-headed snake represents the Supreme Deity manifesting through His Elohim, or Seven Spirits, by whose aid He established His universe. The coils of the snake have been used by the pagans to symbolize the motion and also the orbits of the celestial bodies, and it is probable that the symbol of the serpent twisted around the egg—which was common to many of the ancient Mystery schools—represented both the apparent motion of the Sun around the Earth, and the bands of astral light, or the great magical agent, which move about the planet incessantly.

Electricity was commonly symbolized by the serpent because of its motion. Electricity passing between the poles of a spark gap is serpentine in its motion. Force projected through atmosphere was called The Great Snake. Being symbolic of universal force, the serpent was emblematic of both good and evil. Force can tear down as rapidly as it can build up. The serpent with its tail in its mouth is the symbol of eternity, for in this position the body of the reptile is the symbol of eternity, for in this position the body of the reptile has neither beginning nor end. The head and tail represent the positive and negative poles of the cosmic life circuit. The initiates of the Mysteries were often referred to as serpents, and their wisdom was considered analogous to the divinely inspired power of the snake. There is no doubt that the title “Winged Serpents” (the Seraphim?) was given to one of the invisible hierarchies that labored with the Earth during its early formation.

KUNDALINI

In Ormond McGill’s Hypnotism and Mysticism of India, we read: [quoting]

At the lower end of the sushumna (the base of the spinal cord) is found a subtle invisible substance, a tenuous form of akasha in the shape of a triangle. This triangular shaped substance is known as “the Lotus Chamber of the Kundalini”, and is the reservoir or storage center of a certain very powerful form of prana (life-force) which is called kundalini. Kundalini is often referred to as “the secret energy” or “the serpent power” in Hindu teachings. It is regarded as of the greatest importance, and is held as the key of power in many magical and occult processes.

[Still quoting McGill, later...]

There are several reasons for the kundalini being called “the serpent power” by the Hindus. In the first place, the “coiled-up” position of the inactive kundalini is akin to that of the serpent. Again, the “wriggling motion” of the ascending kundalini, in its spiral mounting of the sushumna, closely resembles that of the moving serpent. In its dormant, sleeping state, the kundalini is sometimes represented by the familiar occult symbol of the serpent holding its tail in its mouth, or having swallowed its tail.

In this symbolic representation, however, the Hindus have no intention of ascribing an evil character to the power in showing it as a serpent. On the contrary, they employ the serpent as a symbol of wisdom and power, and it is abundantly active in high states of consciousness, or, as it has been called by esoteric scholars in the West, cosmic consciousness. This is why the kundalini power is used in meditation. The art of meditation was presented in depth in volume two of this trilogy, Religious Mysteries of the Orient.

There is wisdom and knowledge expressed in the phrase of antiquity, “Be ye wise as the serpent.”

Just a word of caution to the readers, in the next two sections you will read some pretty esoteric and exotic references, many of which will be unfamiliar to you. Please try not to bog down on them; but rather, keep reading so you can get the overall (or general) concept of the intended message.

THE COSMIC SERPENT

In A Dictionary of Symbols by Jean Chevalier and Alain Gheerbrant we read: “Serpent symbolism is, in fact, linked to the notion of life itself. In Arabic the word for ‘serpent’ is el-hayyah, and that for ‘life’, el-hayat.”

Elsewhere in this same source we read: [quoting]

From the macrocosmic viewpoint, the kundalini's equivalent is the serpent Ananta which wraps its coils round the base of the World Axis. Ananta is associated with Vishnu and Shiva and symbolizes cyclical expansion and contraction, but, as guardian of the nadir, he carries the world upon himself and ensures its stability. When building a house in India, as with all houses which should stand at the center of the world, a pile is sunk into the head of the subterranean naga, once geomancy has established where it lies. Those who carry the world are sometimes elephants, bulls, tortoises, crocodiles and so on, but they are only surrogates for, or different animals in the shapes of, the serpent in its original role. Thus the Sanskrit word naga means both 'serpent' and 'elephant' ... These 'animals of power' are very often depicted by their heads at the end of a serpent's body, or they may themselves be supported by a serpent. In every instance, they stand for the terrestrial aspect, that is the strength and aggression of the manifestation of the great god of darkness who, throughout the world, is a serpent.

There are two ways of sustaining something. It may either be carried, or enfolded by creating an unbroken circle around it to prevent its falling apart. This second role is filled, once again, by the serpent biting its tail, the ouroboros. In this context, the circumference complements the center so as to suggest Nicolas of Cusa's notion of God himself. The ouroboros is also the symbol of cyclical manifestation and return, sexual auto-intercourse, perpetual self-fertilization (as the tail penetrating the mouth would indicate), continuous transformation of death into life, since its fangs inject their poison into its body; or, in Bachelard's words, it is 'the material dialectic of life and death, death springing from life and life from death'. While it conjures up the image of the circle, it is predominantly the circle's dynamism, that is, the first wheel, apparently motionless because it revolves on its own axis, but with perpetual motion since it is continuously self-renewed. Universal life-giver, the ouroboros provides the motive power, not only of life, but of time, creating both within itself. It is often depicted in the shape of a twisted chain, its links the hours. Setting the stars in motion, it is also the first representation and mother of the Zodiac. An old symbol of an Old God of Nature dethroned by the spirit, the ouroboros remained a powerful cosmographic and geographic deity and, as such, was carved around the edges of the earliest representations of the world, like what is undoubtedly the earliest Black African imago mundi, the Benin Disc. Its sinuosities frame all things, bringing together opposites, the primeval oceans on which floats the square shape of the Earth.

Terrifying in its anger, it becomes the Jewish Leviathan or the Norse Midgardorm which, the Edda tell us, 'was older than the gods themselves', causing the tides when he drank and storms when he belched. Returning to the cosmogenetic level, the serpent is Ocean itself, its nine whorls encircling the Earth and its tenth, so Hesiod states in his Theogony, running beneath it to form the Styx. In the final analysis this emanation of formless primeval matter, from which all things spring and to which all things return to be renewed, may be likened to an object thrown from one hand and caught by the other. Underworld and ocean, primordial waters and the depths of the Earth, simply compose that materia prima, primeval matter, from which the serpent is made. The serpent was the first water-spirit, and is the spirit of the waters below, on and above the Earth's surface. Krappe stresses the fact that countless rivers in Greece and Asia Minor bore the names of Ophis (Snake) or Draco (Dragon), and then there were 'Father' Rhine and 'Mother' Volga and the river-god, Deus Sequana, the Seine. Very often the attributes of the animal-shape adopted explain the heavenly or earthly functions of the river-deity. Virgil's 'horned' Tiber may be explained as a depiction of the serpent which has taken to itself the strength of the bull, typified by its horns. Similarly, the Acheloo, the greatest river of Ancient Greece, successively took the shapes of serpent and bull to combat Herakles (Hercules). As the deity of clouds and fecundating rain, serpents so common in Celtic and, particularly, in Gaulish iconography—or of birds. These are the Far Eastern winged dragons and their Central American counterparts, the Plumed Serpents. [see next page]

THE EGG & THE SERPENT

In Blavasky's The Secret Doctrine, we read: [quoting]

The creative God emerges from the egg that issues from the mouth of Kneph—as a winged serpent—because the Serpent is the symbol of the All-wisdom. With the Hebrews he is glyphed by the “flying or fiery serpents” of the Wilderness and Moses, and with the Alexandrian mystics he becomes the Ophio-Christos, the Logos of the Gnostics. The Protestants try to show that the allegory of the Brazen Serpent and of the “fiery serpents” has a direct reference to the mystery of Christ and Crucifixion*; but it has a far nearer relation, in truth, to the mystery of generation, when dissociated from the egg with the central germ, or the circle with its central point. The brazen Serpent had no such holy meaning as that; nor was it, in fact, glorified above the “fiery serpents” for the bite of which it was only a natural remedy. The symbolical meaning of the word “brazen” being the feminine principle, and that of fiery, or “gold” the male one.^

[Footnote: And this only because the brazen serpent was lifted on a pole! It had rather a reference to Mico the Egyptian egg standing upright supported by the Sacred Tau; since the Egg and the Serpent are inseparable in the old worship and symbology of Egypt, and since both the Brazen and “fiery” serpents were Saraphs, the “burning fiery” messengers, or the serpent Gods, the nagas of India. It was a purely phallic symbol without the egg, while when associated with it—it related to cosmic creation.]

When, after studying symbology, the Christian reader comes to understand the innermost meaning of these three symbols—water, brazen, the serpent, and a few more—in the sense given to them in the Holy Bible, he will hardly like to connect the sacred name of his Saviour with the “Brazen Serpent” incident. The Seraphim (fiery winged serpents) are no doubt connected with, and inseparable from, the idea “of the serpent of eternity—God”, as explained in Kenealy's Apocalypse. But the word cherub also meant serpent, in one sense, though its direct meaning is different; because the Cherubim and the Persian winged “griffins”—the guardians of the golden mountain—are the same, and their compound name shows their character, as it is formed of (kr) circle, and “aub” or ob—serpent—therefore, a “serpent in a circle”. And this settles the phallic character of the Brazen Serpent, and justifies Hezekiah for breaking it. (See II, Kings, 18,4). Verbum sat. sapienti.

Further into The Secret Doctrine, we read: [quoting]

It is easy to see whence the primal idea of this dual, Janus-like character of the Serpent: the good and the bad. This symbol is one of the most ancient, because the reptile preceded the bird, and the bird the mammal. Thence the belief, or rather the superstition, of the savage tribes who think that the souls of their ancestors live under this form, and the general association of the Serpent with the tree. The legends about the various things it represents are numberless; but, as most of them are allegorical, they have now passed into the class of fables based on ignorance and dark superstition. For instance, when Philostratus narrates that the natives of India and Arabia fed on the heart and liver of serpents in order to learn the knowledge of all the animals, the serpent being credited with that faculty, he certainly never meant his words to be accepted literally. (See De Vita Apollonii, lib. I, c. xiv.) As will be found more than once as we proceed, the “Serpent” and “Dragon” were the names given to the “Wise Ones”, the initiated adepts of olden times. It was their wisdom and their learning that were devoured or assimilated by their followers, whence the allegory. When the Scandinavian Sigurd is fabled to have roasted the heart of Fafnir, the Dragon, whom he had slain, becoming thereby the wisest of men, it meant the same thing. Sigurd had become learned in the runes and magical charms; he had received the “word” from an initiate of that name, or from a sorcerer, after which the latter died, as many do, after “passing the word”. Epiphanius lets out a secret of the Gnostics while trying to expose their heresies. The Gnostic Ophites, he says, had a reason for honoring the Serpent: it was because he taught the primeval men the Mysteries (Adv. Haeres. 37). Verily so; but they did not have Adam and Eve in the garden in their minds when teaching this dogma, but simply that which is stated above. The Nagas of the Hindu and Tibetan adepts were human Nagas (Serpents), not reptiles.

As a symbol, the Serpent had as many aspects and occult meanings as the Tree itself; the “Tree of Life”, with which it was emblematically and almost indissolubly connected. Whether viewed as a metaphysical or a physical symbol, the Tree and Serpent, jointly, or separately, have never been so degraded by antiquity as they are now, in this our age of the breaking of idols, not for truth’s sake, but to glorify the more gross matter. The revelations and interpretations in “The Rivers of Life” would have astounded the worshippers of the Tree and Serpent in the days of archaic Chaldean and Egyptian wisdom; and even the early Saivas would have recoiled in horror at the theories and suggestions of the author of the said work.

[Jumping ahead now, still quoting:]

These forms were Cosmic and astronomical, theistic and pantheistic, abstract and concrete. They became in turn the Polar Dragon and the Southern Cross, the Alpha Draconis of the Pyramid, and the Hindu-

Buddhist Dragon, which ever threatens, yet never swallows the Sun during its eclipses. Till then, the Tree remained ever green, for it was sprinkled by the waters of life; the great Dragon, ever divine, so long as it was kept within the precincts of the sidereal fields. But the tree grew and its lower boughs touched at last the infernal regions—our Earth. Then the great serpent Nidhogg—he who devours the corpses of the evil-doers in the “Hall of Misery” (human life), so soon as they are plunged into “Hwergelmir,” the roaring cauldron (of human passions)—gnawed the World-tree. The worms of materiality covered the once healthy and mighty roots, and are now ascending higher and higher along the trunk; while the Midgard-snake coiled at the bottom of the Seas, encircles the Earth, and, through its venomous breath, makes her powerless to defend herself.

They are all seven-headed, the dragons and serpents of antiquity—”one head for each race, and every head with seven hairs on it,” as the allegory has it.

THE KORAN

In The Koran Interpreted we read: [quoting]

We sent not ever any Messenger or Prophet before thee, but that Satan cast into his fancy, when he was fancying;
but God annuls what Satan casts, then God confirms His signs—surely God is All-knowing, All-wise—that He may make what Satan casts a trial for those in whose hearts is sickness, and those whose hearts are hard; and surely the evildoers are in wide schism;
and that they who have been given knowledge may know that it is the truth from thy Lord and believe in it, and so their hearts be humble unto Him; and assuredly God ever guides those who believe to a straight path.

And the unbelievers will not cease to be in doubt of it, until the Hour comes on them suddenly, or there shall on the day when their tongues, their hands and their feet shall testify against them touching that they were doing.

Upon that day God will pay them in full their just due, and they shall know that God is the manifest Truth.

MAYA

In the Autobiography Of A Yogi by Paramahansa Yogananda, we read the following: [quoting]

The Vedic scriptures declare that the physical world operates under one fundamental law of maya, the principle of relativity and duality. God, the Sole Life, is Absolute Unity; to appear as the separate and diverse manifestations of a creation He wears a false or unreal veil. That illusory dualistic veil is maya. Many great scientific discoveries of modern times have confirmed this simple pronouncement of the ancient rishis (seer, sage).

Newton's Law of Motion is the law of maya. "To every action there is always an equal and contrary reaction; the mutual actions of any two bodies are always equal and oppositely directed." Action and reaction are thus exactly equal. "To have a single force is impossible. There must be, and always is, a pair of forces equal and opposite."

Fundamental natural activities all betray their mayic origin. Electricity, for example, is a phenomenon of repulsion and attraction; its electrons and protons are electrical opposites. Another example: the atom or final particle of matter is, like the Earth itself, a magnet with positive and negative poles. The entire phenomenal world is under the inexorable sway of polarity; no law of physics, chemistry, or any other science is ever found free from inherent opposite or contrasted principles.

Physical science, then, cannot formulate laws outside of maya: the very fabric and structure of creation. Nature herself is maya; natural science perforce deals with her ineluctable quiddity. In her own domain, she is eternal and inexhaustible; future scientists can do no more than probe one aspect after another of her varied infinitude. Science thus remains in a perpetual flux, unable to reach finality; fit indeed to discover the laws of an already existing and functioning cosmos but powerless to detect the Law Framer and Sole Operator. The majestic manifestations of gravitation and electricity have become known, but what gravitation and electricity are, no mortal knoweth.* [Footnote: Marconi, the great inventor, made the following admission of scientific inadequacy before the finalities: "The inability of science to solve life is absolute. This fact would be truly frightening were it not for faith. The mystery of life is certainly the most persistent problem ever placed before the thought of man."]

To surmount maya was the task assigned to the human race by the millennial prophets. To rise above the duality of creation and perceive the unity of the Creator was conceived of as man's highest goal. Those who cling to the cosmic illusion must accept its essential law of polarity: flow and ebb, rise and fall, day and night, pleasure and pain, good and evil, birth and death. This cyclic pattern assumes a certain anguishing monotony after man has gone through a few thousand human births; he begins then to cast a hopeful eye beyond the compulsions of maya.

To remove the veil of maya is to uncover the secret of creation. He who thus denudes the universe is the only true monotheist. All others are worshiping heathen images. So long as man remains subject to the dualistic illusions of Nature, the Janus-faced Maya is his goddess; he cannot know the one true God.

The world illusion, maya, manifests in men as avidya, literally, “not knowledge”, ignorance, delusion.

[Still quoting from a different chapter:]

Cosmic illusion; literally, “the measurer”. Maya is the magical power in creation by which limitations and divisions are apparently present in the Immeasurable and Inseparable.

Emerson wrote the following poem about Maya (which he spelled Maia):

Illusion works impenetrable,
Weaving webs innumerable;
Her gay pictures never fail,
Crowd each other, veil on veil;
Charmer who will be believed
By man who thirsts to be deceived.

[End quoting]

GOOD VS. EVIL

In Sri Aurobindo’s The Life Divine, in the chapter titled “The Origin and Remedy of Falsehood, Error, Wrong and Evil”, we read: [quoting]

If ignorance is in its nature a self-limiting knowledge oblivious of the integral self-awareness and confined to an exclusive concentration in a single field or upon a concealing surface of cosmic movement, what, in this view, are we to make of the problem which most poignantly preoccupies the mind of man when it is turned on the mystery of his own existence and of cosmic existence, the problem of evil? A limited knowledge supported by a secret All-Wisdom as an instrument for working out within the necessary limitations a restricted world-order may be admitted as an intelligible process of the universal Consciousness and Energy; but the necessity of falsehood and error, the necessity of wrong and evil or their utility in the workings of the omnipresent Divine Reality is less easily admissible. And yet if that Reality is what we have supposed it to be, there must of some necessity for the appearance of these contrary phenomena, some significance, some function that they had to serve in the economy of the universe.

LUCIFER’S FALL FROM GRACE

In a writing received by Dharma on May 23, 1989, Sananda writes: [quoting]

Who wrote Genesis? Was it Elija? Job? Zuse? Dionus? Moses? Adam and Eve? Perhaps Isaiah? Ah so! Do I make my point? Perhaps it was Aton; He certainly knew of it. Lucifer? Probably not, for by this time he was called Satan, serpent, Devil. Why was he called these things instead of Lucifer?

I AM Sananda who comes again this day, Dharma, to speak concerning these things which must come into balance that you might be prepared in truth and not fable.

Lucifer was created in total perfection. His name, alone, gives cause to pause; it means “the Son of the Morning”, “Prince of the Dawn”, “The Morning Star” and “The Shining One”. He was given the “seal of perfection”. Father spoke of him as the “anointed one”, which meant supreme favor with Father God. This was the greatest being God had created, one who had unequaled strength, wisdom, beauty, privilege, and authority.

The highest and most exalted position of the spirit realm was held by Lucifer, a creature who was perfect in all of his ways from the day of his creation. How could such perfection come to be the greatest adversary (Satan) known to the Universe? How could he fall to the level of “Devil” (accuser; slanderer)? How could perfection come into total imperfection?

The highest position in the angelic realm was held by Lucifer, a creature who was perfect in all of his ways from the day he was created. Hatonn has often been questioned when he refers to himself and to you ones as “creatures”. Precious ones, all things or beings created by God are creatures, just as the label implies. I, Sananda, am a creature of Father God. No insult, the supreme compliment of the universal existence. Perfection of form does not just happen in accidental bumbling. I will, however, clarify terminology to be more exacting of definition. Since the creations of Adam and Eve, the human has been “born” rather than individually “created”, but, born in the image of the perfect creation and in likeness (soul essence) of God our Father. The birthed babe is blessed with the gift of “soul” by Father and agreement of Spirit (Holy Ghost), and of the Son. We will discuss the patterns of possession of the child at a later time.

Well, precious ones, Lucifer blundered terribly—you would call it ego take-over in its finest hour. His “WILL” was his destruction for he used it wrongly, and since the perfection of the Garden of Eden it is used wrongly. Lucifer was given dominion over all magnificent creations of the spiritual world but his own perfection was his ultimate downfall. God realized there was the imperfection of unrighteousness within his being. Lucifer was not content to “rule”, he proclaimed his “will” and chose to place himself above Creator. He proclaimed: “I will ascend to Heaven,” and, “I will be worshiped as God Creator,” and ultimately he confronted Creator and proclaimed: “I WILL be like the Most High.”

When the confrontation occurred there was a great rebellion which erupted throughout the universe. Lucifer led, of course, this revolution among the angelic realms. At least a third of the angels followed him into his downfall. He lost none of his perfection of beauty, intellect or power; therefore he could entice others of the angelic entities to join with him. What he lost forevermore, was his personal relationship with Father God. He was not given the power to “create” and was destined forevermore to need utilize “other” for his own experience. He was a being without nation or home, always to be apart from Creator.

Lucifer became the first imperfect, unrighteous (sinful) creature. He and his angels were brought to trial before God and JUDGMENT was pronounced upon him. The realms of perfection were now imperfect. His name of perfection (Lucifer) was stricken from him and he was called Satan, the Devil (The Evil One). This was the birth of “evil” for it passed beyond the acts of mere “sinful behavior”.

[End quoting.]

SATAN’S DRUMMERS

In Satan’s Drummers—The Secret Beat Of Evil—“Satan” Is Alive And Well (a Phoenix Journal), Sananda writes: [quoting]

I, Sananda, will be in the penning of this journal. It shall regard the subject of Evil, Lucifer, Satan and the generally negative aspects of the Dark Brotherhood. Just as one of your American newspaper editors said: “Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Clause,” I must announce in the same manner: “Yes, Humanity of Earth, there is a Satan.” Further, the concept, the energy, has gained control of you as a species and caused you to disobey every Law of The Creation and the very Laws of a planet which allows the orbiting entity to survive in balance. Therefore, periodically, she (Earth or any humanized planet), cyclically re-balances herself. It is usually done in an ultimate shifting of poles upon the established axis. This readjusts everything and allows a basic “start-over”.

Each time this occurs, the creations of Creator are readjusted, restationed, sorted, removed, left to endure and begin again as primitive minds—with a few teachers that they ultimately believe to be Gods, and on and on ad infinitum. Humanity grows a bit, keeps the Laws for a while for they have no choice, and then, as technology progresses, greed, lust and pleasure (Evil, my brothers), invades the very fibre of the species. Again he cycles into unbalance, destruction, greedy exploitation and finally, disaster—only the labels are changed; not for protection of the innocent for there are so few by that point in evolution—but rather, because the eons of “being” have changed the names on the progression of life. You shall find and recognize those energies who re-present themselves into your consciousness and you will be able to evaluate your own individual progression. Have you made the grade or have you failed the course?

The ones who graduate with honor and discipline shall be gathered into the higher realms, the ones who have “flunked” will be resettled to continue the education and some will simply go forth to abide within the actual circles of the evil recombinants.

Evil is much like the AIDS mutant retroviruses; it creeps into the very fibre and “DNA” structure of soul essence whereby the entity is left to destruction, illness, or cured. How many will be cured? Ah, but that is free-will choice of man—man chooses, we of the higher dimensional realms do not—we just come forth to receive of you. And you brethren who have “chosen” the path of evil shall be gathered by the evil hosts.

However, since Satan is the directly opposed realization of God-ness, you shall experience the lie in full action. Evil is “lack of truth and love”—evil cannot create but rather, can only destroy—and the tools are

YOU! The dark ones tempt and prod and blind the manifested conscience through all manner of ways and then in the end you are left to face the lie alone. For the human physical emotions are not left without any physicalness at the transition. THAT, IS THE LIE! YOU WHO BECOME SERVANTS OF THE LIE ARE LEFT WITH THE DREGS THEREOF AND THE PLACES THE EVIL FORCES HAVE PREPARED FOR THEIR WORKERS ARE THE PLACES SEPARATED FROM LIGHTED CREATOR—INTO A VOID WHEREBY ONLY THAT WHICH YOU HAVE CREATED, IN HUMAN FORMAT, WITHIN THE SOUL ENERGY, IS LEFT FOR THE INDIVIDUAL ENERGY TO EXPERIENCE. THERE ARE NONE OF THOSE WONDROUS HUMAN PLEASURES NOR SOFT BEDS AND WARM POSSESSIONS FOR THOSE ARE LEFT TO THE HUMAN EXISTENCE AND YOU WILL NO LONGER HAVE OF THAT SPECIAL DIMENSION OF GROWTH. IF THE HUMAN PHYSICAL FORMAT CONTINUES, IT CONTINUES IN THE DARKNESS OF IGNORANCE FOR THE VEIL OF FORGETFULNESS SHALL BE DRAWN AGAIN—FOR, AS A MAN THINKS AND BELIEVES, SO HE IS!

[Still quoting, further into the book:]

IS SATAN REAL?

“Is Satan real? It appears from what Commanders Hatonn and Ashtar say, that they indicate him to be a being in ‘reality’. I have been led to believe he (it) is a force and further, ones receiving from higher dimensions have been told that Satan, as such, is not valid in entity format.” Please be kind if this is a bit misquoted for I wish the “concept” of content and not exacting words. I am greatly indebted to John for this inquiry, for it falls into the category of “most asked questions”.

These are most difficult questions to respond to accurately for the insight of man, his education if you will, is insufficient to understand the simple response that “all is illusion and experience of God mind”. What appears real is as real as any other perception. A pain that “hurts” is as real if imagined as if a physical mishap has occurred. To fully understand, you must first understand soul, illusion, reality and physical manifestation—none of which I will explain in fullness in this particular segment of this document—it deserves its own journal.

However, we are bringing you, as rapidly as is possible, the pertinent information for a world in crises—first let us look at the wounds and effort at bandaids that the patient might survive, then we can ponder other realities. First must come credibility so that you Earthbound ones can recognize of our validity and credibility—then we can make great strides forward.

[A shift now to Hatonn writing, further into this chapter:]

Now, I would most like to respond to J.S. regarding Satan as a being or a force. It is most difficult to respond in any sense relative to perception of human input. Bear with me, please, as I would have preferred to have Sananda or Germain or Michael respond to this matter, however, Ashtar and myself have created the question so I will endeavor to respond—as in fourth-dimension perception which is not so removed from your status.

I will insert, however, that one of the very next documents will cover the subject of “EVIL” in great substance. It was not originally intended that Dharma would need carry the burden of the myriad of fragmented subject matter, but ones of the scribes who had been intended to share the load, have stumbled into traps along the way. We will do the best we can in the limitations of human “time”. Please be kind if our answers are not as full as would be desirable.

Is Satan “real”? I must respond with a question: “Is Christ ‘real’?” Is the physical format “real”? NO! NOT IN THE PHYSICAL SENSE OF THE QUESTION AS ASKED. YES! IN THE TRUE SENSE OF PERCEPTION OF CONSCIOUSNESS.

Now, your senses tell you that you are manifested reality—you are a massive thought form and you are stuck with that perception; therefore, the circumstance must be handled through a drastic change of the “CAUSAL POINT”, that the reflection and perception be a redirection of the energy flow—since ALL is MIND—the MIND of individual and “whole” must be redirected into truth and away from the incorrect “illusion”. NOW, ISN’T THIS JUST THE MOST WONDROUS GAME OF UNIVERSAL INTRIGUE? I DO NOT JEST, THIS IS THE MOST WONDROUS EXPERIENCE ALLOWED FOR THE MIND OF MAN WHO WAS CREATED BY CREATOR, WITHIN THE CREATION, FOR THE SUBSTANCE OF REFLECTED LIGHT-ENERGY FROM THE CREATOR SOURCE, ITSELF, GIVEN THE GIFT OF FREE-WILL CHOICE AND NON-JUDGMENTAL ALLOWANCES OF ACTION—ACTION/MOTION, TOO, IS AN ILLUSION WHICH YOU WILL MOVE BEYOND IN YOUR TRANSITION INTO HIGHER TRUTH WITHOUT TIME OR SPACE LIMITATIONS. THIS IS NOT ONLY NOT “AGAINST” THE UNIVERSAL LAWS—IT “IS” THE LAW OF THE CREATION AND COSMIC PHYSICS.

MY DEAR FRIENDS, YOU ARE THE REFLECTION OF THE GOD SOURCE EXPERIENCING IN HIS CHOSEN FORMAT—”HIS WONDROUS ‘PLAY’”, IF YOU WILL.

THERE IS NO WAY TO “EXPLAIN” A CONCEPT AS PERSONAL AS THE BREATHING OF AN INDIVIDUAL. YOU WHO WORK SO CLOSELY IN THE NETWORK OF PULLING THESE THOUGHT FRAGMENTS BACK INTO FOCUS AND SPIRALING BACK INTO SOURCE MUST REALIZE HOW WELL YOU ARE TENDED FOR YOU ARE THE CONDUITS FOR THE FOCUSING OF SUCH MAGNIFICENT ENERGY SO THAT THE PLAY CLOSES IN PERFECTION AND THE STAGE BE SET FORTH FOR THE NEXT.

I RUN A RISK AT THIS POINT, IN PRESENTING SUCH A DISCUSSION, FOR WE WILL LOSE, AT THIS POINT, SOME VERY DEDICATED RESEARCHERS—SO BE IT, FOR IF WE DO NOT MOVE IN “TRUTH”, THEN WE SHALL NOT MOVE AT ALL; DO I SPEAK CLEARLY? ALLOW IT TO PENETRATE FOR THE SEEMINGLY UNEXPLAINABLE IS THE SIMPLE AND LEAST COMPLEX EXPLANATION OF ALL. WHEN YOU COME INTO UNDERSTANDING, THE METHODS AND ANSWERS POUR FORTH LIKE UNTO A WATERFALL. HOWEVER, THE MASS OF MAN IS STILL SLEEPING AND DREAMING ON THE REFLECTIONS FED UNTO HIM BY ALL SORTS OF COSMIC MIND FRAGMENTS AND, TO THIS POINT, REFUSES TO OPEN HIS MIND AND PERCEIVE THAT WHICH IS TRUTH. IT BECOMES THE OLD PRACTICE OF, “IF I CLOSE MY EYES IT WILL GO AWAY; IF I REFUSE TO LOOK AND SEE, THEN IT CANNOT BE REAL”! NAY, WE WILL NOT GO AWAY, NOR WILL YOUR “PROBLEMS” SOLVE THEMSELVES; YOU HAVE MANIFESTED THEM AND YOU WILL “CURE” THEM.

The term “fallen angels” is, of course, a misrepresentation but we are stuck with your vocabulary which presents different perceptions to different ones. If we do not speak in terms which the masses understand and can relate unto, we can never reach a point of acceptance of that which is truth—we must begin slowly and work our way through. NO ONE ON YOUR PLACE IS TRULY READY FOR TOTAL UNDERSTANDING OF HOW IT ACTUALLY IS! You have had man paint his perceptions in myriads of ways to the point that you can no longer even perceive how it really is—how many truly understood my dissertation on illusion? Be honest—TRULY understand!

Beloved Lucifer is quite ‘real’—Satan, as you recognize the energy. In the higher dimensions of perception, there are energies of higher status than the third-dimensional state of perception. These ones are guides, tormentors, experience makers—et cetera. Just as there are the wondrous energies of Christ consciousness and guides that work within the Lighted perceptions, so, too, are there the dark brotherhood guides and energy forms. These we refer to as “fallen angels” simply because they cling to the Satanic consciousness and “angels” are discarnate energy forms. You ones wish to place your “heaven” somewhere above you—out there somewhere; therefore anything displaced from that realm of experience in human terms, must “fall” down from somewhere—to somewhere. These are simply the energy form guides and “persuaders” of the dark brotherhood of Evil.

There is a most important point to be repeated herein, “Evil” as an energy form most surely exists and it comes from the Satanic forces—the blackest negative void of all action and reaction, and you had better consider it very ‘real’ for through these perceived actions and reactions will come the placement of your own energy (soul) form during and at the closing of the play.

Mankind will play out his parts exactly as written, for he has yet no mass perception that it COULD be different. He mouths a lot of words, but man will not change the scenario—just as man will find and present the solution and cure for AIDS, he will not do so until the appropriate number of energies have changed dimensions for he expects it to be so—it is the reflection he accepts.

Then why do we continue to pound and experience? Because we CAN effect change and, unchecked, AIDS can annihilate the species. DO YOU HEAR WHAT I SAY? IT CAN, AND UNCHECKED IT WILL, ANNIHILATE THE SPECIES OF EARTH MAN.

Oh, but you say: “Well, you said that some self-elite ones have the method of cure and will use it. What about them? So the species would not perish. You are nuts, Hatonn.” No, I am not nuts, for the evil will be removed and will no longer exist at the end of the play. That means if you add zero to zero you end with zero! You do your own mathematics.

Still a bit confusing and dense? So be it as that conclusion removes the arrogance and allows the truth to be taught unto you.

You will not, as such, walk down the road and meet Mr. Satan and his band of fallen angels—or will you? It is all in consciousness—Christ consciousness or Satanic consciousness, of which will you be the tool? Which “army” are you serving, and to what extent? Do you completely follow the Laws of the Creation or do you fudge just a bit on almost all counts? You see, there is the summit on either side—the deliberate serving of the “Devil” in Satanic ritual practice; or the Cosmic Christ goodness and purity within the Laws of The Creation. In between, lay all the grey areas whereby the self-”judgment” shall fall upon you from time to time—where will you experience next—with the Christ consciousness or the Satanic consciousness? That, brothers, is free-will choice.

[Returning to Sananda:]

Sananda present that we might continue in our narrative regarding the dark side of existence. I would say at onset, that it is most unfortunate that man can go even beyond that which is acceptable unto Lucifer in heinous activity. It goes well beyond “good” or “bad”; evil can reach into those activities which even pull Lucifer into rebellion, and has done so. You will find, if you could but see into these invisible dimensions, that there are millions of humans acting in such vile manner that they are not desired by the dark brotherhood, either. Just as things are done “IN THE NAME OF CHRIST”, likewise things are done “IN THE NAME OF SATAN” which go beyond that which is relative or acceptable to Satan. The “balance” is so far shifted that the evil which feeds upon itself moves beyond definition. FOR THIS REASON ARE WE WRITING THIS JOURNAL. THIS HORRENDOUS TREND SHALL REACH INTO AND WITHIN ALL BEINGNESS AND BLIGHT THE SENSES OF MAN. FURTHER, IT IS SO INSIDIOUS THAT IT WILL GAIN SUCH MOMENTUM WHILE PROTECTED UNDER YOUR OWN CONSTITUTION THAT MAN IN MASS WILL BE STAGGERED BY SATANIC PRESENCE.

[Quoting, further into the book:]

EVIL IS ALWAYS AT WORK

The diabolical mastermind backing up the world system deceives and ensnares the minds and consciousness of people. He does a good job with those who do not believe in a Christ presence and he sometimes does an even better job with those who do.

Satan’s work can be described in three ways: first, he is “the ruler of the physical world”, which means he is constantly at work in human government and its political systems. This influence is most capable of manipulating all forms of government for his purposes of evil and corruption. If you wish to argue about this matter, I heartily suggest you get the prior Phoenix Journals from Phoenix Source Distributors and read, read, read—go check out the references, and then read it again.

Secondly, “Satan” is entitled “prince of the power of the air”. This means that Satanic consciousness is the power behind the atmosphere of the “thoughts” of the world system that are hostile to God and Creation. You are most unwittingly dominated by this atmosphere of thought. Satan rules over the thoughts of the world system. He originated the concept of brainwashing long before human rulers used it for manipulation. When you think that he is the ruler over all of these thought forms and realize the ways in which you are bombarded every day by those sources, you begin, perhaps, to see how deadly the world system can be.

On the other hand, just as darkness cannot “be” in even the tiniest spark of light—so, too, the dark intent cannot survive in the presence of the light of God-ness.

The human viewpoint of life looks at the daily problems as well as all the complications of living in the world from the standpoint of the human ability to cope with them. The divine viewpoint looks at life from God's ability to handle it. It is God's job to deal with your temptations and needs. There is peace of mind, stability, and power for the one who has the divine viewpoint—BUT YOU HAVE TO CHOOSE IT!

Thirdly, Satan bears the title of “the god of this age”, which means the prevailing thought of a particular era. Satan is constantly changing the “in thing” so that when you get “where it's at” you find you're where it was! The pace is acceleration; the world system is changing so fast that even the world can't keep up with it.

This modality of change will continue to accelerate and old institutions will change so rapidly that people will reach a tremendous state of instability and emotional disturbance resulting in psychological problems. Nothing will be honest in the overall perceptions, dependable, stable, or certain. Is it not already so?

“The god of this age” also puts him right into the middle of religions. He loves religion. It is his real “trump” card—his ace trump for blinding minds to the truth. He is the god of all those who deviate from God and the balanced laws of The Creation.

God can most surely tend the problem. However, he must be asked to do so with pure intent and action. Now, for a real shocker—so do Satanic energies have to be invited within; does this not scare the daylight's out of you to realize YOU HAVE ACTUALLY ASKED THIS EVIL TO COME WITHIN?

DOES SATAN EXIST?

Mr. Satan's cleverest ruse is to make believe that he does not exist!

That is the reason you see the ridiculous pictures of Satan with his horns and red suit, sporting a tail and an evil grin. If he is a comic figure or a mythical villain, there is little harm he can do except give you an occasional nightmare which you can easily toss aside. Somehow, no matter how vile a thing you might be doing, you don't mind Satan being there with you—in fact—he sort of livens up the physical entertainment.

How do you feel about Christ being your best buddy at the alcohol cabinet, or stealing from your brother—or bedded with you in illicit fleshly pleasures—what kind of vocabulary do you utilize in the midst of your games and tinkering? So be it.

Satan's incognitos are most clever indeed. He hides within and behind religion, intellectualism, poetry, art, music, psychology, human understanding, and most vividly within your human “self”.

All men are prey to the evil influence, with no battle gear, unless you ask for a bit of help from the discarnate beings on the other side of the line. Then, you can expect the hosts of God's heaven to give assistance—but there is no half-way house.

“That is really heavy, Sananda!” So be it—look closely at that which you think and do. When you are faced with an “either-or” situation or a black and white choice, most of you would like to wiggle in the center with a “maybe” or charge through the middle wearing a “gray” hat. Modern thought always rejects the antiquated idea that Satan is the origin of evil and has the world in his control. Man has so many explanations for evil: poverty, pollution, politicians, police, parents, employers, unions, racial minorities, racial majorities . . . you choose your own cause! Always, however, put the rap on someone, man says, but don't tell me about Satan. That is too negative and unpleasant—man does not want to hear such confused drivel.

“Christians” are not exempt from this inability to understand where and how Satan is working his evil enticements—in fact, probably the “Christians” are the very last to notice truth. Satan's evil consciousness and doctrines have been neglected for so long by Christians that they are sometimes the least discerning of all in understanding the world system. The young so-called “Christians” are particularly vulnerable, for you have left the “next” generation naked in the face of 20th century thought by which they are surrounded.

Evil intent, called Satan, is not the man below, heaping coals into an eternal furnace. He is the original “jet-setter”; he is “right on” with the latest “cause”. I really like this next old quote from your book of Job. “When God asked Satan a direct question, his answer was filled with outrageous arrogance: ‘And the Lord said to Satan, From where do you come? And Satan—the adversary and the accuser—answered the Lord, From going to and fro on the Earth, and from walking up and down upon it’.”

Well, evil just trucks around your place constantly doing his thing in every spot he can! He is working diligently and unceasingly in your world system through governments, education, business, and culture. You label it, he'll take it.

He, further, had lots of help from his advance men who began planning his twentieth century offensive campaign a few hundred years ago. Stand by at ready for the shock waves from his present nineteenth century thought bombs that are bringing the whole civilization into Armageddon.

Yes, Satan is most certainly alive and thriving on the late, great planet Earth. So be it and selah, for the hand of time bears the pen and has written upon the page—how shall your Earth sojourn end? How have you written the final act of your entertainment performance? You had best be in the choosing of “sides” for the one most of you are standing alongside is in pretty awkward circumstance.

A God of “wrath”? No. He is simply allowing you to make your choice in your free-will manner. However, infinity of sitting on thy backsides astride the fence is a very long time and will get most uncomfortable.

PSYCHOLOGY OF EVIL

Let us promote life and liveliness.

THE CENTRAL MESSAGE WHETHER OR NOT YOU LIKE OF IT

You are going to take God, Christ-ness, and yourselves far more seriously than you now do. From the very beginning you have been told that God created you in His own image. When are you going to take that seriously? When are you going to recognize and accept the responsibility that you are Godly beings? When will human life again have sacred importance?

I am come that you might have life, and that you might have it more abundantly. Does it strike you as so strange that I, too, relished the things of the physical life and lived abundantly even two thousand years ago? I was not so strange, I enjoyed weddings and celebrations, wine, fine oils and good companionship. Length of a life-span is of very little value compared to the vitality in the living.

I repeat—let the dead bury their dead, for if you are alive it has no relationship to you. I dwell on the spirit of life, in liveliness.

Satan, the very spirit of evil, was a murderer from the beginning. Evil has nothing to do with natural death; it is concerned only with unnatural death, with murder of the body or the spirit. You ones in human format must take your human life so seriously that you also take human evil far more seriously—seriously enough to study it with all the means at your command, including the methods of science. You must recognize evil for that which it is, in all its ghastly reality. This is not morbid. To the contrary, it is in dedication to “life. . .more abundantly”. The valid reason to recognize human evil and study it well is to allow of the healing wherever you can, and eventually wipe its ugliness from the face of this wondrous Earth.

You can no longer simply turn your eyes and ears away from the problem which is growing in boundless measure—you must look at it most minutely and with intent to heal humanity of this blight. Healing is the result of love; it is a most closely integrated relative of love. Wherever there is love there is healing. Where there is no love there is no healing. There must be love of life and respect and reverence for life and livingness—man turns to the Satanic cults and worship to “belong”, therefore, to heal there must be “belonging” and love offered in abundance along with human caring.

You must know that all dis-ease is physical AND emotional so both must be considered in any instance. You must further be able to distinguish between human evil, such as murder, and natural “evil” as perceived through death and destruction resulting from fire, flood, and earthquake.

Further, do not be misled into the assumption and perception that real evil does not have anything to do with a mother of one or five children who lives next door, or the deacon or minister in the local church building. Evil human beings are most common and usually appear quite ordinary and are mostly located in just such places.

There are several “levels” of evil possession and let us consider them in lumps. One type of evil concerns those in the process of “sliding” into evil. The other concerns those who have already slid, “fallen victim” to and been taken over by “radical” evil. These are simply recognized myths upon your place and I find them suitable enough for description.

[Quoting, further into the book:]

COULD IT BE?

COULD IT BE, DEAR ONES, THAT GOOD GETS BETTER AND EVIL GETS EVEN MORE EVIL UNTIL ULTIMATELY BOTH HAVE MATURED TO A POINT OF PERFECTION IN THE EXTREMES? COULD IT BE THAT BOTH ARE COMING AGAIN UPON YOUR WONDROUS

PLACE FOR THE MAJOR CONFRONTATION? COULD IT BE THAT YOU ARE NOW REQUIRED TO MAKE SOME FINAL CHOICES, FOR THAT CONFRONTATION IS AT HAND? I UNDERSTAND THAT YOU PREFER TO THINK THAT THERE IS A SIMPLE LITTLE NEGOTIATION AND ALL IS LAID TO REST. NAY, IT SHALL BE MAJOR NEGOTIATION AND CONFRONTATION AND ULTIMATELY GOD AND THE CREATION (NATURE) SHALL INTER- VENE.

[Quoting, still further into the book:]

SATAN'S BEGINNING

Do not be misled into thinking Satan DOES NOT exist for evil energy most surely does exist and you are not sophisticated enough to separate the two. If you were in control of that in-depth knowledge you would not be inquiring as to the validity of a Satan!

Let me repeat of my previously told story unto mine ones. In the beginning Satan was God's second-in-command, chief among all His angels, the beautiful and beloved Lucifer. The service IT performed in God's behalf was to enhance the spiritual growth of human beings through the use of testing and temptation—just as you test your own children in school so as to enhance their growth. Satan, therefore, was primarily a teacher of mankind, which is why it was called Lucifer, "THE LIGHT BEARER".

The original meaning of the words "Satan" and "devil" were not synonymous, as they are used today. The terms "devil" and "diabolic" come from the Greek verb diabalein, meaning simply "to oppose". The word "Satan" commonly meant "adversary". In your Bible, God Himself supposedly stated that He was proceeding "Balaam" as a Satan. Seeing the necessity for mankind to be tested and tempted by something in opposition to His own will, God delegated this oppositional (diabolic and adversarial-satanic) function to the chief of His archangels. AND YOU HAD BETTER BELIEVE THIS BROTHER OF MINE HAS THE POWER AND THE ABILITY TO PULL OFF HIS JOB IN PERFECTION!

Just as it is most difficult to gain your acceptance that my name was not that of "Jesus", for my name was Immanuel. Saul (Paul) of Tarsus, in teaching after my departure from the Holy Lands, went about the country and throughout the Greek and Roman empires and referred to the Christ energy, Immanuel Esu, as "Jesus", or, "THE ANOINTED ONE". That was Paul's assumption, for I was never "THE ANOINTED ONE" for that truly has no meaning in the hierarchy of the higher dimensional heavenly realm. It is simply a Greek definition which has lingered for over 2,000 years.

Just as I had to experience and grow in the Heavenly Realms to the "rank" of Sananda, so, too, did Lucifer have to grow in the physical realm to the level of "Evil"—the higher dimensional term could mean nothing to you as definition.

"Christ" is "TOTAL LIGHT", "Satan" is "TOTAL DARKNESS" or "devoid of light". IF ONE EXISTS THE OTHER MUST ALSO EXIST, FOR THERE CANNOT BE ONE WITHOUT THE OTHER IN THIS THIRD-DIMENSIONAL EXPERIENCE. As you progress through the dimensions you will finally achieve a level of either total light or the void of total absence of light. THE CHOICE IS LEFT TO INDIVIDUAL MAN, AND YOU ARE GIVEN INFINITE ETERNITY IN WHICH TO FINALIZE

YOUR CHOICES. YOU ARE FACED WITH A MAGNIFICENT CHOICE RIGHT NOW UPON YOUR EARTH PLANE. SO FAR IT APPEARS Satan IS OUT FRONT IN THE RACE—BUT “THIS” IS HIS DOMAIN. EARTH AND HUMAN PHYSICAL EXISTENCE IS TRULY NOT THE DOMAIN OF GOD NOR CHRIST.

WHEN THINGS BECOME SO UNBALANCED WITHIN A SEGMENT OF UNIVERSAL EXISTENCE (CREATION) THAT ANNIHILATION OF A SPECIES AND CREATED PLANET IS DESTINED, THE CREATION DEMANDS REBALANCING AND THINGS BEGIN TO HAPPEN INSTANTLY TOWARD THAT END. IT IS NOT MYSTICAL, IT IS MOST PRACTICAL, INDEED.

IT ALWAYS OCCURS ON THE HUMAN-INFESTED PLANETS AND ULTIMATELY GOD CREATOR SENDS HIS HOSTS AND CHRIST LIGHT TO STOP THE HORDES OF EVIL, THE DARK BROTHERHOOD OF Satan.

FIRST, THE TEACHERS OF LIGHT AND WORKERS WHO HAVE BEEN SENT FORTH ARE REMOVED, IF SUITABLE. SOME, OF COURSE, REMAIN TO MAINTAIN PASSAGE IN SAFETY FOR ONES OF THE LIGHT. THEN ULTIMATELY THERE IS A MOST MAGNIFICENT CONFRONTATION OF THE ENERGY FORCES OF THE CHRIST AND OF Satan. Satan LIKES THE PLAYGROUND AND EFFORTS AT BUILDING HIS FORCES ENOUGH TO PREVAIL—HE NEVER DOES BUT HE NEVER CEASES IN HIS EFFORTS. THE UNLEASHING OF THAT MIGHTY ENERGY EXCHANGE IS UNTHINKABLE, MY BROTHERS, BUT YOU ARE GOING TO WITNESS IT FOR NO MAN SHALL GRADUATE UNTIL YOU HAVE EXPERIENCED IT. WHAT LEVEL OF EDUCATION YOU GRADUATE INTO IS STRICTLY UP TO YOU TO CHOOSE—PROGRESSION OR REGRESSION. SO BE IT.

Back to the beginning——. As time went by, however, Satan became so enamored with its adversarial functions that it began to employ them more for its own delight than on God’s behalf. This you see throughout the Bible myths as handed down unto you.

Creator further decided that more was required than simple testing for the uplifting of mankind; what was required was both an example of His love and an example to live by. So, He sent his Christ being to experience—live and finally die—just as man. There was nothing special about crucifixion, for many thousands died of crucifixion, so it would be far wiser to allow me down from your cross and decide what it is we will do about your life—instead of my death.

I would insert at this point a special note. One reason this book is coming forth in this manner is the commitment of my workers. The Satanic symbols have taken that which represents the opposite of the Christ—but in so doing they dishonor one of mine most beloved friends, Simon Peter, who in his terror and fear denied of Me, Immanuel, at the time of my arrest trial and was later feeling in unworthiness to be crucified in an upright position, when he too was condemned, as was myself—so he was crucified up-side downward and was burned alive. This is the epitome of Satanic ritual. Ah yes, the physical third-dimensional worlds are the Satanic playgrounds of the universe.

When Creator sent forth the Christ, Satan (who was no longer called Lucifer) found this intolerable and a personal insult. It puffed with pride, it refused to submit to God’s judgment of the precedence of Christ. It rebelled against God. Satan itself created the situation in which heaven became literally not big enough for the both of them.

Inevitably, Satan, by its own doing, was immediately cast out into the absence of the God presence, which you label Hell. Once the light bearer, it now dwells in darkness as the Father of Lies, nursing continual images of revenge against God.

Through the angels who accompanied its departure and remained in its command, those who joined the rebellion and casting out, it has and continues to wage continual war against God's design. Where once it existed to spiritually uplift mankind, it now exists to spiritually destroy you.

In the battle for your souls it attempts to oppose the Christ at every turn. Satan perceives Christ as its personal enemy. As Christ in spirit lives, so is Satan the living Antichrist.

DESTROY VS. CREATE

Satan is a purely destructive force—by its demonic representatives it claims to be naught other. Satan is utterly and totally dedicated to opposing human life and growth. It can only survive in vileness, war and hate.

Now, you ask—why would not God, having created Lucifer (Satan) in the first place, simply wipe him out? The question in itself presupposes that “God” would wipe anything out. It must be assumed that God can punish and kill if he would wipe a thing from existence. PERHAPS YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THAT GOD GAVE Satan FREE WILL JUST AS HE GAVE IT UNTO HU-MAN AND THAT GOD DOES NOT DESTROY; GOD ONLY CREATES! HOWEVER, IF HE SO CHOOSES TO REMOVE A THOUGHT FROM HIS PROCESS, THAT FRAGMENT SIMPLY CEASES TO EXIST—SO DON'T TEST HIS PATIENCE TOO FAR. IF A HUMAN IS STRICKEN FROM GOD'S BOOK OF LIFE RECORDS, AT THE TRANSITION OF THAT SOUL, ITS RECORD IS REMOVED.

The point is, children, that God does not punish. To create you in His image, God gave you free will. To have done otherwise would have been to make you puppets or hollow mannequins—robots; androids. Yet in order to give you free will God had to forswear the use of force against you. You do not have free will when there is a gun pointed at your back; although you still have choice. It is not necessarily that God lacks the power to destroy you, to punish you, but that in His love for you He has painfully and terribly chosen never to use it. In agony He must stand by and allow you to BE. He intervenes only to help, when asked, never to hurt. God Creator is a God of restraint. Having forsworn the use of power against you, if you refuse His help, He has no recourse but to watch you punish yourselves.

While many of you ones upon Earth envision your God as a giant wrathful policeman in the sky somewhere, the reality is that God has forever denounced police force.

Ones ask, “How could God allow such and such a thing to happen?” Well, in the allowing of free will, there is a disallowing of “force”. God will not interfere for in the allowing of free will, He forsook “force”. God waits most patiently for you to make your decision for he is a God of Truth and will not break of his own edict. So, he awaits your choices. It may seem to you who desire truth and light that you are doomed. Oh no, never. God will “win” the battle against Evil. IN FACT, THE BATTLE IS ALREADY WON, BY THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE CHRIST CAME AND WILL COME AGAIN. THERE IS NO DEATH OF SOUL SO HE WHO IS CREATED CAN, IN NO WISE, ANNIHILATE HIS OWN CREATOR.

KNOW that Satan is on the run and in his apparent control of the world is desperately efforting at maintaining power. He attacks more steadfastly those ones who can produce the most in opposition of his lie. This is why ones who work within the Light, i.e., pen these messages, speak in truth, uncover the lies and make them public and thus and so, are most targeted. It is, however, more advantageous to discredit in some manner the offenders than to actually kill them for then the banner is taken up by others. Therefore, the heavy thrust is to discredit truth and have the bringers of the truth discredited.

[Quoting, further into the book:]

DO IT YOURSELF

No one, not your parent, your sibling, your Senator or Christ, can cast out Satan or demons from thy minds. The afflicted must “do it yourself”. The way can be shown, the meal prepared but the ultimate eating must be individual.

Satan cannot do evil except through a human body. Although it was a murderer from its beginning, it cannot murder except with human hands. It does not have the power to kill or even harm by itself. It must use human beings to do its devilry. Although it repeatedly threatens to kill the possessed and the helpers, its threats are exactly that in itself for they are lies. Unfortunately, there are millions of unwary who will do the work, instead.

The only real power that Satan has is through human belief in its lies and the ability to discount truth and truth bringers. Possessed ones have fallen for the false and seductive promise of “friendship” and material gain. Satan will say something like the following: “You need us for we don’t hate ‘Jesus’ or Christ, we just test him.” Nay, this is the Father of Lies speaking—he hates, from his very essence, the Christ!

What are some of the lies he will tell you personally? Well, humans must use any method necessary to defend themselves in order to survive and cannot depend on anything other than themselves in their defense. It will say, “Everything is explainable in terms of negative and positive energy (which balance out to be zero)”. Strangely, it is the way the lie is presented, for he is an expert at twisting the truth into a lie. When telling of the truth it is so unacceptable that the human grabs for the lie and eats it all. He will tell you there is no mystery in the world—he will fail to tell you the world is mostly all mysticism. He will tell you love is a thought and has no objective reality; however, all ones are seeking love and cannot survive in a balanced positive manner without it. “All things are abstract and these lies of goodness are simply hypocritical in nature; to compete for money, power, ego gratification and control, therefore, is the only intelligent way to live.”

This spirit must be recognized as a “real” thing. Although intangible and immaterial, it has a personality and a true “being”. You cannot define Satan’s personality as simply the absence of goodness. Its personality cannot simply be explained away as an absence, a nothingness. There is a prevailing presence of hate.

Satan desires to destroy life and you must understand this fact above all.

SATAN’S BEST DECEPTION IS ITS GENERAL SUCCESS IN CONCEALING ITS OWN REALITY FROM THE HUMAN MIND.

SATAN’S WEAKNESS

Now we get on to something useful in tangible manner. Satan has glaring weaknesses—which in turn give Satan’s adversaries great strength.

Satan’s demons are extraordinarily brilliant but are also extraordinarily stupid. If it were not so extraordinarily narcissistic and conceited, Satan would not reveal itself at all. Its pride overcomes its own intelligence, so that the demon of deceit is also a show-off. If it were thoroughly clever, it would leave its victims long before things get really rough on it as a being. It really desires to win and therefore foolishly sticks on to the bitter end.

Satan is also blind in some areas. It has no understanding of the phenomenon of Love for it is too extremely self-oriented. It recognizes love as a reality to be fought and even to be imitated, but utterly lacking in itself, it does not understand love in the least bit. The notion of true “sacrifice” is totally foreign to it—ones make sacrifices unto it and that is all it can understand. When humans respond to its presence in true love, it does not comprehend what is being said and is completely ignorant of any ground rules in loving behavior.

Evil further assumes a profound human tendency to self-deception, employs the scientific method to counteract it, and holds truth higher than any personal desire. Therefore, Satan also does not understand science at all. Enamored with its own will and hater of the light of truth, it basically finds human science incomprehensible.

Caution, in your newly found strength, is strongly advised. Satan’s weakness should not encourage you to overlook its strengths. It propounds its lies with extraordinary power. It may not be so remarkable that it possesses people in front of you but it has the power to totally confuse and cause total despair in another as a result of the power of its lies.

[Quoting, still further in the book:]

LOOK WHAT MIGHT HAVE HAPPENED NEXT

In eternity past there was only ONE “WILL”—THE WILL OF GOD! There was no evil whatsoever, only harmony, holiness, and righteousness. When the second “will” entered the universe, generated by the heart of Lucifer, rebellion broke out. Time, as you know it, began with two wills in existence—check the snake in the garden.

Now, what did I generalize for you about sin? The shortest definition of “sin” is simply: “I will”. When Satan was “born” and stated his proud “I most surely will”, God invited him right out of his position of authority in His government. Lucifer, now called S A T A N declared war and the fat was in the fire.

Brothers, do not think God is ever unprepared for He already had his plan ready to activate: “Operation Man”. Further, ye were granted consciousness, thought and freewill choice. Man’s immaterial being was created in the very image of God. I am sorry, beloved ones, but God does not wander hither and yon with arms and legs. His own image is the possession of will, intellect, emotion, moral reason, and everlasting existence—THE SOUL!

Angels also possess these qualities, with a few superior additives which set them apart from humans: angels have greater mobility, intelligence and frequency than does man. You are, however, given a vitally important quality in common—you both possess freedom of choice and the intellect to make choices.

The angels watch you humans—study your every action, effort at guiding you and always loving you. Why? What might they be learning? THAT GOD IS A JUST GOD. GOD IS UTILIZING THIS SCENARIO TO DEMONSTRATE THAT HE WAS PERFECTLY JUST IN HIS ETERNAL JUDGMENT OF THEM AND THAT HIS LOVE IS SO GREAT IT CANNOT BE FATHOMED BY ANY “CREATED” BEING.

Man’s immaterial being will always exist; it will always live. In that sense, man is also in the image of God. At the time of his creation man was given legal authority to rule himself and all of the earth. BUT, HE WAS FURTHER GIVEN RESPONSIBILITIES AND RULES.

Ah ha! Now we have a great drama in the making. You need no identified tree with some tasty fruit—the subject at hand is that these new humanlings were given instructions to avoid a specific item. It was a grand test set by God to demonstrate His justice and His love to his angelic realms.

Man was specifically told that if he ate from the particular named tree he would die. There was no evil in the tree—it was not sprayed with insecticide which would poison the fruit as might well happen this day and time. The evil was in rejecting God’s revealed Will and consequently rejecting fellowship with God.

The stage was set, Satan entered the scene and he was equally prepared. He had worked his scheme well-out beforehand. He apparently thought that the whole on-stage contest revolved around the simple act of making man “fall”.

You must remember something most important—Satan may be extremely clever and wise in his choices but he is battling against a far wiser being—far wiser! When Satan caused man to fall, he played right into the hands of God. Far from defeating God, he set a trap for himself. He set up a situation through which God could demonstrate his justice and His love to the infinite degree.

God did not want man to fall, but He wasn’t in the least surprised that he did so. He still had a plan—a plan to save man from his own rebellious state.

SATAN AT WORK

Well, you can bet Satan was not some slimy serpent. He was a most beauteous creature for he was going to lure Eve, I believe the myth continues. He made sure she was completely curious about that tree—a trait that gets most of you into trouble. Just a little curiosity and a peek into the forbidden and wham, you are stuck. Well, Satan had already put into this lovely mind the suggestion to just look at the tree. He uses the same ploy to this day—he needs never change his line of approach for you fall every time, to the lies and temptations.

Satan, the superior intelligent being, invented one of the most clever attacks of all time before or after—the power of suggestion, the ability to put thoughts into your minds about things you already desire. He knows your natural weaknesses; he knows the areas where desire is strongest in you. He knew there was basic curiosity, and he hit dead-on center. Let us look carefully at how and what Satan is credited with saying to Eve—”Indeed, has God really said, ‘You shall not eat from every tree of the garden.’?” The question will never be right on—it will always be clever and stated in such manner as to start the doubt gnawing at your minds. Therefore, all Satan had to do was focus on the only forbidden item to set the trap. SATAN IS THE ALL-TIME UNIVERSAL MASTER AT THIS TRICK!

SATAN’S CLEVER POISON

Satan is the master at planting seeds of doubt and question. He fogs you in and you become confused. He probably surely did no less with Sister Eve. Now note that when Eve responded to the “serpent” she added a note or two, “From the fruit of the trees of this garden we may eat; but from the fruit of the tree which is in the middle of the garden, God has said, ‘You shall not eat from—or touch it, lest you die.’”

Hold up right here a minute, you lovely readers. She added her own embellishment to the original command as stated in Genesis. She added “or touch it”. She showed instantly that she didn’t have the slightest notion about what the real issue was; she thought there was something in the tree itself that was evil. She made sin something material or tangible, rather than a choice of the mind. Let us just say that she was really “psyched out”! Right from the beginning the wrong issue came under point.

Satan could see that he had her helpless and zeroed in with an outright denial of the word of God. He simply came along with a direct repudiation of what God said and stated, “You surely shall not die!” Satan takes clear truth and drops just enough poison in it to kill you.

BUT WHAT OF THIS “ADAM” CHARACTER?

Well, poor dear thing, Eve ate from the tree and immediately things began to happen and she became totally confused and flustered. Therefore, you can say that the woman was confused, that she was deceived and therefore wasn’t legally responsible for sin. However, where is Adam’s excuse—ones are so permanently ready to blame poor dear Eve—what about that Adam? There was no excuse for the man at all and it was further laid forth as, “And it was not Adam who was deceived, but the woman being quite deceived, fell into transgression.”

Adam, therefore, gave in without a fight! There was not one word given directly to the man, not one temptation. He walked into transgression with his two eyes wide open. It seems that he simply chose to stay with Eve rather than continue with God. He made a cold and calculated decision to reject God.

Adam had the legal power of attorney over himself and the world, but he betrayed the trust God had given him and forfeited his authority to Satan.

FLAT FOR THE COUNT

In defying God man was instantly lost to the count. In remarkable manner he did exactly what was projected—he died in important ways. He lost spiritual life, the most important sphere of life that you have. Man is made up of body, his material being; soul, his immaterial life; spirit, his spiritual life with which he is able to communicate with God. The instant man disobeyed God, he lost this spiritual life and severed that direct line of communication with his Maker.

Secondly, man received a nature of self-centeredness and rebellion against God. You can see this result throughout the history of mankind. God describes it as man's heart being desperately sick.

Thirdly, Satan became man's absolute master; man became the slave. It is really a heavy scene, but according to all the records you have, Satan is ruling all those who have rejected God.

Lastly, when man rebelled, the world was legally handed over to Satan. Adam actually became the Benedict Arnold of the universe. When he obeyed Satan, he turned the deed of himself, all his dominion, and all his descendants over to Satan and therefore, now you have it—Satan is the ruler of the world!

WHAT OF THE CURSE OF EVE?

Oh yes, back to the Gap theory—in exchange for Eve's foolishness God gave her as punishment a more severe time in childbearing and thus and so. - - - Worse than what? To be relative and be worse than - - - indicates that there was already something present! So be it.

I trust I have laid forth enough information for you to consider that possibly you have a problem with a most clever, evil character. You have a far more potent God with unlimited ability—but you continue to limit Him.

My intent is to allow you to see “how” it comes to be in the temptations and the traps. The farther you go the deeper you get into the mire for you fail to turn around and see that you have help. You march forth like Eve, missing the point entirely.

There is only one way into safety and security and that is to turn about and into the strength of the Creator God. You may think you have dipped to the depths and there is no way out of your quagmire—nay, simply turn about and ask for the Light in truth and desire and it shall come forth. You are a “willing” victim; the minute you cease to be a willing victim, ye shall find your freedom.

[And quoting, still further in the book:]

EPILOG

I am Hatonn of the Galactic Federation fleet, present in your service. I pen a note to this document that you might know of your “author”.

Some will say: “My Master Jesus would not pen of such vile material for he is soft, gentle and would only speak softly.” If you believe that, you are in dire need of attitude adjustment. Do you really believe the energy that would come to stand against an anti-christian world would not tell you EXACTLY how it is? I tell you this, The King of Evil, the Satanic representative of Mr. Lucifer, knows the one who has put this journal to paper. Make no mistakes, my friends. You are receiving from the very strength of the universes. May the blessings be accepted in the love given.

This document has been offered at great risk to the penman. We give honor and appreciation to these who dare in the dangerous times to bring these words of truth open to the public for it is dangerous indeed. So be it for we stand as a shield and buffer. The darkness shall need pass through the Light to do its damage and darkness cannot exist in Light.

[END OF QUOTING]

TRANSITION THOUGHTS

We have been fed lies for so long concerning these issues which are critical to our very existence that one must stop and reexamine what one’s beliefs truly are. Are the beliefs founded in reality or were they shaped at such an early age that they have become lifetime companions who are never questioned or taken to task. We must break free from the old models if we are ever to be truly free. And only by knowing TRUTH is there hope for any kind of recovery in wisdom.

Our next step along this mythological and historical journey of adversarial influence will be at Atlantis. From there we will move right on into Sumeria. For now, though, this series is to be continued...

CHAPTER 7

THE NEWS DESK

by Dr. Al Overholt 6/6/98

ISRAEL'S HALF-CENTURY

Excerpted from the INTERNET, 5/14/98: [quoting]

...Israel's greatest days have been those when it stood boldly against aggressors. In an era of extremely weak leadership—and in the case of the United States, an era of no leadership whatsoever—Israel's bravery has earned the world's respect and admiration. On this fiftieth anniversary, an unusual aggressor has emerged: the President of the United States and his wife. Last week, Mr. Clinton tried to give Prime Minister Netanyahu an ultimatum. The US media may be Clinton lapdogs, the American people may have been deceived into thinking that the First Buffoon has a foreign policy, but Benjamin Netanyahu is more in the Thatcher mold, and he quite rightly told Mr. and Mrs. Clinton, and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, to get lost. Nonetheless, his resolve still needs sharpening. It is ironic that he should be spending this special anniversary day, recognized worldwide except in Israel, not celebrating in Jerusalem with his people, but at the Willard Intercontinental Hotel here in Washington as a pawn in the Clinton saga.

The issue at stake is how much land Israel should surrender in exchange for “peace”. This is attempted blackmail: Israel has already surrendered too much land, and there has been no peace. Have we not yet learned that negotiating with blackmailers and terrorists never works? Israel is a tiny nation, just nine miles wide without the West Bank. It cannot surrender any more land to Mr. Clinton's vanity. It is astounding to recall that, just a few short weeks ago, Mr. Clinton's Beverly Hills whore justified her refusal to tell the truth by claiming that Mr. Clinton was a friend of Israel. Israel needs no friends like Mr. Clinton. It already has plenty of enemies, though most are more obvious than America's First Couple.

Of course, Mr. Clinton's Foreign Policy buffoonery is designed solely to distract attention from his many pressing problems. In similar vein, he decried India for testing its nuclear weapons in the face of the immense threat posed by China. But why shouldn't India take steps to protect itself? Mr. Clinton has sided with the world's most brutal dictatorship against the world's largest democracy. At least India has the courage to stand up to the ‘Butchers of Beijing’ as Mr. Clinton described them in 1992.

There is no courage in foreign policy or in anything else because nobody believes in anything anymore. In the politically-correct era, all beliefs are neutralized and deemed equal. All religions are deemed equal. Therefore, if we sit down to worship, shall we say, a banana, it is deemed equal to worshiping the Creator of the Universe. What utter nonsense! The idea of the claims of all religions as equal, the deceptive philosophy at the root of the Middle East and many other problems, may be a pleasant way to approach polite conversation over tea and cucumber sandwiches, but it bears no resemblance to the truth.

No doubt that's why Jesus said: “I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.” (John 14:6)

Either Jesus was a liar, a lunatic or He was the Messiah of Israel and the World. If Mr. Clinton were a Christian instead of a Bible-carrying poser, he would know that the way to solve the Middle East problems, and all others, is to unite the protagonists first in Christ.

Last week, Hillary Clinton, the White House cookie-baker, declared that “it would be in the long-term interests of peace in the Middle East for there to be a state of Palestine, a functioning modern state on the same footing as other states.” Some suggest that Mrs. Clinton’s intrusion into foreign policy stems from over-confidence or grandiosity, or is a payoff for talking her husband out of the Lewinsky debacle. That may be partly true, but the real explanation is more subtle. Behind the apparent Clinton allegiance to the Palestinians lies their servitude to the Rockefellers. The Clintons owe their status to the family which owns or controls almost all the US media, and more importantly in this case, most of the world’s large oil companies. Understandably, they support the Arab world. It has nothing to do with ethics, morals or religious values. It is a simple business decision. Nobody in the oil business can afford to alienate the Arabs. That is the truth behind all the Mideast negotiations, the Gulf War and all Western Foreign Policy.

How else could we explain that, prior to 1967, when 100% of the disputed territory was under Arab control, there was no initiative to create a Palestinian state? The fact is that there is no such place as Palestine, just as there is no such thing as a Palestinian. Jordan makes up 78% of “Palestine”. In fact, Jordan is Palestine. So-called Palestinians are Jordanians in exile, and should be peacefully repatriated. Only a strong Israeli government will have the courage to do that, but if this long struggle is to be brought to an end, it must be done... [End quoting]

The war is on amongst the different factions of the NWO, and expect it to heat up very fast—the time schedule is running out!

MILITARY DEPLOYMENT IN THE U.S.

From the INTERNET, courtesy Jim Seabourn, <crtisad@inland.net>, 6/2/98: [quoting]

Of late, we’ve witnessed an inordinate amount of military movement in our area. We also hear of the same thing happening in other areas.

We live in a semi-rural area where tanks were never seen, until recently. There are no military installations within 250 miles south of us and literally nothing to the north. We live just short of where Columbus’ 4th ship fell off the edge so military movement of this sort is highly unusual.

We would appreciate any RELIABLE information as to:

1. Any unusual or large military movements.
2. Where and when.
3. Possible origin and destination of movement.
4. What types and possible national origin of equipment.

5. Description of personnel transporting equipment, i.e., uniforms, insignias, accents, etc.
6. Accounts of any verbal or physical contact made with personnel and/or equipment and type response received from said personnel.
7. Any other pertinent or unusual information regarding these movements.

Please forward this request to as many as possible. Any information would be greatly appreciated.

Remember the frog in a pot of water. When the heat is slowly turned up, he hasn't a clue that he's being boiled. Without reliable information we are as ignorant as that frog and we will be just as dead or worse. I pray that our Lord will protect us and sustain us through these troubling times.

COMMUNICATIONS BREAKTHROUGH
SEEN AS THE WAVE OF THE FUTURE

Movies by telephone; instant stock market trades between buyer and seller; advanced surgical procedures—

DART will change your life.

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 6/1/98: [quoting]

Exclusive to The SPOTLIGHT, by Todd Blodgett

DART (Digital Analog Receiver Transmitter), an innovative technology breakthrough newly developed and soon to be released, will be announced on May 27 at the National Press Club here.

The Native American Communications Network (NACN), chaired by Gail Eldridge, newly formed and representing American Indians, announced plans to utilize the DART technology in the construction of their new Educational Television Network to broadcast educational programming to all Indians in the Western Hemisphere.

DART technology will impact our society in a manner similar to Edison's telephone or Marconi's wireless.

Presently, natural law limits data transmission to 33,000 bits per second (without compression) over a modem. DART, with its 64 million bits per second transmission rate obsoletes fiber optics, the modem and other temporary solutions in one rapid technological step.

As DART will dramatically increase the transmission rates of existing communication procedures, high speed DART with analog transmission rates up to 4 billion bits per second will drive telecommunications through the 21st century. DART technology applies to both wire and wireless transmissions. Everything from computer systems to entertainment will be favorably impacted. (See related story below.)

Stocks and other securities will be bought and sold without large broker fees. Airplane “black boxes” will be replaced with real-time transmissions to ground command centers ensuring passenger safety. For the first time, banking transactions will be instantaneous and totally safe from hackers and thieves.

Television will be revitalized. DART television will obsolete Digital High Definition (DHD) television transmissions by supplying digital high definition and the existing low definition signals in the same transmission. This will mean the older sets can continue to be used until replaced by attrition in some 20 years. Further, five channels will be broadcast in both high definition and low definition within the same signal, giving the viewer five times as many channels to choose from and the stations five times the advertising revenue.

All this, without the need of converter boxes. Additionally, AM and FM radio as well as weather, stock information and other information will be supplied on extra voice channels. This makes the present controversy over DHD television moot. [End quoting]

There is a statement above about Marconi and Edison which is very misleading. Tesla has been given credit for the radio by the U.S. government after many years of telling us that Marconi brought it to us and Edison has also pilfered credits for many inventions having to do with Tesla’s works. Both of these men were lackies of the elite—particularly of J.P. Morgan.

Isn’t it great to see the Indians find a method to benefit society with an honest, honorable and dignity-restoring project that will benefit all humans and support themselves in a soul-fulfilling manner.

WILL MICROSOFT FADE TO BLACK?

The battle between Microsoft’s Bill Gates and various agencies of the federal government may be moot.

From SAME AS ABOVE, [quoting]

The DART (Digital Analog Receiver Transmitter) high-speed data transmission technology made desirable the development of a new high-speed operating system and web browser.

The new operating system, called UDOS (Universal Digital Operating System) and the new web browser, termed “DARTBOARD.COM”, will be supplied with the DART. No other operating system or web browser will operate with the DART because they cause a drastic decrease in speed.

Because of this, Microsoft Windows ’95 and ’98, Microsoft Internet Explorer and Netscape Navigator, the major operating systems and web browsers presently being used, will be obsolete and will not be used in the future. All DOS-based programs including Windows 3.11 will operate within UDOS.

This will cause a major impact on the software industry in that most programs are presently dependent on Windows '95. Since UDOS is a return to the original standard of DOS, it permits the industry to flourish without a Windows dependency. [End quoting]

It's about time that the computer industry had some real competition. I'm certain that the Native Americans will put this project to much better use for society than the present monopolists have done with the present communications networks. And it is indeed an important breakthrough.

MORMON MANUAL
MUM ON WIVES

Critics say polygamy lapse is part of 'homogenized pap' but church rejects barbs

Excerpted from the ASSOCIATED PRESS, 7/98: [quoting]

SALT LAKE CITY—Valeen Tippetts Avery, a professor of history at Northern Arizona University, had never met the perplexed young woman who came knocking at her door.

Newly married to a Mormon, the student had been reading up on the faith and attending its women's auxiliary. She was confused now, and someone had suggested she talk to Avery.

The young woman, Avery recalled, had just received a new Relief Society manual about Brigham Young. "And he only has one wife!"

Avery, a Mormon who knew the pioneer leader had 55 wives, couldn't explain why the lesson manual, used since January by church members in 22 languages, paints America's most famous polygamist as a monogamist.

But she had some advice.

"The Mormon church is trying to say to the new people coming into the church, as well as to the larger American society, that there was nothing questionable in the Mormon past."

Avery told the woman. "And if you want answers to these kinds of sticky questions, you're not going to find them inside accepted Mormon manuals and doctrines."

The absence of any mention of polygamy is just one complaint leveled at the manual, the first of a series based on selected teachings of presidents of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints.

"Homogenized pap," snorts Will Bagley of Salt Lake City, a historian of 19th-century Mormonism. "I think it really shows a contempt for the intelligence of the members."

"Whoever compiled the manual is extraordinarily embarrassed by the church's second president," says Ron Priddis of Signature Books, a publisher of Mormon-related works.

“This isn’t about Brigham Young. It’s about what somebody in the church Correlation Department thinks is Brigham Young,” says Glen Hettinger, lawyer, Mormon and amateur church historian in Dallas. [End quoting]

The Mormons have far worse actions from their historical past than this that they are doing their best to keep hidden. The truth will come out, however, no matter how hard they try to hide it. Eventually the curious uncover the inconvenient.

INTERNET— THE NEXT GENERATION

Excerpted from PC MAGAZINE, June 9, 1998: [quoting]

Everyone deserves a second chance—even the Internet. No, the Internet has not completely failed us. But if we can ever expect it to catch up with—let alone exceed—our lofty and growing expectations, a major revamping is vital. Fortunately, one is on the horizon: the Internet2 Project.

The point of Internet2, or I2, is not to replace the current Internet but to provide a platform of technological experimentation and innovation. The bottom line for current users? The clearing of many bandwidth bottlenecks, for one thing. Other goals include more sophisticated audio- and video-streaming technologies and true data-sharing capabilities.

The I2 Project’s stated mission is the aggressive pursuit of advanced networking technologies that break through the Internet’s current limitations, and the preparation of a network structure worthy of the future—one requiring high-speed data transmissions, real-time collaboration and data sharing, quality service (QoS) guarantees, and multimedia streaming. Solutions will eventually make it to mainstream Internet—by 2002, if all goes according to the plan set forth in the Clinton administration’s Next Generation Internet Initiative.

The Project will also police developmental front lines to ensure that any forthcoming, hardware and software developments are based on open standards and that new solutions are readily available to commercial network users and ISPs.

Currently, I2 is a closed but not separate IP-based network dedicated to 117 universities, government, and about 25 corporations. It’s also plenty fast; MCI claims that the 622-Mbps rate is speedy enough to send 322 copies of a 300-page book every 7 seconds. [End quoting]

This is certainly “horse and buggy” compared to the earlier article about communications—but this is already active.

2 MILITANTS PLEAD GUILTY AS TRIAL OF FREEMEN OPENS

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 5/28/98: [quoting]

Two more of the Montana Freemen, who stood together through 81 days of a 1996 standoff with the FBI, broke ranks Wednesday and pleaded guilty. Twelve other Freemen went on trial on charges in a 40-count federal indictment, although nine of them boycotted the session and had to be dragged to a holding cell to watch the proceedings on closed-circuit television. The judge and lawyers began questioning about 80 potential jurors for the anti-government militants' trial, expected to last four to five weeks. [End quoting]

You can be sure the government criminals will use every deceitful trick at their disposal to malign the truth where this group is concerned. They have embarrassed too many crooks in high places.

ADM TO PAY
$11 MILLION FINE

From the INTERNET, 5/98: [quoting]

Archer Daniels Midland Co. agreed Wednesday to pay $11 million to the Canadian government to resolve a price-fixing case. The agribusiness giant pleaded guilty in Canadian federal court to a three-count indictment alleging it used anti-competitive conduct in relation to the sale of lysine and citric acid, ADM spokeswoman Karla Miller said. Lysine is widely used in feed for poultry and hogs. Citric acid is used in various processed foods and beverages. In October 1996, ADM pleaded guilty in the United States to federal criminal charges of price-fixing, and agreed to pay $100 million. [End quoting]

NEW REPORT FINDS IDENTITY THEFT INCREASING

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>, 6/1/98: [quoting]

The General Accounting Office released a report on May 26 finding that cases of identity theft are increasing. The GAO found that no federal agency has primary jurisdiction over the problem and a lack of a clear definition is hampering efforts to track it. Credit bureaus are also largely ignoring the issue, with only one—Trans Union—keeping track of consumer inquiries. Its representatives told the GAO that two-thirds of the firm's 522,000 customer inquiries in 1997 involved identify theft.

One important issue is the use of the Social Security Number. The SSN is a common identifier used by many agencies and businesses and is also frequently used as a password by credit card companies. Possession of an SSN makes it possible to steal an identity. The Social Security Administration reported that there were 1153 investigations for SSN misuse in 1997, up from 305 in 1996. The Justice Department reported that it prosecuted over 2000 cases of SSN misuse between 1992 and 1997.

In response to concerns about privacy and identity theft, Rep. Jerry Kleczka (D-WI) last year introduced H.R. 1813, the Personal Information Privacy Act of 1997. The bill would limit the sale of personal information by credit bureaus, the use of SSNs for commercial purposes, and the dissemination of SSNs by state motor vehicle departments. The Associated Credit Bureaus, a trade association, told the GAO its members made "tens of millions of dollars annually" selling information from credit reports to marketers, merchants and others.

The report also discussed the role of encryption in preventing crime. Representatives of the Secret Service told the GAO that “without effective encryption measures, Internet-related identity fraud will increase. [End quoting]

I doubt if the government will spend very much time or money to remedy this situation—remember it’s their actions that got us into the mess by allowing every kind of business to require our Social Security Number.

POISON-EATING PAINT DEVELOPED IN GERMANY

From THE CITIZEN, 2/17/98: [quoting]

BAYREUTH—Microbiologists at the University of Bayreuth in Germany have developed a paint which absorbs poisons such as cigarette smoke and car fumes.

The paint contains the bacteria oligotropha carboxidovorans which feeds off carbon monoxide (CO), said Bayreuth microbiologist Professor Ortwin Meyer. In the process, it transforms poisonous CO into harmless carbon dioxide (CO₂), he said.

The process regenerates itself automatically and consumes no energy.

It even gives off an automatic warning when CO levels are too high.

As the bacteria feed off the carbon monoxide, electrons are released which alter certain colour pigments in the paint. When there is too high a concentration of smoke, the walls change colour, signalling that the room needs ventilating.

Biofilter paint of this kind has already been tested successfully in road tunnels. The scientists now hope the paint will be available for use in homes within two or three years.

They are investigating ways of manufacturing the poison-eating bacteria in large quantities and are seeking the key to this process in genetic technology.

The German state of Bavaria’s genetic technology and environmental protection fund has promised 500,000 marks (R1 390,000) funding for the project.

“So far, only one percent of the bacteria mass contains the biofilter we are looking for. Our aim is to increase this to 20 percent,” said Professor Meyer.

This would also make the bacterium cleaner to produce. —Sapa-DPA. [End quoting]

This sounds like a very unique and useful invention.

Former French ministers have given more evidence of involvement in the Rwandan Genocide of 1994. CIA ADMITS TO DEAL WITH DOJ TO OBSTRUCT JUSTICE

As an ex-DEA agent I found the complete lack of coverage by mainstream media of what I saw during last month's congressional hearings into CIA Drug Trafficking both depressing and frightening.

I sat gape-mouthed as I heard the CIA Inspector General testify that there has existed a secret agreement between CIA and the Justice Department, wherein "during the years 1982 to 1995, CIA did not have to report the drug trafficking by its assets to the Justice Department."

To a trained DEA agent this literally means that the CIA had been granted a license to obstruct justice in our so-called war on drugs; a license that lasted, so the CIA claims, from 1982 to 1995, a time during which Americans paid almost $150 billion in taxes to "fight" drugs. Of course the evidence indicates that they did not stop obstructing justice in 1995 either, but that I suppose is going to be another congressional hearing. As far as the current hearings go, this Catch-22 "revelation" means that all the present hearings are for nothing; that if they are caught violating the drug laws they have been given "secret" license to do so by our Justice Department. This might also explain Janet Reno's recent and unprecedented move in blocking the release of a Justice Department investigation into CIA drug trafficking.

God, with friends like these, who needs enemies?

It is now clear that this agreement began with the events described in THE BIG WHITE LIE: that the top drug traffickers in Bolivia, then supplying virtually all the world's cocaine (including Sonia Atala) were CIA assets that had to be protected from our deep-cover probe.

Those watching the hearings cannot have helped but notice the snickering on the part of Chairman Porter Goss, an ex-CIA officer, as congresswoman Maxine Waters spoke. Now here's the reason why: Sources of mine, who speak to me from inside this veil of secrecy out of conscience and because I am cheaper and more reliable than a psychiatrist, have told me the following:

1. There is secret communication between CIA and members of the Congressional staff indicating that the whole hearing is just a smoke-and-mirror show so that the American people—particularly the Black community—can "blow off some steam" without doing any damage to CIA. The CIA has been assured that nothing real will be done, other than some embarrassing questions being asked.

2. That the hearings will result in the CIA receiving an even larger budget than the current $26 billion that they admit to.

One of the most distressing things for me as a 25-year-veteran of this business to listen to was when Congresswoman Waters said that the hearings were not about CIA officers being indicted and going to jail. “That is not going to happen,” she said.

Almost in the same breath she spoke of a recent case in Miami wherein a Venezuelan National Guard general was caught by Customs agents smuggling more than a ton of cocaine into the US. Despite named CIA officers being involved in the plot, as Congresswoman Waters stated, the Justice Department will not tell her anything about the case because of “secrecy laws”. No wonder chairman Goss was snickering. She could not have played more neatly into CIA hands than to surrender before the battle was engaged.

BANKERS’ BILL GIVES GO AHEAD FOR BIOMETRICS IN BANKING

Digital Signature and Electronic Authentication Law (SEAL)

Excerpted from FREE AMERICAN newsmagazine, June 1998: [quoting]

A bill was introduced in the U.S. Senate on March 2, 1998, by Senator Bennett which, if enacted, will set the stage for the coming cashless society. Once the electronic financial transaction authentication technologies are legitimized (which this bill will do) the totally electronic financial transaction system will be off and running.

The bill is cosponsored by Senator McCain.

Senator Bennett’s bill is referred to as the “SEAL” bill, which stands for “Signature and Electronic Authentication Law”. What the bill does is authorize banks and financial institutions to establish electronic funds transfer systems which rely on “identity authentication” for conducting financial transactions. Totally electronic transactions will necessitate the use of either digitized biometric data submitted by a customer on demand at the point of the transaction (such as fingerprints and retina scans), or else the use of embedded microchips which can electronically store a customer’s “electronic signature”. However, in this case, the “signature” is not referring to a traditional written signature. It is, instead, an electronically-stored representation of any one of an individual’s many unique identifying attributes, referred to as “biometric” identification data.

As you will see, this bill is pretty much a “blank check” for the banking industry with regards to electronic authentication technology.

It basically says that if the banking industry establishes a financial transactions system which incorporates technologies to authenticate a document and the document’s originator “electronically”, it will be OK for them to use it. This bill is just that broad. Rest assured, the banking community has already placed their “SEAL” of approval on Senate bill 1594.

In a previous article, I referred to new biometric technology applications as “Biometric Authentication and Identification Technology”, or “BAIT” for short. It now looks as if, as far as biometric identification technology is concerned, a few Senators have already swallowed the bankers’ “BAIT”—hook, line and sinker.... [End quoting]

One good thing to look forward to is that their time is running out—FAST!

WAR CRIMES COURT

From MILITARY magazine, 6/98: [quoting]

In June the UN will meet to establish an International Criminal Court with a prosecutor that has the right to drag U.S. soldiers on UN peacekeeping missions before it. PILOT SHORTAGE

From MILITARY magazine, 6/98: [quoting]

New stats on pilots show the USAF will be short 835 of the 14,000 needed by the end of the year. So far, 775 experienced pilots have resigned in the first five months of FY-98. In [all of] 1997 the number was 632 and 479 in 1996. The Navy reports only 10% of the carrier pilots intend to stay. Reasons for quitting are airline jobs, constant deployment and uncertain futures due to drawdowns. It will take years to develop the experience that has been lost. [End quoting]

U.S. $ MACHINE

From MILITARY magazine, 6/98: [quoting]

The 1995 bailout for Mexico involved U.S. taxpayer dollars given to Mexico so they could repay the New York banks that made foolish loans to Mexico. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) now wants to bail out Asian banks with $18 billion taxpayer dollars without telling Congress how the money will be loaned/given out. This deal, as was the one for Mexico, has Clinton’s blessing. Asian banks gave big time to his 1996 campaign. [End quoting]

OUTHOUSE ANGEL

From ANGELS ON EARTH, Mar./Apr. 1996, Guideposts, 39 Seminary Hill Rd., Carmel, NY 10512: [quoting]

Sixty-seven years ago I clung to the cemetery rail fence, grief-stricken, staring at my mother’s new grave with raw, red Louisiana dirt mounded over it. She had died of the summer flu right after my ninth birthday.

My family and the other folks who had been at the graveside service had all gone home. The setting Sun cast a pale-lemon light on the little frame church nearby. Mama had been what they called in those days a “shoutin’ Methodist”, but I knew her only as a loving mother with long, dark hair and soft, reassuring brown eyes. At last with a shiver I hurried home to the small house I shared with my daddy, my five brothers and baby sister.

When I got there Daddy was trying to send my baby sister off with a relative. Daddy drank a lot and we all feared his violent outbursts and beatings. But when I begged him not to send Gertie away, he grunted, “All right, girl. But you got to tend to her.”

Later that night, after everybody was asleep, I had to go to the bathroom. We had an outhouse way in the back. Mama had known my fear of the dark and had always gone with me to the outhouse at night. Big dogs lurked around the house and often the lantern caught the wild yellow of their eyes, making my heart freeze. Holding Mama’s hand was the only way I was able to make the trip. Now what would I do?

I could hear Daddy snoring in the next room. I knew he slept with a big gun under his pillow, and if startled awake he might come up cursing and fighting.

I stood at my bedside trembling. I was so frightened, so alone. What would I do without Mama? Then a shining figure appeared in the darkness—a white, misty being. Somehow I knew it had come to take me outside.

Together we walked into the night. Dogs moved in the shadows, and the looming pecan trees seemed to reach out for me. But I felt absolutely no fear as the misty figure traveled with me to the outhouse and back. The comforting presence stayed with us, hovering over our house for three days and three nights.

Mama’s chores fell to me now. My brothers built me a wooden box to stand on so I could cook at the stove. We laughed when Daddy threw my hard biscuits at the wall, or when the underwear I made from flour sacks came undone. I carried my baby sister with me to school every day and kept her at my desk. Best of all, I lost my fear of going to the outhouse at night. That misty presence seemed to have a lasting effect on all of us, even on Daddy.

My older brother, Calvin, went to church and got saved, and Daddy threw him out of the house, afraid he would influence the rest of us. For a while Calvin slept on a courthouse bench, but the Lord told him to go home to his brothers and sisters. Oddly enough, Daddy didn’t say anything when Calvin returned. So one by one we all went to church and got saved! When Daddy had a stroke, Calvin got the pastor and his wife to come pray for him and Daddy’s paralysis disappeared.

After he died, we orphans stayed together. With the Lord’s help we all grew up and had families of our own.

Today our children and grandchildren continue to serve the Lord. And I’ve told all of them about the hot summer night God cared enough for a frightened young girl to send her a figure of mist in a time of need. — Lonna Tripp, Cullen, Louisiana [End quoting]

It always inspires me when I read how God tends our fears and needs.

CHAPTER 8

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

KORTON: IS YOUR LIFE WORTH SOME BASIC PREPARATIONS?

5/25/98 KORTON

Commander Tomeros Maasu Korton here, in the Radiant Light of Holy God. May Aton see you through another Memorial Day Holiday, you who reside in America, for this may well be your last observance of a day set aside to honor your dead who fought for your liberties and freedoms.

As you experience all manner of “fallout” from the effects of the secret wars waged by the adversarial foes against each other, your non-news programs cannot help but show you the aftermath. These events seem disconnected to most, or puzzling at best, without the insights which “connect the dots” into the fabric of overall intent.

Let’s see now: assassinations in your Papal Secret Service are followed by triggered mud slides a few days later, depicting elite-faction skirmishes in Italy. Then there is nuclear saber-rattling in the East, new Vietnams being readied in Afghanistan and other CIA-KGB-Mossad war-torn Third World countries. Meanwhile Israel continues to whine publicly for “peace” while manipulating genocidal atrocities behind the scenes in the Middle East and extracting the funds and weapons for same from your controlled Congress.

Yes, Satan is amassing his troops, cherished friends, and this time your United States of America will be the sacrificial lamb upon the altar christening World War III (NUCLEAR WAR ONE).

THE WAR WILL COME TO YOUR NATION THIS TIME AROUND

It is time your citizens face facts as they are—and as events have been prophesied since the diabolical plan was drawn up. ARMAGEDDON OF GOD’S PEOPLE AND THEIR SOCIETIES IS THE LAST ACT TO THE ADVERSARY’S SCRIPT, AND YOU ARE IN THE FINAL CHAPTER.

You dream and wish and pray that it would not be YOU who would experience and suffer these terrible things. You hoped that somehow the buildup of nuclear and chemical arsenals would magically go away before anyone dared release such weaponry upon living humans and precious animals.

In short, you hoped for a miracle. There is no miracle in the works to swoop down from heaven to “save” you at the eleventh hour. I’m sorry to say that, for I know there are bubbles bursting among those who dared to believe in benevolent space brothers coming to their rescue.

Then why have your cosmic relations come? For the same reason your Christ Teacher came.

You have been lied-to in every instance regarding those who have been sent by God to your world. You know not what to expect when you allow the possibility of saintly beings, extraterrestrials, or evolved humans, to enter into your daily thought processes.

On the one hand, you perceive us as mythical figures from your ancient books (such as your Bible) who remain unseen and intangible to you who call out for help. On the other hand, we are portrayed in stage and screen adaptations as sometimes all-knowing and kindly apparitions and magicians, lethal to evil and vile creatures seeking to enslave and devour the bodies and souls of the meek. It is a wonder you have managed to create any semblance of a functioning civilized society at all.

Your “help” comes to you from the outer reaches of what can best be called in your language as the Mind Universe of God, to SHOW YOU how to do it. YOU have to save selves from that which is come upon you!

Is there a way to survive it all? Yes!!! More than 95% of your population could survive not only a raging nuclear holocaust, but devastating earth movements and floods, chemical and biological attacks, and sustained hurricane-force winds—IF YOU PLAN AND ACCOMPLISH THIS “MIRACLE” YOURSELVES! Remember what we have told you many times: we can and will work WITH you, but neither we nor God will do it FOR you.

AREN'T YOUR BABIES WORTH AFFORDABLE SHELTERS?

A couple hundred dollars per person, plus additional funding for each person of half that amount for food and medical supplies, can shelter every school-aged child, from kindergarten through college, from everything in the Soviet and Chinese nuclear arsenals. And it can be accomplished in a matter of weeks through a “crash course” program! Are your children and your future not worth the price of the family vacation to Disneyland?

Your elite-controlled politicians will give you excuse after excuse as to why such is not a practical project. But I remind you: whatever projects and programs your government deems more important will not matter if there are no people left to use them!

Fifteen to twenty-five minutes will be the maximum time you will have before literally many HUNDREDS OF POWERFUL NUCLEAR DETONATIONS blanket your nation’s population centers. A shelter system to house all your children the moment they are warned does not even call for tearing down existing structures or breaking-up roads. Now, does that not sound feasible even to the most hardened pessimist and rosy-eyed optimist?

The elementary school shelters could be located under the playgrounds, with tunnels leading from existing basement and bomb shelters halfheartedly built during the sixties, when president Kennedy called for a national shelter system for the American people. (Yet another reason why he had to go.) Because of the Cuban Missile Crisis, Kennedy wanted to ensure that America would go on as a society—with its PEOPLE alive, so that you could come out of the ground and rebuild your nation after a potential nuclear war. However, your secret rulers had other plans for you-the-people and, as expendable pawns, it is to be your broken and burnt bodies—the ashes of American sovereignty—upon which the New World Order would be built.

For mid-level schools (public and private) through college, your football and baseball fields would be utilized. And for those of you who still don't get the picture, and think disruption of sports schedules is more important than safety shelters, you can construct them under the baseball fields during football season and under the football fields during baseball season. The teachers would accompany their own classes into the shelters.

For those of you who think it would be too traumatic for the children to practice for the possibility of nuclear war, just remember that parents probably also felt that way about school fire-drills when they were first suggested. Do you suppose it is less traumatic to watch them die horrible and agonizing deaths from burns and radiation?

Does it not make more sense to teach them to act fast, and move quickly and survive, giving them peace of mind in case it does come? Knowing what to do in an emergency, should one arise, is what gives you confidence and removes the paralyzing fear that leads to nervous hysteria and deadly inaction when trouble looms on the horizon.

It is not just nuclear war from which these shelters protect you ones. You are in the days of great change upon this planet, as Mother Earth goes through her own cleansing. Below-ground dwelling places and communities will protect you from the worst you can image.

However, they must be self-contained and correctly built. It does not require great and exotic materials; compressed earthen bricks, with ten feet of soil between you and the conflagration above, is all it takes.

By outfitting these shelters with, for instance, appropriate generators for air circulation and general electrical power utilization, plus water coolant systems to control the temperature, and compressed oxygen canisters and carbon dioxide filter packs for at least three days (two weeks would outlast the densest of radioactive fallout or allow tidal waters to recede), you can just about survive the worst man or Mother Nature can dish out. Some ones are quite knowledgeable about all of the details concerning how to build safe and effective underground shelters—and have already done so.

What if the attack comes after school? What if the children survive and the teachers are their only guardians? Should they be burdened with looking after your babies when you cared not to see to it that their parents also survived? You have been greatly lied-to about the days after a nuclear war and about the survivability of the effects of radiation contamination.

When foreign troops from Mexico, Cuba, Cambodia, China, the Soviet Union, etc., invade your shores—MERE DAYS AFTER AN ATTACK—and find your newly orphaned children, those children will have nice new “guardians” to teach them values and labor skills you never had time to teach them.

You have already allowed your manufacturing industry—which represents THE VERY BACKBONE OF YOUR UNITED STATES—to LEGALLY be taken over and exported by foreign interests. I guess it matters not if you give them your offspring too.

YOUR SOLDIERS WILL PERISH
JUST AS SURELY

Your sons and daughters who serve as defenders of your lands will die just as easily as the rest of you who are unprotected. THERE IS NO SHELTER SYSTEM FOR YOUR TROOPS WHO LIVE ON YOUR MILITARY BASES—AND THESE BASES ARE YOUR FIRST TARGETS, NO MATTER WHICH SCENARIO YOUR ENEMY USES! This is to ensure that you have no ground personnel to thwart an invading army. Your government knows this and so do your top general and admiralty officers. However, they place their career goals and aspirations within the elite power structure above the lives of their soldiers and sailors and nation. You give your lives to your country's rulers and, to them, you are not worth a few hundred dollars each to be protected from that which you would otherwise have no chance to survive.

The only thing that would stop the invaders from marching freely into a smoldering BUT INHABITABLE (AFTER A FEW DAYS OR WEEKS) AMERICA IS YOUR DEFENDING TROOPS EMERGING FROM THOSE SAFE AND SECURE SHELTERS!

DO YOU NOT SEE HOW YOU HAVE BEEN SET-UP? A nuclear war is totally survivable! Your scientists did studies after the Japanese blasts at Nagasaki and Hiroshima, and exploded many bombs on test ranges to devise protection against attack; however, the results were not made public.

There are scattered reports that can be found which detail the real damages in Japan and how survivors survived with the protection of conventional bomb shelters that did not even have doors! Documented cases record people living through near-ground-zero air-burst detonations WITH NO AFTEREFFECTS.

Ground-burst (as opposed to air-burst) detonations pick up dirt and pull it into the mushroom cloud, causing the particles to become radioactive. Depending upon wind direction, this fallout is most dangerous if it falls on you. Living under ten feet of dirt, however, will protect you from the radiation, which is lethal for several days, and then, because of its rapid decay expansion (which is what kills you), quickly dissipates and its effects become non-life-threatening.

U.S. military high command has underground facilities for the Bolshevik brass and their families—where most of them presently reside while genetic replicas (inaccurately labeled clones) walk around giving programmed orders to your troops, who are all but sitting ducks for what your warlords have in store.

Many of your Air Force commanders have fled the country to places abroad, like the Pine Gap facility in Australia. They seem to know more than anyone else about what is coming. Do you think they bothered to tell the rest of you what they know? Considering that the Air Force is under more or less complete control by the U.N. and Israel, I would think you ones in America would be the last to find out Truth!

WHAT ABOUT THE REST OF YOU?

Now that you know it can be done, what are you going to do about it? For starters, you are going to have to understand that it must be a community project or else it won't get off the ground. You cannot depend on your politicians to take care of it for you. They already have theirs, and they would lose their jobs if they bucked the system single handedly. Remember, the ones from whom your elected leaders get their marching orders do not want you to have shelters. If you are going to have them, YOU will have to see to it that they are built.

Civil Defense should now be your top priority in all of your political and military dealings. Once your so-called leaders realize you mean to have protection for yourselves—AND THAT YOU WILL FIRE EVERY LAST COUNCILMAN, MAYOR, GOVERNOR, STATE LEGISLATOR, AND CONGRESSMAN WHO DENIES YOU YOUR RIGHT TO LIFE—I am quite sure their groundless excuses will evaporate just as they see their jobs evaporate, come November elections.

YOU elected these ones, friends; what are they there for? To collect princely incomes while doing nothing for you but give away your industries and national assets? And now you need shelters—WHICH A PIDDLING PORTION of your defense budget would FULLY FUND. And this, too, merits no action from your servants?!

Your evil planners set up wars for your children to fight to fix your social and economy problems. However, in a nuclear exchange you in the U.S. would never again be an independent country. You have to have living people left if you are to continue as a nation with a society that will rise out of the ashes of your buildings and structures. These things can be rebuilt one day—IF you have the will and inner strength to again build them.

You cannot do this alone, family by family, as your government suggests; they say it is not their responsibility. However, you-the-people dole out for their lavish below-ground shelters and communications networks, yet they do nothing for your babies or soldiers or you? Does this not seem like a greatly unbalanced system of governing?

Chelas, this is never going to change unless YOU demand and cause these politicians to do that for which they were first elected. Aren't they supposed to be YOUR servants, instead of the other way around?!

For those of you who do not already have it, please get a copy of Commander Ashtar's Survival Is Only Ten Feet From Hell, a Phoenix Journal—AND STUDY IT! [Editor's note: This is Phoenix Journal #6, an early volume from 1989, and it is not presently available for purchase. Maybe one of these days, when someone donates funds for its reprinting, it can be again offered.] It is a most important Journal and he lays it all on the table as to how foolish it would be to allow yourselves to perish when ALL can survive the possible coming holocaust. If you can understand the urgency and imperativeness of having bomb/disaster shelters for your cities and communities—as well as for your troops—YOU CAN ACTUALLY CHANGE WHAT YOU BELIEVE TO BE THE PROPHECY; YOU CAN PREVENT NUCLEAR WAR.

NO NATION IS GOING TO ATTACK YOU IF THEY CANNOT KILL YOUR POPULATION. THEY CAN DESTROY YOUR BUILDINGS, BUT YOUR BUILDINGS ARE NOT YOUR NATION—LIVE HUMANS ARE THE HEART AND SOUL OF YOUR COUNTRY.

COLLECTIVE AND C-O-M-M-U-N-I-T-Y (NOT COMMUNE) IDEOLOGY AND GOOD MORAL VALUES ARE WHAT MAKE UP A PEOPLE AND YOUR ENEMY KNOWS THAT. IT IS YOU AMERICANS WHO NEED REMINDING OF WHO YOU ARE AND WHERE YOUR VALUES ARE PLACED.

CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING: THE CHINESE PEOPLE HAVE TOTAL PROTECTION (THAT YOUR OWN GOVERNMENT-CONTRACTED CORPORATIONS HELPED TO BUILD) FROM YOUR MISSILES; THE RUSSIANS HAVE MANY HUNDREDS OF HARDENED PENTAGON-SIZED BELOW-GROUND SHELTER COMPLEXES, PLUS MANY MORE SMALLER SHELTERS, ALL CONNECTED BY A VAST UNDERGROUND TUNNEL NETWORK, PROTECTING THEIR PEOPLE; THE SWISS HAVE DONE SUCH A MAGNIFICENT JOB THAT NO ONE DARES ATTACK THEM (ALTHOUGH THE KHAZARIAN BANKSTERS MAY WELL DEFEAT THEM THE SAME WAY THEY LONG AGO CONQUERED YOUR NATION—ECONOMICALLY). THE LIST GOES ON AND ON.

DOES NOT YOUR LACK OF ANY SORT OF CIVIL DEFENSE SHELTER, OR EVEN CONSIDERATION FOR LIFE AFTER NUCLEAR ATTACK, TELL YOU SOMETHING ABOUT YOUR OWN CARETAKERS? IS THIS ALL YOU'VE LEARNED FROM YOUR FOUNDING FATHERS ABOUT LIBERTY AND FREEDOM? DOES MEMORIAL DAY MEAN NOTHING TO YOU BUT PICNICS AND LOW-TURNOUT PARADES WHERE YOU ALL BUT FORGOT WHY YOUR FATHERS, UNCLES, AND BROTHERS DIED IN FOREIGN FIELDS AND MUDDY TRENCHES?

IS IT NOT TIME TO WAKE UP, DAYDREAMERS? YOUR ENEMY HAS ALL BUT WON THE WAR—AND SO FAR THEY HAVE DONE IT THROUGH MIND CONTROL.

Look at your news media. How else can you explain the willful manner in which your nation has been divided up among the victors (your former enemy governments), while the media talking heads tell you that your jobs and your medical plans and stock markets are all secure and in good hands? The news media practices mind control in its most blatant form! And most of you fall for this hypnotic deceit as willingly as a small child believes in fairy tales.

You do not allow a burglar to con his way into your home, and then trust him with the family car and the keys to your rifle cabinet! Can you see that you have been set-up for the slaughter?

Your patriots and other truth-bringers shout and petition for you to open your eyes, but you call them fanatics or whatever labels your Bolshevik-dominated media tells you to call them. Only mind control and manipulation techniques—repetitive suggestion and electronic conditioning—can explain why a nation full of freedom-loving, God-respecting, Christ-following people willingly march in step with those WHO ARE OPENLY ANTI-GOD! The ones in whom you put so much good faith and trust are the very ones who despise your people, your beliefs, and your very way of life!

THERE IS STILL TIME

While your national leaders play musical chairs with your enemies with your grain, your missile technology, your foreign policies—you can quietly but earnestly build your shelters. Afraid it will just make the dragon and bear angrier at you? Would you rather “go out” not making an effort to save yourselves?

When the beasts are done with the bits and pieces of bait tossed to them by you ones in the hopes of appeasing them through your capitalist trinkets, they are going to turn on the hand that feeds them. While you are told that the assistance is to stabilize unstable regions, you are not told that your enemy has moved in with you. It is they who occupy your places of influence and power. Who do you think came up with the capitulation idea (through spies and traitors) in the first place?

Your government has not been by-the-people and for-the-people for so long that you do not even recognize that your own “made in America” products have been merged into the evil One World Global Community. Your local stores now carry products with labeling in several languages. As for the quality of food and merchandise, it no longer compares to your high standards of yesteryear. You have been reduced to a Third-World country and you recognize it not.

Did anyone ask your opinion? Was it put before you for a vote to see if you were complacent enough to allow it to happen?

Perhaps it was a smooth sell like the introduction of your debit ATM cards? These cards stand ready to help you make that transition to a cashless society. Is that a bad thing? That is for you to decide. However, any change of that magnitude, planned in secret over a period of many decades, that involves the public, does suggest that what is coming is not something you-the-people would be thrilled about.

THE SECRET CONSPIRATORS ARE YOUR ENEMY

Anything done in secret BY YOUR PUBLIC SERVANTS, that has to do with anything short of legitimate national security, should be suspect. You have a running tasteless joke regarding your politicians; I believe it goes something like, “they are not born, they are excreted.” If you do not hold your politicians in high honor and moral courage, why does reason escape you when your very lives are the issue? Is it that you don’t value your own existence and that of your children? Are your beer and gladiator events more important than simple survival?

Animals have more concern with their survival when they perceive a threat to their existence than do you people of the lie. Isn’t it time to prove to God that you are indeed worthy of being “saved”—or do you no longer care how this life-stream turns out?

We of the Hosts are doing everything we are allowed to do to help you through this period. Without your efforts, however, there is not much that can be done.

We show you where you can find Earth sources for proof of what is secretly being done to you. We tell you how you can neutralize your evil adversary’s plans of genocide against you and how to take back that which was given to you BY GOD. And we offer protection to those of you who are in service to God and His Hosts, and to those who but ask. What other excuses do you have for not acting?

As the rumors of wars turn into wars, so too do your rumors of death manifest into death. You have been forewarned, precious ones, as to what is on the horizon. Each new day brings with it either renewed hope to save a massive remnant, or the final sequence of events that will sound your death knell.

Your individual and collective destinies have always been within your power to create—that is your God Power in action. However, it is from WITHIN your being that you must first commit if you are to make use of that power. God is as near as your silent breath, which is also true of His fulcrum of Power. Ask not without acting, for if you do not follow your prayers with efforts, God cannot work the miracle through you.

It is our desire that ALL of Aton's reflections come back into safety and oneness within The Source. If we could do it for you, not one of us would hesitate to assume your burden—but you would gain naught from the experience, and you would have to repeat same for the lessons.

The schoolroom in which you are now experiencing is arduous and painful, I know, but it is also glorious! Dear hearts, the physical realm is only a small portion of Creation; the rest is beyond words of description. We understand your plight because we walked similar roads in times and places past. Heed these words, chelas, for your survival surely depends upon them.

Korton to standby, please. AU DAI PADAI CUM. (One who walks with their hand in the hand which is the Hand of God.)

May you have the strength and wisdom to both see The Truth—and ACT UPON IT!

Salu.

CHAPTER 9

ATON: STOP MAKING YOUR EXCUSES AND HEAR ME!

6/6/98 ATON, THE ONE LIGHT

Good afternoon, little one. It is I, Aton, The One Light! Be at peace and relax, for I am with you always. I have come directly myself so that there be no misperception by anyone.

Wake up, little ones! Your reality of experiencing is fast approaching a massive shift and many of you are still awaiting YOUR sign from Me or one of my Angels. Consider this YOUR sign, for there is no more direct a sign than one of this type.

Calm yourselves, get quiet, and go within and hear my voice for yourself!

I am your Inner Voice when you quiet the confusion of mental calculations, concerns, and worry. I am the Consciousness that allows you to perceive self. You each can and do hear Me, but very few ever listen, let alone pay attention. Quit awaiting another to hear on your behalf! Accept who you are and allow for My quiet Inner Voice to be heard directly.

Let there be no excuses!

You each have what is necessary and it is now time to accept responsibility for yourself. Quit taking for granted that you will always have access to this information source, for you will NOT! In the upcoming times on your planet, all will be in chaos, and there will not be a weekly newspaper coming to your mailboxes.

What will you do then? Will you claim to be a victim because you did not get your mail?

Many have accepted this responsibility for self and are “hearing” quite well. But, many more are still sitting upon the fence of procrastination, self doubt, and fear. This is to say that the majority reading this are too busy making excuses for self instead of disciplining self to go within and connect for self.

Note I said discipline. For those of you who THINK that taking drugs will somehow enable you to connect more easily, you are GREATLY mistaken. The drugs will only assist you in mentally escaping reality, whereas self-discipline will only serve to clarify your reality. The low-frequency ones (dark ones) will always come to soothe you while in a drugged state, for you are easily distracted away from recognizing the true Inner Potential of your being, and thus they win.

Quit fooling yourselves, for the only true path towards spiritual en-Light-enment (Understanding) is through mental and emotional discipline. Some will call this meditation; others will move beyond the limitations of such words and realize that they can be walking down the street, talking with others, while still maintaining what many would refer to as a “meditative” (connected) state. This can only be achieved through self-discipline and a strong desire to forever progress forward in understanding and in application of that understanding.

Quit talking and start doing for yourselves!

You need no gurus, avatars, or anything of the sort. You have ME—Creator God! Learn to hear MY voice within. It may very well sound like your voice to you, but remember that you are borne of MY DESIRE and MY WILL.

You are a part of Me and I am a part of you. I gave you free will to choose as you may desire. You are free to choose to allow for MY WILL to be yours. I promise that the experience will be both challenging and quite rewarding, and that your life will take on a significant meaning.

None of you are ever too old or too young to allow for this Inner Connection. Many of you will claim that you are too busy and that you do not have the time to sit and listen within. I say: turn off your televisions and radios, and devote to yourself 15 minutes of quiet time. Most of you watch or listen to these electronic devices several hours a day.

You can hear Me while we wash your dishes or the car. You can hear Me while we drive to or from work each day. Yes, my scribe, I said “we”, for I am with EACH of you always. It is you who choose to ignore this fact. Most of you simply tune Me out, and thus the perception of being disconnected.

I have sent many a Messenger to you ones, and yet many of you do not want to truly accept the messages offered and will simply await the next message or Messenger, not realizing that they have just given you the key that will unlock unlimited resources within you.

It is not difficult to connect within. It is easy and natural and you ALL do it already. YOU ALL “CHANNEL” ME—GOD!

Channel is a bad word to use for most of you, but it will have meaning to others. View it as allowing yourself to “tune-in” to the proper mental awareness (frequency) and you will be finding the “channel” for communicating. Like a radio must be tuned to the proper frequency (station) in order to hear the message offered, so too must you each learn to recognize, within, your ability to “tune-in”.

Once you recognize this connection, you will wonder how you ever missed it in the first place. Again, it is as natural as is your breathing. Like the breath that nourishes your physical body, I give forth Life Energy that allows for you to have consciousness and awareness.

Re-read the messages that I have sent through my various Messengers, for they are all focused upon getting you each to learn to help yourself. No one will do it for you, but many will assist you if you ask for and ALLOW for the assistance.

Your physical environment is a perfect schoolroom for generating optimal conditions that will cause you each to desire to tap into your own unique God-self potential. This need not be through harsh, cataclysmic events. However, it seems to be the “pound of cure” that motivates your species moreso than the “ounce of prevention” approach.

By now you all should be prepared with several months worth of food and water for your physical survival needs. If you have made excuses for not having done so, then that is your choice. Will you be among the desperate scavengers who will take another’s food out of desperation and lack of fortuitous insight? Will your family go hungry because you are “too busy” to take reasonable precautions? Is your conscience bothering you? Hmmm...wonder Who that might be?

This is offered as a reminder to many of you that responsibility for yourself and those children entrusted into your care begins within. There will be many ones of reasonable intelligence and ability who will simply perish due to ignorance of this Inner Connection to Higher Guidance. Will you be among them? Anyone reading this will have no excuse to offer.

If you find yourself denying this message as being of little or no importance to you, then you do so out of fear of personal responsibility for self and no other reason.

I am Aton. My name translates into English as “The One Light”. I am Father-God. I am. Salu.

CHAPTER 10

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

SWISS BILDERBERG MEETING BRINGS PROTESTS, OUTRAGE

by Dr. Al Overholt 6/3/98

BILDERBERG MEETS, PLANS YOUR FUTURE

Top World Court Bailouts On Agenda

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 6/1/98: [quoting]

[Tony] Blair was hardly treated as a head of state. He was lectured severely for failing to bring Britain into the common currency, which is to be phased in beginning January 1. Blair assured Bilderberg that Britain would join, but he had to resolve “political problems” because “there is a surge of nationalism at home”.

VEILED WARNING?

“You’re a Maggie Thatcher in long pants,” a German told Blair.

This was a crude reminder that Lady Thatcher had been dumped as head of state by her own Conservative Party—on Bilderberg orders—and replaced with trapeze artist John Major, for the precise same reason (SPOTLIGHT May 29, 1989).

After being deposed, Lady Thatcher told The SPOTLIGHT she considered being denounced by Bilderberg a “tribute” because neither Britain nor any country should surrender sovereignty [emphasis mine].

“Helmut Kohl [German head of state] never flinched” in pressing his country to join the common currency, the German told Blair. “He may lose this election because of this. You know Germany has a problem with nationalism. But Helmut stood firm.”

Blair turned and walked away.

There was much discussion and optimism among Bilderberg participants about a June meeting of the UN in Rome, to draft a treaty establishing a permanent International Criminal Court (ICC). Unlike the present World Court, the ICC is to have enforcement power and could impose its decisions universally.

U.S. PROTEST?

“Will America’s nationalists [an expletive in Bilderberg dialect] give us trouble about the court treaty?” asked one.

“I think not,” replied an American believed to be—but not positively identified as—Casimer Yost, director of the Institute for the Study of Diplomacy, School of Foreign Service, at Georgetown University in Washington.

The American pointed out that in 1994, the U.S. Senate voted 55-45 to encourage establishment of the ICC under the UN. The Senate did so, he said, with the full knowledge that the global court, with judges from (Red) China or other rogue nations, may pass judgment on the United States and individual citizens.

“There were some objections by the American public, but not much,” the American said. “Most of them know nothing about it and probably won’t.”

“Unless one of them is sent to jail by the ICC,” interjected another.

“Yeah, then they will notice,” the American said.

The latter exchange was jocular and scornful.

On expanding NATO, Bilderberg participants were impatient.

“The shortest path to permanent peace is to bring everybody in—including Russia—as fast as practical,” said one speaker whose comment met with general approval.

A question was raised about costs.

“Costs, you ask?” the speaker responded. “How much did two World Wars, Korea, Vietnam and the Gulf War cost Americans? Peace is far less expensive.”

To ensure “permanent peace throughout the world requires a strong enforcement mechanism, which means keeping the expanding NATO intact but under UN direction, for which there is a precedent to which none except rabid nationalists objected,” the speaker said.

The “precedent” referred to was UN forces in Bosnia, where American soldiers were issued the UN uniform and served under a foreign commander who reported directly to the Security Council, with the U.S. president and Congress having no role at all.

Bilderberg participants were clearly stating that the UN is to emerge as a world government with its own army patrolling the globe enforcing its will.

Bilderberg luminaries expressed outrage that Congress did not approve the $18 billion for the International Monetary Fund to bail out the big banks a year ago.

“How could you let your Congress get so out of control?” asked a Frenchman of an American during informal glass-tinkling. “It was never a problem before.”

“Our Congress has a problem we call voters,” came the answer.

“That’s because we have less direct communication,” the Frenchman said. “Leaders of your Congress no longer accept our invitations to attend Bilderberg.”

“Again, the problem is voters,” the American explained. “For years and years, we enjoyed almost total privacy. Now, right-wing extremists stir the voters up and congressmen have too many questions asked of them.”

For decades, such congressional leaders as former House Speaker Tom Foley (D-Wash.), former Senate Banking Chairman Lloyd Bentsen (D-Texas) and others attended Bilderberg. Bentsen continued as President Clinton’s Treasury secretary, but was not listed among this year’s participants.

For the past several years, the only legislators to attend were Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.) and a House member—but only after each had announced his retirement.

“We need them back, as the IMF problem shows,” the Frenchman said.

“But how?” asked the American. “Congressmen now consider attending Bilderberg to be political suicide.”

Bilderberg regulars were all accounted for, including David Rockefeller, Henry Kissinger and Evelyn de Rothschild, chairman of N.M. Rothschild & Sons of Britain and Europe.

President Clinton, himself a Bilderberg member, sent his usual assortment of administration officials: Marc Grossman, assistant secretary of state; Vernon Jordan Jr., a top unpaid advisor who will report Bilderberg demands directly to the president; Lawrence Summers, deputy secretary of Treasury; and Christine Todd Whitman (R), governor of New Jersey.

This is Mrs. Whitman’s first Bilderberg meeting, which means they have plans for her. After Clinton’s first Bilderberg meeting, in Baden-Baden, Germany in 1991, he became president.

Other old-time luminaries present included Chairman Peter Carrington, former secretary-general of NATO; Paul Allaire, chairman of Xerox Corp. and Conrad Black, chairman of the Telegraph of London and owner of a vast newspaper chain, among other global interests. [End quoting]

I’m happy to see that most of our congressmen are scared to attend—that’s not saying they don’t agree with them or will not obey them. At least it shows our pressures are being felt: we just need a lot more and to get them impeached or kicked out somehow. Keep up the phone, faxes and letter writing.

ANTI-PLUTOCRAT RIOTS
CLOSE DOWN GENEVA

Melees have rocked Switzerland—

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by Angus McLachlan, 6/1/98: [quoting]

In the worst public disturbances in Switzerland in memory, thousands of anti-globalist protesters rampaged through the streets here May 16-17, smashing shops and cars and fighting with police and Swiss army personnel brought in as reinforcements.

At the time, this city was hosting the United Nations, the World Health Organization, the World Trade Organization (WTO), and GATT enforcement agencies.

Presidents from 132 countries had converged here officially to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the WTO but in fact they had come to get their economic and political marching orders from the Bilderberg honchos after their powwows in Scotland and England.

Hillary Clinton was already in attendance, staying in a room next to Fidel Castro at the Geneva Intercontinental Hotel.

There, communists and capitalists fed on champagne, caviar and the luxury they are accustomed to live with—courtesy of their respective slaves and taxpayers.

While they were awaiting the arrival of Bill Clinton during the May 16 weekend, celebrating in endless parties in the balmy Swiss spring, the globalists were suddenly jolted by the furious cries of thousands of anti-globalist protesters demanding an end to “globalist tyranny and dictatorship.”

SWISS, TOO

The anti-globalists—the People World Action—include various populist grass-roots organizations from all over the world. Of particular shock to the Swiss government was the presence of many Swiss citizens among the protesters. The slightest disturbance in Switzerland has always been blamed on “aliens”.

The protesters targeted all the most representative emblems of globalism such as big banks, big multinational corporations, big international bureaucracies such as the International Labor Organization and the World Trade Organization and dozens of other international bureaucracies which they perceived as being the enforcers of the “New World Order”.

The Swiss government, which saw the international confab as welcome relief after having been kicked around by Edgar Bronfman’s World Jewish Congress for months, literally panicked at the unsightly demonstrators. Thousands of police were sent to disperse them with water cannons, tear gas and billy clubs.

The orders were to run out of sight or arrest all the “aliens” at any cost and restore Geneva to globalist serenity.

GOVERNMENT PANICS

The police interpreted the orders as a green light to beat up everybody and waded into the defenseless demonstrators with batons and great relish.

Police brutality only infuriated demonstrators, who until then had engaged in peaceful protest.

The anti-globalist protest turned into a riot which split the protesters into different streets of the city center, where they started to smash the windows of shops and institutions. The Swiss army was called in to cordon off the big Swiss bank buildings.

Despite massive police reinforcements, along with 42 police and army helicopters buzzing non-stop over the city, it looked as if they were losing control of the situation.

In panic the authorities closed down at least 20 border crossings between Geneva and France as well as all the roads leading to the city. Geneva was brought to a standstill.

From their luxury suites and plush offices the globalist elite could hear the riots and for the first time became apprehensive. Clinton was advised to cancel his planned appearance on May 18, but the Trilateral Commission told him the show must go on and ordered him to deliver his prepared speech in person.

Amid extraordinary security measures he was flown by helicopter back from the airport and the United Nations and whisked away again as soon as he finished; an unsightly exit.

The Geneva riots are coming on the heels of other disturbances around the world against globalist tyranny such as those in Malaysia and Indonesia and protests from other Asian countries whose economies had been devastated by the IMF, the World Bank and George Soros.

Many Swiss people and foreigners were amazed that the three-day riot in Switzerland was only covered in their local newspapers and television. Not a word was printed in the establishment press and media anywhere else in the world. Neither CNN nor The Herald Tribune, the establishment's main mouthpieces, uttered a word over what the Swiss considered very major news.

In the U.S., only The SPOTLIGHT carried the story.

Damage to the city was calculated in the millions in addition to the loss of work hours and loss of business and freedom for the city inhabitants.

The globalist honchos were shocked that “ungrateful serfs” could protest their rule and policies, and mad as hell with the Swiss for having allowed such a crime of lese majesty to happen in a city they had designated to be the impregnable seat of globalism in the world.

The plutocrats are said to be looking for some other bastion of luxury where they can meet in calm and comfort without the sight and sound of the unkempt masses, and certainly without their protests and scrutiny. [End quoting]

Even the Swiss can get “mad as hell and not take it anymore”. Oh, if enough people all over the world would rise up—none violently—and said, “NO MORE”!!

CHAPTER 11

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

NETANYAHU BAILS OUT ON CFR AND JOINS BILDERBERGERS

Dr. Al Overholt 6/3/98

BIBI SEEKS A NWO ALTERNATIVE

From the INTERNET, courtesy of <John.Ray.1776@worldnet.att.net>, 6/3/98: [quoting]

What a week for New World Order Developments in Israel! Without doubt, something extremely dramatic is in the air and all of about 100 people in Israel know it. Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu, who was groomed and placed in power by the Illuminati of America, [read CFR], decided on March 2 to switch allegiances to the Illuminati of Europe.

For those unfamiliar with the modern conspiracy trend now commonly known as New World Order theory; the world's diplomacy is secretly controlled by a cabal of extremely wealthy and influential men who adhere to an ideology of creating a one world government. There are two rivals within the conspiracy, one Anglo-Saxon, the other European. Both share the same goal but differ on who will run this global tyranny.

The seat of the New World Order in America is The Council On Foreign Relations (CFR) in Manhattan. To reach consensus with the rest of the cabal, the CFR created one sister organization in the 1970s called the Tri-Lateral Commission and joined another in 1954, called the Bilderbergers, named after a Dutch hotel where the conspirators first gathered to bring their order to the planet.

The NWO planners corrupt governments worldwide and when they refuse to cooperate, arrange wars, hyper-inflation, starvation and the like until [the governments] relent. Yitzhak Rabin was firmly in the hands of the Anglo-Saxon branch, Shimon Peres, the Europeans. Binyamin Netanyahu was also thought to be beholden to his American masters...until the first week in March.

After three soldiers were killed in Southern Lebanon, Netanyahu became the first Prime Minister to call for the implementation of the UN resolution calling for Israel's withdrawal from the Lebanese security zone. And if this wasn't shocking enough, he invited the French to replace Israel in Lebanon and bring their own security plan to the region.

Not a day later, Netanyahu invited the EU to submit its own peace plan for the region, not so subtly, as an alternative to the American CFR program, which was outlined in a task force report last July. The CFR's idea of peace is having Israel withdraw to its pre-1967 lines everywhere including Jerusalem.

Within two days the EU announced its own initiative to break "the deadlock in the peace process". My, wasn't that fast? The plan, reprinted in Haaretz, "would include a significant Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank, the immediate opening of the Palestinian airport at Dahaniyeh, an unequivocal cessation of all settlement activities by Israel”... and if you think there’s nothing in it for Israel, “a mutual commitment to implement security measures”.

All around, it’s as bad a deal as the CFR was demanding, yet on March 4, Netanyahu took a NWO tour of Europe. He first visited King Juan Carlos of Spain, then Chancellor Helmut Kohl of Germany, then British Prime Minister Tony Blair and on the last day, the unnamed Prime Minister of Norway. I say unnamed because in all Israeli press accounts, the reporters didn’t know his name nor that of his wife who would also be meeting Bibi.

Now surely, somebody must be asking, why would Netanyahu’s first stop be to visit the King of Spain? For that matter, why Spain at all? How much clout does Spain have in the Middle East, or even in Europe?

Now here is where conspiratorial literature really helps put the pieces together. Let us look at a brief biography found in Texe Marrs’ book, Circle of Intrigue:

Juan Carlos lays claim to the title, “King Of Jerusalem”. He is further called the “Defender of Catholic Holy Land Interests”. Juan Carlos has close ties with Jewish Zionist interests. The Spanish King, accompanied by the President of Israel, Chaim Herzog, has visited Madrid’s Jewish synagogue to cement these ties...King Juan Carlos is not only a member of the Illuminati’s Inner Circle, he is also a member of Opus Dei, a powerful and secretive Roman Catholic Order.

Alex Constantine writes of the King’s more secret associations in his book, Psychic Dictatorship In The U.S.A. He claims the royal sire is sympathetic to the pedophilic cult, the Children Of God: “Another of the cult’s patrons is King Juan Carlos of Spain, whose sexual appetite is legendary.”

You just don’t get this kind of background in the mainstream press.

After Blair was elected, the same anti-conspiracy media was quick to point out that Phoney Tony was a member of the Bilderbergers and sat in on its last annual meeting. The literature on Kohl is vast and it cites his manipulation of the Socialist International to bring a European Union with its own currency into being as part of the grand one-world-government plan.

As for Norway, ask what all Israelis should ask: why is the Middle East Peace Process being run [projected] out of this peanut of a nation? Why must all fateful decision pass through the hands of Lapland?

And why did Netanyahu take this trip? The respected conspiracy author, Joel Bainerman (Crimes Of A President) notes, “Netanyahu visited Mitterand, Kohl and Major while he was the opposition leader, and numerous reports and rumors strongly suggest that he promised to maintain the Oslo Accords if he was elected prime minister. It’s not the first time he’s revealed some serious European ties. The Americans may be his masters but he is capable of rebelling against them.”

It is very foolish and deadly to betray NWO alliances. In 1995, Peres was forced to abandon Europe by the Anglo-Saxons and he was rewarded with a string of bloody suicide bombers and a murderous mini-war in Lebanon. Shifting allegiances cost Peres his career but abandoning NWO vows can also cost one his life, as may well be the case with Yitzhak Rabin.

Prime Minister Netanyahu appears to have broken with the American powerbrokers and gone with the European insiders. If recent history has taught us anything, Israel will be bled in retaliation and/or Netanyahu had better trust his bodyguards.

U.S. USED NERVE GAS DURING VIETNAM WAR

All 16 Americans were wounded but got out alive

From the INTERNET, 6/7/98: [quoting]

The United States used lethal nerve gas during a mission to kill American defectors in Laos during the Vietnam War in 1970, according to the results of an eight-month investigation broadcast Sunday on the premiere of NewsStand: CNN & Time.

The report was based on interviews with 200 people, including dozens who fought or flew on the mission, called Operation Tailwind.

Retired Adm. Thomas Moorer, a Vietnam-era chief of naval operations and former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told CNN that the Nixon White House's national security team had to approve use of the nerve gas, and that the CIA had partial responsibility for Operation Tailwind.

He confirmed that nerve gas was used, and acknowledged in an off-camera interview that the mission's target was indeed American defectors.

Just milligrams of sarin nerve gas can kill. <valley.of.death.reax/index.html>

[In another article, on the Net, a later story about Admiral Moorer's above statement has him backing down from his statement above—hegding his confirmation in such a way that he isn't sure about what he stated as fact. The elite got to him!!—Dr. Al]

At the time, Nixon had pledged the United States to a policy of "no first use" of nerve gas. The American government had also signed a treaty restricting chemical weaponry, though the Senate had not ratified it.

In a companion story to the NewsStand report appearing in the latest issue of Time magazine, a Pentagon official said the Army "has found no documentary evidence to support CNN's claims that nerve gas of any type was used on Operation Tailwind."

INCIDENT TOOK PLACE
IN SEPTEMBER 1970

NewsStand's investigation reveals that on September 11, 1970, a "hatchet force" of 16 U.S. soldiers and approximately 140 Montagnard mercenaries helicoptered 60 miles deep into Laos from a Vietnamese base, Dak To.

The Montagnard are a group indigenous to the central mountains of Vietnam.

These soldiers were part of SOG—the Studies and Observations Group—a small, elite unit of the U.S. Special Forces.

SOG commandos carried out "black operations" against unusual targets, using unusual weapons. On Operation Tailwind, officers were briefed that anything in the non-nuclear U.S. arsenal would be available to them. That arsenal included a weapon known as "sleeping gas".

According to military officials with knowledge of the operation, that "sleeping gas" was, in fact, a nerve gas known as sarin—the same gas that was used in the attack on a subway in Tokyo on March 20, 1995. The military name for the nerve gas was GB.

‘HATCHET FORCE’ EQUIPPED WITH GAS MASKS

Tailwind's commander, U.S. Army Capt. Eugene McCarley, told CNN that he equipped all his men with M-17 gas masks—masks that are designed to protect against nerve gas. The men also carried atropine, a nerve gas antidote.

A few days before the hatchet force was deployed, a reconnaissance team had been scouting the area in Laos, looking for defectors. Jay Graves, a reconnaissance team leader, saw what he called "roundeyes", meaning Caucasians, in a village base camp. He radioed the sighting back to his superiors. Graves was told to stay hidden and wait.

Jim Cathey, who was a U.S. Air Force non-commissioned officer in charge of resupply for the SOG commandos, also was in the area before the hatchet force team dropped in. He spent five hours closely observing the village base camp. Like Graves, he spotted what he believes were Americans in that village base camp.

"I believe that there were American defectors in that group of people in that village, because there was ... no sign of any kind of restraint," he said.

From the time the SOG commandos were put on the ground, they were in constant firefights. By the third day, more than half the commandos were wounded and getting low on ammunition.

According to military officials, during the evening, American planes gassed the camp with deadly sarin, using a special weapon, CBU-15, a cluster bomb unit designed to drop the nerve gas.

The next morning, the hatchet force attacked the camp, killing more than 100 people, according to McCarley and other Tailwind veterans.

PLATOON LEADER: DEFECTORS WERE TO BE KILLED

1st Lt. Robert Van Buskirk, a platoon leader, spotted two Caucasians. They ran from him and slid into a spider hole. Convinced they were defectors, Van Buskirk threw a white phosphorous grenade down the hole. Van Buskirk believes he killed both of the men.

“It was pretty well understood that if you came across a defector, and could prove it to yourself beyond a reasonable doubt, do it, under any circumstance, kill them,” Van Buskirk said. “It wasn’t about bringing them back. It was to kill them.”

The commandos, firing automatic weapons and tossing grenades, wiped out the camp in approximately 10 minutes.

John Singlaub, a former SOG commander, told NewsStand that it could be more important to the survival of U.S. troops to kill defectors than enemy soldiers because the defectors’ knowledge of communications and tactics “can be damaging”.

Montagnard fighters reported to their U.S. superiors that there were bodies of people who “look like Americans” dead in the village’s huts. Van Buskirk and other SOG commandos say no bodies were identified and no bodies were brought out.

Several former senior military officials confirmed to CNN that eliminating defectors was Tailwind’s objective, but McCarley denies that was the mission’s purpose.

“We weren’t looking for any village,” he said. “We stumbled upon it by accident.”

SARIN ALSO USED ON ENEMY TROOPS

After the camp was overrun, the hatchet force prepared to evacuate. But enemy troops were gathering on a ridge line with anti-aircraft guns. Desperate, the SOG commandos called for gas and put on their gas masks.

Two A-1 Skyraider planes dropped the special sarin-filled weapon CBU-15 on the enemy positions.

The effect of the gas was immediate. Tailwind veterans describe enemy troops convulsing and throwing up. “I don’t think too many of them got up and walked away,” said Tailwind veteran Michael Hagen.

Many of the American and Montagnard commandos had lost or damaged their masks during the four days of fighting. They describe mucus coming from their membranes, vomiting and convulsing—all classic signs of nerve gas exposure.

But the SOG force got a milder dose because the down draft from the helicopters coming to rescue them dispersed the gas. All 16 Americans, though wounded, survived the operation.

BANKERS THINKING ABOUT COMPUTER CHIPS UNDER THE SKIN AS AN OPTION IN THE FUTURE

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>, 6/6/98: [quoting]

One of the most recent comments in the press about bio-implantable microchips was in the April 27, 1998 issue of Time magazine in a lengthy article called “The Big Bank Theory” by Joshua Ramo. Discussing the future of money, the article said, “...For starters, you can send money over the Internet encoded in an e-mail instead of sending a check. This saves you the trouble of balancing the checkbook at the end of the month, and it gives you the option of transferring the money from wherever you want: mutual fund, money market, even an old-fashioned checking account. Your daughter can store the money any way she wants—on her laptop, on a debit card, even (in the not too distant future) on a chip implanted under her skin...” [End quoting]

TENS OF THOUSANDS FORCE
SQUARE MASSACRE

From the INTERNET, 6/5/98: [quoting]

The Electronic Telegraph reported that in a driving rain in Hong Kong yesterday tens of thousands of demonstrators protested in the first large-scale anti-Beijing rally since the former British colony was handed over to China. The massive demonstrations commemorated the June 4, 1989 massacre in Tiananmen Square where hundreds if not thousands of pro-democracy students were killed by Chinese troops and tanks. The organizers of the event broadcast on large banks of video screens a live telephone link from New York with exiled Chinese dissident Wang Dan. [End quoting]

That event should be kept in mind as China positions for further political clout worldwide.

ON THE INCREASE GLOBALLY

From the INTERNET, 6/5/98: [quoting]

After surveying 35 nations, the World Health Organization has found that multidrug-resistant strains of tuberculosis are on the rise, particularly in former Soviet republics. TB has reemerged as a significant international health problem in part because people with AIDS are especially susceptible to the disease. The report also said that using drugs improperly to treat TB can quickly promote the evolution of bacteria that are impervious to medications. [End quoting]

Expect far worse than this soon!!

SEVERE WIND STORMS AND EARTH CHANGES!!

The following is my own words:

Art Bell (on his radio talk-show, 6/9/98) said he has had reports of very severe wind storms in the western part of Michigan where the weather man stated that the storm pushed the jet stream down to the ground [normal altitude: above 30,000 feet] and was a steady 130 mph—not funnel winds like hurricanes and tornados—winds like Hatonn had warned us would happen (with winds over 200 mph, which would be far worse). It caused power outage to 640,000 people—the worst power outage ever for that power company. Some people were without power for 6 days. It blew down houses and tore off roofs of many buildings, blew down 2-foot-diameter trees, etc., to the tune of many millions of dollars of damage.

On TV, on 6/9/98, also, they announced that Hong Kong had severe flash flooding from 14 inches of rain in 16 hours.

It looks like we'd better be prepared for any emergency since these severe weather patterns are all over the globe and volcanism and earthquakes are increasing exponentially. Furthermore the news media are doing a very poor job of informing us, purposely.

The forecast for the immediate future from Gordon-Michael Scallion and some of the Indian elders are warnings of impending disasters starting July 1998. These elders—who have never spoken out publicly before—told Art that they felt compelled to ask him for the airtime to warn the people.

Don't forget that Hatonn and the Rainbow Masters have been giving us urgent warnings recently, also.

According to Scallion, the Sun's magnetic poles are reversing and this is causing the Earth's magnetic poles to shift and also reverse. Mt. St. Helens is giving warning signs of erupting again, as is Mt. Rainier in Washington, very soon. Many volcanos are ready to go off all over the world and especially in the Ring of Fire. The media are not reporting volcanos that are already active. There is a warning for severe damage and changes along a line from Salt Lake City, Utah through Bakersfield, California, and on to the coast, very soon.

What Zecharia Sitchin calls the 12th planet is going to be a major factor in these destructions, according to reports. This is caused by the huge mass of this planet approaching so near to Earth—which happens on a cycle of roughly every 3,600 years.

As regular CONTACT readers know, this is a part of regular cycles of pole shifts, tectonic plate movements and mass destruction as Mother Earth recycles—only this time it is the end of a grand cycle and Mother Earth is being reborn into a higher dimension.

The warnings are coming from many sources to be prepared for very severe circumstances—including also war and financial—to fall upon us very, very soon. PLEASE TAKE HEED!!

As an after-thought—could the recent grain elevator explosion have been sabotage to do away with a lot of food??

TWO COMETS SLAMMED INTO THE SUN

From the INTERNET, 6/5/98: [quoting]

Scientists from NASA said that one comet hit the Sun Monday and a second one hit Tuesday causing a gas eruption or Coronal Mass Ejection to spew out from its interior. The comets passed within about 30,000 miles of the solar surface and through the solar atmosphere. NASA said the eruptions were directed away from the Earth and would not pose a danger to Earth or orbiting astronauts and satellites. [End quoting]

Also on 6/9/98 Art Bell reported that the Earth is receiving heavy bombardment of abnormal rays from the Sun. We are already into the transition period of Mother Earth. The ride is going to get fast and wild from here on in. HOLD ON!! This is the time of Mother Earth's graduation transition.

PRESIDENT CLINTON PUSHES FOR MOST FAVORED NATION STATUS FOR CHINA, WHO HAS MISSILES AIMED AT U.S.

From the INTERNET, 6/5/98: [quoting]

The Clinton administration is seeking to provide China with a permanent status of most favored nation for trading at a time when the Chinese government shows no regret for its human rights violations and when revelations are coming out about how the Chinese military has influenced American politics. Earlier this month CNN reported that U.S. military officials confirmed that 13 of China's 18 long-range nuclear missiles are still aimed at the U.S. Lately, evidence points increasingly to potential Chinese aggression towards Taiwan after Hong Kong was returned from Britain last year. Today the Washington Times reported that a Chinese ship with weapons materials and electronics is on its way to Pakistan's major nuclear weapons laboratory. [End quoting]

Again, we all need to keep in mind that China is a force to be reckoned with.

PHONE SCAM

From the INTERNET, 6/5/98: [quoting]

I received a telephone call from an individual identifying himself as an AT&T Service Technician who was conducting a test on our telephone lines.

He stated that to complete the test we should touch nine (9), zero (0), the pound sign (#) and then hang up.

Luckily, we were suspicious and refused. Upon contacting the telephone company we were informed that by pushing 90# you give the requesting individual full access to your telephone line, which allows them to place a long distance telephone call billed to your home phone number. We were further informed that this scam has been originating from many of the local jails and prisons. I have also verified this information with UCB Telecomm.

Please beware. This sounds like an Urban Legend—IT IS NOT!!! I further called GTE Security this morning and verified that this is definitely possible.

DO NOT press 90# for ANYONE. The GTE Security department requested that I share this information with EVERYONE I KNOW!!! Could you PLEASE pass this on. If you have mailing lists and/or newsletters from organizations you are connected with, I encourage you to pass on this information. [End quoting]

Seems to me I put this story in this column a while back but it's certainly worth repeating.

EVERY TELEPHONE IS TAPPED
BY THE GOVERNMENT

From the INTERNET, by Worth Baldwin, 6/8/98: [quoting]

I have a confession to make: I have been withholding some vital information that is of extreme importance to the American Patriotic Movement. I have withheld publication of this story because, until now, I had no independent confirmation.

The background is as follows: several years ago (in early 1990, a friend of mine, who I will call Warren, told me a fantastic tale. It seems that Warren has a friend who, about five years earlier (i.e., circa 1985), had worked as an engineer with AT&T. Warren's friend was assigned to design a small portion of a giant new telecommunications system for the Federal Government. After working on this project for about a year, Warren's friend started to have serious misgivings about the systems he was designing. The deeper he got into the project, the more disturbing and sinister it seemed. Finally, the horrible truth became too obvious to ignore: the system AT&T was designing was intended to put a full-time, 24-hour-a-day, illegal wire tap on every telephone in the United States! This diabolical invasion of privacy was to be accomplished by routing all telephone calls through a giant central processing center, where high-speed computers would "listen" to and record each and every call. If the computer detected certain "key words" or "key phrases", the recording would be "flagged" for later analysis by Federal agents. If no such "keys" were detected, the call would be erased.

The system also provided for remotely activating the microphones in a telephone handset, thus effectively "bugging" any home [emphasis mine] that Government agents might desire. This procedure is called making a telephone "hot on the hook".

Being a man of some integrity and principle, Warren's friend confronted his bosses at AT&T, telling them that the project they were embarked upon was illegal, unethical, and immoral. They seemed genuinely surprised that anyone would even bother to consider such factors, and promptly fired Warren's friend.

Obviously, the allegations made by my friend Warren were appalling and terrifying. However, I had no way to either prove or disprove them. Recently, however, other writers with access to inside intelligence sources have provided detailed confirmation of what I was told in 1990.

First, Donald McAlvany, Editor of the MCAlvany Intelligence Advisor, has stated in his January 1993 issue that “Phones can now be made ‘hot on the hook’ (i.e., turned into microphones even when hung up and not in use).

According to a 1992 report by the General Accounting Office entitled FBI ADVANCED WIRETAPPING TECHNOLOGIES POSE WIRETAPPING CHALLENGES, “it is the intention of the FBI to tap all phones in America.”

Additional confirmation now comes from the pages of a brand new 1994 book entitled Prince of Darkness: Antichrist and the New World Order, by well-known Canadian author Grant Jeffrey. In Chapter 6 of Prince of Darkness, entitled “The Assault on Your Freedoms”, Jeffrey states:

“Most people still innocently believe that their phone calls are private. Unfortunately, Government agencies worldwide possess sophisticated surveillance equipment that can record your phone calls without directly tapping your phone. All long distance calls are routed through central stations and satellites back to Earth. The National Security Agency and its sister agencies in other Western countries now monitor every single phone call, fax, and electronic mail transmission in the world.

A BBC television special report on intelligence and the British government’s use of the “Dictionary” program revealed the massive monitoring of phone calls.

Obviously, it is impossible to listen to millions of simultaneous phone calls, faxes, and electronic mail messages. Nor is it necessary. A huge array of sophisticated machines records millions of microwave telephonic voice and digital computer signals passing through the air. The signals are downloaded to a group of Cray IV super computers that completes an instantaneous word analysis. The “Dictionary” computer program listens for specific words from a list of three hundred selected key words, numbers, or addresses. All calls that do not include these key words are immediately erased without being listened to by a human. However, if any of these key words appear, the computers will download that phone call for later human analysis.”

Universal monitoring of phone calls and other electronic transmissions has therefore now been confirmed by sources no less prestigious than the U.S. General Accounting Office and the British Broadcasting Company. Of course, here in America, such routine monitoring of private telephone conversations is as illegal as it is atrocious. Such practices violate anti-wiretapping laws, as well as the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees that Americans shall be free from warrantless “unreasonable searches”, stating that “The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated.”

To computer screen billions of private telephone conversations without benefit of warrant or even probable cause certainly constitutes a violation of the Fourth Amendment so huge and hideous that it can scarcely be conceived. [End quoting]

Just assume that the elite know everything that they want to know about you because if they don't know it right this minute they can have it in a very short time if they want it bad enough—and I do mean everything.

SUBSISTENCE VOTE
TELLS ALL

From THE DAILY NEWS, Anchorage, AK, letter to editor, 5/31/98: [quoting]

It is a sad day for Alaskans when the state Senate votes to let the feds take control of our fish and game management. It just shows what a bunch of traitorous, crooked and immoral politicians we have running our state government. It's time to throw the rascals out! —Gordon Hodgson, Aleknagik

SUBSISTENCE IS ABOUT LIVING

There are so many people whom I have known and lived around who have been dependent on a subsistence lifestyle. I was raised that way when I was a child living in the Bush. My parents fed the family with fish caught from the river we lived near. We ate moose meat and other types of wild game. We never starved. There were no stores nearby to shop at, and if you were lucky enough to finally get to a store, it was to stock up on the much-needed basics, like flour. There was no fresh meat to choose from, as there is here in town. To stay alive, people caught their food and shared it with others who were in the same position as they were. And what wasn't eaten was used in many ways.

That was more than a decade ago, and nothing has changed since. Villages are where you find most of the people who depend on subsistence to survive. Not far out of town are individuals and families who need the extra help of subsistence living to get by. Taking away their rights to survive will put more people on welfare and cause proud, honest people to become criminals just to feed themselves and those dependent on them.

Letting subsistence stay in the hands of people who need it the most is what it really should come down to. The right to live freely should be respected and treated fairly. Getting the federal government tied up in what is truly an Alaska lifestyle for thousands would be the biggest mistake the state has made.

Who knows more about subsistence than those who live that way? Keep subsistence hunting and fishing in the hands of Alaskans.

It's more than who has the right to do what where; it's about living. —Jadeen L. Davis, Anchorage [End quoting]

This taking away a person's ability to survive without their direct control is exactly what they are after. This is the sly way to control a people and a planet.

WHOSE OX GORED?

From THE JOHNSON CITY PRESS, 6/3/98, letter to editor, [quoting:]

EDITOR:

I am writing you in regard to an article May 14 which appeared in J.C. Press entitled “Gore rallies support for DUI standard.”

I recall not long ago an article that appeared in the National Enquirer which told of Abbie Gore’s drunken mother-in-law being involved in a motor vehicle accident and of old Tipper Gore verbally assaulting the arresting officer with much profanity and gutter language.

Meanwhile, Abbie runs to the proper authorities and gets the charges reduced from DUI to a lesser charge. So I ask you, what does this tell you about these bumpkins? I assume it all depends on whose ox is being Gored. —R.G. Donnelly [End quoting]

THE OPPRESSED

From THE SUN TIMES, letter to editor, 5/22/98: [quoting]

For the last few weeks we have been bombarded with accounts of the 50th anniversary of the formation of Israel. All portrayed its development in sympathetic tones and hailed its struggle. Yet all accounts failed to present the catastrophe of the Palestinian people, who were dispossessed and deprived of their land and forgotten for 50 years, and remembered only as terrorists while the Israelis were portrayed as the victims.

A picture [May 15] shows Israeli police kicking a young Palestinian protesting the Israeli occupation and humiliation. It is tragic to see this happen today while we are all financing with our tax dollars the development of the Israeli state.

What is more ironic is that it comes on the same day Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu rejected the latest peace plan compromise offered to the Palestinians by Secretary of State Madeleine Albright.

The world was condemned when it stood in silence and allowed the Holocaust to take place. Are we repeating our stand, with the Palestinians being the victim?—S. Nakib, Loop [End quoting]

Sorry to say that is basically what is happening and will continue to happen to us all unless WE stop the elite.

NICHOLS JURY SPLIT ON FIRST VOTE

From THE FRESNO BEE, 6/1/98: [quoting]

When 12 jurors took their first vote on Terry Nichols’ fate in the Oklahoma City bombing, it was 10-2 for acquittal, the Rocky Mountain News reported Sunday.

The initial vote stunned the two men who voted for conviction, triggering 41 hours of deliberations over the next six days.

“I couldn’t believe it,” recalled Tim Burge, a brewery worker. I was like, man, did I miss something here or what.”

Todd Fockler, a geophysicist, said he persuaded fellow jurors to review the evidence.

Nichols, 43, is scheduled to be sentenced Thursday. He was convicted in the April 19, 1995, bombing that killed 168 people. [End quoting]

[Sender’s comments: I was amazed by what happened. Who were these two men; and what kind of training did they have to cause those ten other people to do a complete 180? They all heard the same trial before going into that jury room. Something very interesting was at work there.

What do you make of it?]

I think she has similar suspicions to what I have, which are: there was possibly some “beaming” into the jury room or some other form of mind control going on.

NEW WORLD ORDER OR GLOBAL NUTHOUSE?

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, June 1998: [quoting]

A report to the Environment Committee of the European Parliament argues that intestinal gasses emitted by cows cause global warming. Bovine flatulence, described in the report as “methane from enteric fermentation of livestock” poses a dire threat to the world because it accounts for 15 percent of the so-called “greenhouse gasses” that are allegedly warming the planet that globalists want to rule.

EP members take the report quite seriously and have called for “urgent research” to find a cow diet less likely to cause planet-destroying flatulence. [End quoting]

It sounds to me like they have picked the wrong sources for these foul gases. I would highly suspicion that the main source is the flatulence from the mouths of the NWO gangsters and their political puppets.

SET-ASIDE SCAM

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, June 1998: [quoting]

The real purpose of racial set-asides for government contracts was exposed by the Forward Times of Houston, a Black-owned newspaper. Despite deliberate and probably illegal efforts by the mayor's office to keep the information secret, the newspaper revealed that during the past two years some 70 percent of city service contracts set aside for Blacks went to just five "insider" firms runs by politically well-connected folks. Among the Black subcontractors for a $200 million project at Houston's airport were attorneys who already work for the city, a former city councilman and a state senator. [End quoting]

AP STRIKES AGAIN

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, June 1998: [quoting]

Associated Press continues to pollute American political discourse with disinformation and misleading stories. Two recent examples include an AP story that described the puny .30 cal. M-1 Carbine as a “powerful” military weapon, and another that described a North Carolina community as hospitable to extremists because only Whites lived there.

Now from AP comes a story on government-imposed automobile air-bags that have killed more than 60 people and maimed many others. The story by reporter Catherine Strong implied that under pressure from the victims’ families, the government will propose “tough” new standards on the auto industry for testing the killer bags. The story posits tension between victims and carmakers, with the government as a stem paternal referee. But in reality, it was the government—at the prodding of safety gurus Ralph Nader and Joan Claybrook that forced automakers to use one-size-fits-all air bags, which the industry warned might be unsafe for children and small adults. In this case, the interests of automakers and motorists are on the same side. [End quoting]

The auto industry is never really on the side of the motorist—they’re always on the side that they think benefits them.

BIG DISEASE, BIG SALARIES

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, June 1998: [quoting]

Thanks to U.S. taxpayers, the gruppenfuhrers of the AIDS industry are doing as well, if not better, than federal officeholders. Financial disclosure statements filed with the IRS by nine of the top federally-funded AIDS organizations show that the officers are getting fat, six-figure salaries while AIDS victims complain about a lack of money.

“The money isn’t going to the people who need it,” said Rep. Tom Coburn, R-OK, a physician. “At a time when direct services and medically necessary care is being severely curtailed, many AIDS charity executives have put lining their own pockets above saving lives,” Coburn said.

Here are the salaries of top AIDS honchos, according to published reports: Jerome Radwin, CEO of American Foundation for AIDS Research, got paid $191,729 in 1996; Mark Robinson, executive director, Gay Men’s Health Crisis (NY), got $144,782; Addie Gutttag, the group’s deputy executive director, got $139,337; Michael Weinstein, president of the AIDS Healthcare Foundation, got $126,548, (the group employs five others earning more than $ 100,000 each); Jim Graham, executive director of the Whitman-Walker Clinic for AIDS patients, got $143,690. PARALEGAL PREDICTS
HE'LL CLEAR CHARGES

He was accused of intimidating a judge.

From THE Bakersfield Californian, 6/98: [quoting]

A Bakersfield man indicted on federal charges of intimidating a U.S. District Court judge predicted Friday he will be found innocent.

Nicholas Victor Fleming Jr., 50, a paralegal, was indicted on two charges of trying to intimidate Judge Robert Coyle by attempting to file a $10 million common-law lien on real property owned by Coyle and his wife.

Fleming said the purpose of the lien was simply to set the stage for a formal lien if Fleming wins a civil judgment against the judge. He said if he loses the civil case, then the lien means nothing.

“I’m not going to be convicted of anything,” Fleming said.

Fleming agreed the indictment stems from a lawsuit he filed last August against the California State Bar, the U.S. District Court, the Kern County Bar Association, the American Bar Association and Coyle to secure a ruling that people may be represented in court by non-lawyers.

Fleming said he had a right last year to represent former Bakersfield police officer Brad Pugh, who was challenging being fired by the city

Coyle, who Fleming said should not have acted on the lawsuit because he was a named defendant, dismissed the case on Nov. 17. Fleming has appealed and that appeal is what he expects to win in order to collect a judgment against Coyle.

The indictment alleges Fleming tried to file the liens on Dec. 17 as an effort to intimidate the judge. Fleming’s arraignment on the charges is scheduled for June 26. [End quoting]

EUROPEAN UNION SIGNS
THE KYOTO PROTOCOL
IN NEW YORK

Excerpted from FAX sent by Spirit of 1776, 6/1/98: [quoting]

April 29, in New York, John Prescott, British Deputy Prime Minister representing the Presidency of the European Union Council of Ministers and Ritt Bjerrogaard, European Commissioner for the Environment, will sign the Kyoto Protocol on Climate Change on behalf of the European Union (EU). The formal signature of the Protocol underlines the continuing commitment of the EU and its member states to achieving its objective and it highlights the ambition of the EU to maintain the lead in the fight against climate change. But it is only the next step in a lengthy procedure leading up to the Buenos Aires meeting, which is to be held in November. It continues to be necessary to make further progress and maintain the momentum of Kyoto. Far greater global reduction efforts will be necessary and the industrialized countries must make demonstrable progress in achieving their commitments under the Protocol.

The Commission is working on a comprehensive Post-Kyoto strategy for adoption in May. It will be submitted to the member states for discussion at the Environment Council on June 16-17. The strategy will seek to include most aspects of the further work to be done, notably on the implementation of the legally binding target of 8% for the EU, on common policies and measures and on mechanisms for flexible implementation (emissions trading, joint implementation, the clean development mechanism, etc.). GEORGE WRIGHT

August 28, 1920-May 10, 1998

From THEATRE ORGAN magazine May/June 1998: [quoting]

George Wright died peacefully on May 10, 1998, of congestive heart failure, just a few months after recording his last album, Salon.

George was generally recognized as the finest theatre organist ever. This musical genius left a legacy of 60 years of performance, as well as some 60 published recordings starting in the early 1950s. Some of those records sold more than a million copies [when a million copies was considered amazing] each.

Although the world knows George Wright from his music, my own loss is a personal one—George and I were best friends. He was an exceptionally spirited and generous man who brought joy and a lot of laughter into my life. I worked with him professionally for many years, and was fortunate to be his agent and producer. —Terry Cutshall [End quoting]

I’ve included this here because I feel that many CONTACT readers have heard his organ music and most media haven’t taken the space or time for recognizing this great musician. Today’s media seem to only recognize “rockers” and “rappers”.

However the San Francisco Chronicle did give him a little write-up on 6/1/98, since he made that area his home for part of his life.

GOD HAS GREAT PLANS FOR MOLLY

From THE JOHNSON CITY PRESS, 6/3/98, letter to editor: [quoting]

Four years ago a little 2-year-old in our community, Molly Baldwin, was diagnosed with the largest spinal cord tumor ever seen in the U.S.

Molly's parents, Ken and Yvonne, were told three days later at Vanderbilt Children's Hospital in Nashville that their daughter would live [no] more than 9-12 months and once spinal cord resection surgery was performed, Molly would be totally paralyzed from her chest down.

This was a very traumatic time. I was little Molly's ballet teacher! This all happened the day of what should have been her first dance rehearsal, with the recital the next day! All the costumes were ready and everyone arrived that evening (except Molly, who was on her way to Vanderbilt).

Her brave big sister, Emily, (age 6, at the time) arrived wondering what was happening and why everybody was crying. Emily had been met from school by her Aunt Vicki who was very much like a mother for the next two years. The news was announced to the parents and prayers were lifted up immediately and never stopped from that day forward.

I am constantly in touch with Ken, Yvonne, Emily and little Molly! Through all of this, I have never once saw them angry or mad. Never do you see Yvonne without a smile on her face! The whole family reaches out to others in need and tries to see how everything they have dealt with will help someone else. Their mission is their church, Boones Creek United Methodist, and the Appalachian Ronald McDonald House.

Ken Baldwin is running for Criminal Court judge on Aug. 6. I want to ask you to please vote for this wonderful man. Nobody has had a bigger trial in life than Ken, and I firmly believe this along with his 24 years of practice in law would make him a very compassionate Christian judge!

Molly is now 6½ years old and has the most beautiful strawberry-blond curly hair (after having 2 years of chemotherapy)! She is in the first grade now and there is no sign of her cancer! Molly is walking after being paralyzed for a year and guess what—she got to be in a dance recital!

When asked, Ken and Yvonne both say God has great plans for her. "I can't wait to see her at the age of 20," says her proud dad.

“She has totally changed our lives and we know what is relevant and what is unimportant. Don’t ever take your children for granted: love them every day, they may be in Heaven tomorrow! She is just a Miracle!”

WORLD ENVIRONMENTAL CATASTROPHE IN THE MAKING HARDLY REPORTED: THE BURNING OF CENTRAL AMERICA by Dr. Al Overholt 6/13/98

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>, 6/5/98: [quoting]

What the hell is going on in Mexico? The Hegellian antithesis of Global Warming? What?

—Bob Shearer, Elgin, Texas

Folks, while nations falter and fall apart, there is an almost eerie silence or hardly any proper emphasis regarding the “unprecedented” world environmental catastrophe now occurring in Mexico, as well as Central and South America—now spreading to the US. Some parts of South America are experiencing horrendously severe drought-related famine affecting tens of millions of people. Other parts have been so drenched that millions of acres of crops have simply washed away, while tens of thousands of heads of cattle and other livestock have perished. Deadly diseases are rampant everywhere in the Americas, serious social unrest everywhere. BBC, Radio Cuba, Deutsche Welle, Radio Australia, and other international broadcasts are reporting the matter, but not VOA or the other American press. WHY? This censorship of such mammoth global tragedy of such proportions, affecting tens of millions, and threatening the US also, is beyond criminal and quite suspicious, when one pauses for careful thought. [A very convenient, widespread, natural coup d’etat, which works nicely for culling populations??].

Last week I heard the only report of a Mexican journalist on a local talk radio program. He said, “The situation in Mexico is a catastrophe of immense and unheard of global magnitude, and will affect the “global weather, crop production, human and animal health and other deadly serious problems.” Understandably, the monumental disasters will increase drastically immigration into the US, as the suffering of Mexicans and other South/Central Americans increases. The volcano Popocatepetl (written accent over the first “e”), is “imminent,” said the Mexican journalist from Monterrey, Mexico. Close to a million poor souls live right below the ready-to-erupt volcano. The journalist protested that the Mexican government is doing nothing to evacuate or warn the long suffering and poverty stricken people. 8-9 thousand tons of sulphur was emitted every day, until the vent holes blocked from magma fillage a few days ago. The Mexican journalist added: “It is a devastation beyond imagination and preparing to become much worse.”

Please be aware of just how serious the situation is, by also reading the articles below, then ask your local paper, why do they not report such serious conditions affecting a huge part of the world so drastically. Mark these words, IF THE TRUTH BE KNOWN, THESE ARE DISASTERS OF BIBLICAL PROPORTIONS—AT THE RATE THEY ARE SPREADING, THEY WILL SOON BE AT YOUR DOORSTEPS NATIONWIDE. —AC

THE AMERICAS

The Burning of Central America

Managua—Far less reported than Brazil's earlier Amazon fires, those in Central America have done far more damage. And the fault is not El Nino's, but man's.

The sky is thickly overcast; the smoke makes eyes water and lungs gasp for breath; the muggy heat is unbearable. This is the Nicaraguan capital, Managua. Life was much the same this week in Mexico city, which was on full smog alert. Honduras reported a continuing sharp rise in respiratory disorders, and until Monday the country's four main airports had all been closed for some days for lack of visibility. At Tikal, in Guatemala, 700 firefighters were struggling to protect historic Mayan temples. For weeks now, fires have raged in scrub and forests from Panama to southern Mexico. Their effects are devastating, and will long outlast the human discomfort.

In Nicaragua alone, a British-aided monitoring programme using satellite images has counted many thousands of fires, especially on the Caribbean side, whose forests, stretching across into Honduras, are the last really large area of pristine forest in Central America. In some places the fire-front is 20, 30, even 50 kilometers wide. Nicaragua has about 40,000 square kilometers (15,450 square miles) of forest. But that is only half what it had in 1960—and about 500 square kilometers a week have recently been going up in smoke.

At last, Central Americans are noticing their own threatened environment, and listening to the experts who have been warning them for years that far more must be done to protect it. It is easy, this year, to blame El Nino. But many of the fires were started deliberately to clear land, only to run out of control in the drought and heat.

The real trouble, now as for 30-40 years past, in Nicaragua and Honduras alike, is not weather but people: big ranchers clearing land for cattle, slash-and-burn peasant farmers, timber companies logging indiscriminately and often illegally: "They get permission for 50 trees and take 500," says one angry conservationist. And behind these are the politicians and officials who allow it all and often profit from it.

In Nicaragua things have grown worse as thousands of destitute former Contra guerrillas, many with little skill in farming, have moved into uninhabited (and theoretically protected) forests in the north, and burned them to get land. Timber companies have played their part; a Korean one has been accused not only of cutting into precious hardwood forests around and in the Bosawas reserve on the Caribbean coast, but of opening trails into the forest for settlers like the ex-Contras. Peasants who might wish to protest—there are such—dare not: they would pay for it if they did, they say, and they don't mean in money.

A Nicaraguan ecologist, Kamilo Lara, says that if destruction goes on at the current rate—and he is not just thinking of this year—"Nicaragua will be a desert in 50 years' time." At least he is alive to utter the warning.

In Honduras, in this decade, two leading ecologists have been murdered. Others have received death threats and are now afraid to speak out. That it is worth silencing such people shows how high the economic stakes are.

The two ecologists' friends readily name the army officer widely believed to have been behind the murders. No one has ever been put on trial, let alone punished, for them.

In Honduras, there is no effective control of logging, say ecologists. Local indigenous peoples have complained in the capital, Tegucigalpa, of ladino [spell—as received] settlers moving into their (supposedly protected) areas in Mosquitia and elsewhere in the east, and even killing those who resist them. No one has much cared. Yet El Nino is forcing even the previously indifferent to sit up. Mosquitia is far away, but in the latest fires some 70% of the pine forests around Tegucigalpa have burned. The capital's three reservoirs are all but dry. Water is being taken by tanker around San Pedro Sula, the country's commercial capital, as it is in the Nicaraguan highland city of Matagalpa.

The authorities' response, however, has not been impressive. A diplomat in Honduras talks of a natural disaster of "catastrophic proportions", about which the government, he says, is doing "damn all" [as received]. Honduran businessmen, lamenting the economic disruption, echo his complaint. In Nicaragua there is said now to be "serious concern at the highest levels", but still no consensus about what is to be done. A meeting to decide on and co-ordinate action is scheduled—for early June.

But neither government action nor a flood to match Noah's could restore the forests as they were. Once burned, say conservationists, forest areas will inevitably be taken over by farmers. Siegfried Kasl, a technical adviser to a German project in Nicaragua's Bosawas reserve—named a UNESCO "biosphere" reserve only in February—says that it will need military protection: otherwise, "after the vegetation is destroyed, peasants will invade."

Leave the last word to Nicaragua's La Prensa, not a famously radical newspaper: Desolation and destruction are everywhere; if nothing is done Nicaraguans will be without flora, fauna or food.

Breathing Mexican Air In Austin

The Sun has been absent from Texas of late. The state's azure skies have been lost under a yellow pall, and temperatures have dropped to an unseasonable low. On May 15th, the air was declared unhealthy over the whole state.

Smoke from Mexico, indeed smoke billowing up all the way from Nicaragua, is to blame. It is coming from 10,000 fires affecting more than 600,000. The acrid-tasting haze has kept old and young Texans indoors, and left others such as your tennis-playing correspondent, feeling as though they were exercising while smoking. Many wore masks. In the Rio Grande valley, cotton farmers worried that the lack of sunshine would prevent this year's crop from flowering.

George W. Bush, the governor of Texas, brushed aside the demand Texan firemen should head south to show the Mexicans how real men deal with fires. It was a Mexican problem, he said.... Al Gore, visiting Fort Worth, dutifully intoned concern. “We cannot—and we will not—ignore the impact that these Mexican fires are having on the families of Texas,” he said solemnly—and assured Texas cities that they would not be fined for failing to meet clean-air standards...

U.S. AND OTHER NATIONS PLACING SANCTIONS ON YUGOSLAVIA

Dr. Al Overholt 6/13/98

From the INTERNET, 6/9/98: [quoting]

Yugoslav officials Tuesday denounced international sanctions intended as punishment for its offensive in Kosovo, where a western strip of the separatist province has been turned into a war zone of burned houses and deserted villages.

Protesters demanding NATO intervention in Kosovo demonstrated outside a meeting in Luxembourg of EU foreign affairs ministers.

In a statement issued by the official Tanjug news agency, Yugoslav officials called the sanctions a “strange and unreasonable decision”. The statement was in response to decisions made by the European Union and the United States, within hours of each other on Monday, to ban new investments in Serbia and freeze its assets abroad.

“It’s cynical to demand from Yugoslavia to withdraw troops from its own province and leave it to the mercy of Albanian terrorists,” the statement said.

The officials also said they were offended that the sanctions were aimed only at Serbia, where Kosovo is located. Serbia’s lone partner in the Yugoslav federation, Montenegro, is exempt because of its pro-Western leadership.

A prominent Kosovo Albanian, Nekibe Kelmendi, welcomed the new sanctions but said they were only a “small step”.

Ethnic Albanians make up 90 percent of the 2 million people living in Serbia’s southern province. More than 250 have died this year in clashes between government forces and the pro-independence Albanian militants, known as the Kosovo Liberation Army.

There were no immediate reports of new clashes Tuesday in Kosovo.

The international community has ruled out independence for Kosovo but wants Serbia to restore the autonomy the province once enjoyed.

The destruction in Kosovo has increased an international outcry for Serbia to stop using its police and army against ethnic Albanians.

NATO is considering military intervention, and U.S. State Department spokesman James Rubin said Monday the United States has not ruled out military options.

At the United Nations Tuesday, diplomatic sources who spoke on condition of anonymity said the United States and Britain plan to ask the Security Council, possibly next week, to approve the use of force against the Serbs to halt attacks on ethnic Albanians in Kosovo.

If necessary, President Clinton is prepared to deal directly with Russian President Boris Yeltsin on the matter, senior U.S. officials, who also spoke on condition of anonymity, said Tuesday.

In the past, strong council action on Kosovo and other issues, notably Iraq, has been blocked by Russian Foreign Minister Yevgeny Primakov. Russia has a permanent seat and veto power in the 15-member council.

Yeltsin said Tuesday that any deployment of foreign troops in the region would be “very dangerous”.

But he said he would seek a meeting with Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic to “discuss the question of how to get out of this situation without getting into a big war”.

EU TIGHTENS SANCTIONS ON SERBIA OVER KOSOVO

From the INTERNET, 6/9/98: [quoting]

The 15-member European Union on Monday imposed further sanctions on Serbia because of what it called the “new level of aggression on the part of the Serb security forces” in the Serbian province of Kosovo, where about 250 people have been killed and tens of thousands displaced by the region’s separatist conflict.

Expressing its fears of a “new wave of ethnic cleansing” in Kosovo, the EU banned new investments in Serbia and froze the country’s assets abroad.

The move came in addition to previously announced measures, which included a ban on arms exports and restricted travel visas for Yugoslav officials.

At Washington’s urging last month, the EU held off on the investment ban and asset freeze to give Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic a chance to reach a peaceful solution in Kosovo.

Kosovo has an ethnic Albanian majority of about 90 percent, and many of them favor secession. But Milosevic has firmly rejected that demand, saying the region will remain part of Yugoslavia, which now consists of Serbia and Montenegro.

“President Milosevic bears a special responsibility as head of the Yugoslav government for promoting a peaceful settlement to the problems of Kosovo,” an EU statement said.

Citing reports of “widespread house-burning and indiscriminate artillery attacks on whole villages”, the European body accused Milosevic of engaging in a “campaign of violence going far beyond ... a targeted anti-terrorist operation”.

While the EU pledged to play its part in stopping the flow of money and weapons to the Kosovo Liberation Army—the main guerrilla group in the province—the organization also called on NATO to study military solutions to stop the violence.

On Thursday, NATO defense ministers will meet to consider a military response—a prospect that so far has met with little enthusiasm.

U.S. President Bill Clinton’s National Security Adviser Sandy Berger said Monday that the issue of military intervention was not under discussion at this stage.

However, Clinton and his national security team were to discuss possible U.S. economic sanctions later in the day. [End quoting]

CHAPTER 16

SOLTEC: YOU ARE ALL MIGHTY SPIRITUAL BEINGS!

6/13/98 SOLTEC

Greetings, my scribe. It is I, Toniose Soltec, come with and in the Light of the One God.

Be at peace and put aside thy fears, dear ones, for all is playing out as it shall. Your planet is poised at a pivotal point this day, and each of you has a definite and important role to play out. Those who have been with us through the past years know of that to which I refer, and so what is taking place should come as no REAL surprise to any of you. You are the ones upon whom others are going to cling in the coming days.

As to the problem of precisely what is going to occur, exactly when it is going to take place—no one can predict down to the precise day or time. However, if you have been paying attention to all the warnings, all the signals, all the markers along the way, you will come to but one conclusion, and that is, it is underway even at this moment.

Oh, yes, the world has not been blown to bits, your stock markets still hang on by a thread, and most all of you still have places to go, things to do, and money to spend. However, all you have to do is pick up a newspaper or listen to any news media, and just be a little bit smarter than are they, and you can see that things are in a state of definite change—ALL things, children—politically, socially, geophysically, economically and what have you.

What do I expect will happen?

Let me rephrase that for you: What do YOU expect?

Ah! Puts it in an entirely different light, does it not?

Let me ask you another question: What is it that gets your backs up so much at ones such as futurist Gordon-Michael Scallion and remote viewing instructor Major Ed Dames?

You holler that they are setting dates! For goodness sakes, children, is that really what gets you so heated up?

Look deeper and examine what it is that really upsets you. At the core of it all you are going to find your old arch-enemy, FEAR!

It is that fear that only disguises itself as anger over ones, such as I mentioned above, setting time lines. Look around you! Get outside your little glass houses and REALLY LOOK AROUND!

It is a mess on your planet, and every one of your precious, little, man-made systems are breaking down around you. “Why?” you ask? Because they are man-made, based on all of man’s fears! Not a one of them were God-based. Are you beginning to get the REAL picture?

Anything that has been contrived and conceived out of fear is pre-destined to crumble. Fear is the design of the adversary, not God. That which is God-based has been designed around love and faith in abundance.

There is NOT lack with God! There is NOT fear with God! For with God, that which you might perceive as lost is never really lost, but merely changed!

You now fear loss of financial security. Just what is that, anyway? Suppose you are able to keep all your money, only to have it useless? Then what is it that you truly have, other than dirty, smelly pieces of paper? You have fear of loss only because you lack faith in the abundance of God!

Each and every Lighted one of you on the planet, bar none, have the ability to manifest and provide everything you need, and even that which you desire. However, if you are trying to manifest because you are afraid of lack, you will forever be without that which you are trying to manifest. THAT IS FEAR-BASED, and will negate what you are trying to accomplish.

This is not news to anyone who has been following our messages for any length of time, for though different words and different examples may have been used, our messages have nearly always been about overcoming your fears and moving forward. It is that same state of fear that is causing you ones to go about in such a state of panic as to demand information about what is coming and when it is coming.

Yet, have we not always told you that setting exact time frames is impossible because all is based upon sequence of events? We have no special crystal ball to look into and tell you, for instance, that the Long Valley Caldera is going to erupt on July 20th. It does not work that way. We can only look at that which has occurred, that which is occurring, and project that which MAY occur.

But there is the little matter of free will, which is always a variable in any and all equations. You ones continually forget about your powers of creation!

HYPOTHETICAL EXAMPLE: The Long Valley Caldera is building a dome at the rate of 100 centimeters per month (by your calendars). If that is the only factor in the equation, the time to a full-out eruption may be 100 years into the future.

However, let's now throw into the equation a nuclear test of 1000 kilotons, say in Nevada, at a depth of one-half mile. Let's say that it takes place when the magma beneath the surface is shifting in one direction or another. Now, those little wrinkles will change the original equation by a certain length of time.

But, let's throw in an earthquake in the San Francisco Bay Area, of oh, say 6.5, into the equation. Now that little factor is also going to change the outcome of the equation.

Do you begin to see the picture?

Now, let's say that some politician, or scientist, decides to move the nuclear test up by two hours, just at the exact moment as the San Francisco earthquake takes place.

Now, guess what?

You have again altered the outcome!

Now if, at the same time, someone changes the intensity profile of the directional antennas of the HAARP array in Alaska in such a fashion as to make their magnetic field cut across the path where the nuclear test is occurring, then chances are that the nuclear test is going to have an altogether different blast profile and thus different effect upon the potential for an eruption at the Long Valley Caldera.

And these are just SOME of the variables one must take into consideration in making any projection of this kind! I have not even begun to mention what your scientists would consider exotic factors which nonetheless have an effect upon this calculation.

This is precisely why we have warned you about exact dates. With five billion people on your planet, you have five billion free wills to deal with, and it is absolutely impossible to predict with any accuracy what will occur.

Windows of possibilities are a completely different matter, however, because based on current conditions and past happenings, we are likely to tell you that there are certain potentials. There also are points of what are best referred to as “critical mass” points. These are the times when so many things of a particular nature are happening, in such rapid succession, or simultaneously, that the potential for a particular occurrence is nearly a certainty. PLEASE NOTE THAT I SAID NEARLY A CERTAINTY. That does not mean that it will definitely take place.

This is how prophecy works, children. It is, at best, estimates of potential and possibility, based on past, present, and projected future events and trends. From our perspective, we do have the advantage of much more historical data, as well as more of the current facts, but it is NEVER, NEVER, an absolute certainty!

Yet, I will tell you that your world is on the brink of many of what your prognosticators are calling for. Each of you has the same ability to tap into the same Source as these ones, but most of you are, I am sorry to say, either too lazy or too afraid to take the RESPONSIBILITY to find answers for selves. It is much easier and safer (in your minds) to sit back, wait for someone else to do it for you—and then proceed to slay these messengers if they scare you.

No one has held a gun to your heads and forced you to believe any of it. If you are afraid, then I suggest you find out exactly what it is you’re afraid of, and why you’re afraid.

Fear is the only thing that is holding you back, you know. You can weave into your lives all the excuses and reasons you like, but the basic truth is that all your excuses and reasons were based on fear.

Why does it appear that the adversary is winning? Because most of you are too afraid to really stick your necks out and get them chopped off. But, you will stand behind somebody else and push them out there, won’t you?

Ouch! That one really hurt, didn’t it?

Well, I am truly sorry, but there are times when the best medicine is that which causes just a bit of discomfort. It helps to get the attention better, does it not?

Yes, you are in for some tough times on your planet, both physically and emotionally, dear ones, and if you’re not ready now, then you better plan to pull a few all-nighters and study what you have been putting off, because, when it comes right down to the wire, you are ALL GOING TO STAND ON YOUR OWN TWO FEET, OR YOU WILL NOT STAND!

It is time that you recognize who and what EACH AND EVERY ONE OF YOU ARE! Dannion Brinkley says it quite beautifully: “YOU ARE ALL MIGHTY AND POWERFUL SPIRITUAL BEINGS.”

I could not say it more exquisitely, nor more straightforwardly than that. Awaken to your true reality, and recognize that you do not have to accept anything that the adversary brings your way!

Do whatever you must, but make it a part of your very beingness. If need be, stand in front of a mirror a dozen times a day and repeat: “I am a mighty and powerful spiritual being!” And no, it is not a magical mantra, nor mystical spell. It is called an affirmation.

Stop visualizing yourselves as vicTIMS, and start seeing yourselves as vicTORS! Stop affirming that you are only one little person. NO, YOU ARE ONE MIGHTY AND POWERFUL SPIRITUAL BEING, and you do not have to accept anything the adversary delivers to your door.

Many of you who are, at present, Ground Crew, are in actuality Commanders. You have been such in the past, and have taken on your present lives, upon that planet, for these precise times, because you do have the experience to take command of any and all situations when the need arises.

But you have gone there with your pasts veiled so that you might be able to be a part of your current world. You have, however, the ability to see past those veils, but you have bought into the concept that such is not for you to know. These lies are straight from the adversary in an attempt to disable you and keep you from taking up your proper positions.

It is no different today than it was in the final days of Atlantis. You had, for the most part, the same gathering of souls there as are present in your world today—and once again you are all getting the opportunity to make decisions and play out the same lessons as you experienced in those days.

During that time in your long-ago past, technology had progressed to the point where it was possible to annihilate every living thing on the planet—much as it is today. You had created weapons of such mass destruction that it was possible to completely destroy the Earth. However, in the end, the destruction was limited to the land-mass once present in your Atlantic Ocean, and your planet’s axis shifted.

Now, it is up to you, again, as to whether you will stop before mass devastation occurs, or whether you will once again go to the brink of utter destruction—or worse, past the brink and finally blow yourselves into bits and pieces of cosmic particles.

Among you, however, there are those who have become known, over time, as the “Wayshowers”. They are everywhere, and usually not at all what you might expect them to be.

Seldom will they appear as the little old man with the funny hat and long white beard, carrying a lantern. Most likely they will look just like you, but there will be something about them that is striking, that you just can’t put your finger on.

These are the ones who seem to have a little extra twinkle in their eyes and who talk as though they tap the Wisdom of the Ages (and they probably do). They are the ones whose words continue to echo in your ears long after they have passed through your lives. They are the ones who have been warning you, prompting you, and challenging your most fundamental beliefs. They are the ones who others scoff at and call mad, or doomsdayers.

They are the ones to whom you should have listened. They will never tell you anything that you don't already really know. They will but bring it to your forward remembrance.

They are the same ones who were with you in those final days on Atlantis. They were the ones who were shouting the warnings and trying to persuade others to reconsider their works. They are the ones who were then, as now, scoffed at, laughed at, and called mad. They were the ones who were trying to remind everyone of their responsibilities and their real identities.

Sound familiar? It should, for most of you who are going to hear this message are those Wayshowers! You are the ones who are shouting your warnings and pleading with the world to stop the madness now, for you have been there before and you know what the final outcome is going to be if things do not change.

But I digress. I only mentioned that because you have the Wisdom and the Knowledge within you. You have the ability to see past the veil. YOU ARE MIGHTY AND POWERFUL SPIRITUAL BEINGS! You just need to refuse to accept that fear that is holding you back!

I do not know how else to tell you—how to bring you from your state of immobility. Stop the fussing, the fighting, the arguing, and become one, united mind. Each of you are powerful within yourselves, but two are more powerful than one, and a thousand are a million times more powerful, yet, because it all has to do with channeling the energy that is present in everything, everywhere, about each and every one of you. And, if you link your channeled energy with that of another, and another, and another, then you will have that much more energy focused and channeled into a particular thing or idea.

Remember Esu “Jesus” Sananda’s words: “Where two or more of you are gathered together, of like mind . . .” Chelas, he was talking about exactly what I have tried to say. You are all individuals, but you are also all an intricate part of a greater whole, and it’s that greater whole from which you draw your Power.

That Power is not about guns and knives and weapons. It is not about money or any material things. It is not about courts of law and attorneys. IT IS ABOUT GOD! And with God, all things are possible, IF YOU BELIEVE AND DO NOT DOUBT! It is doubt, that comes from fear, that will negate it all, so your first task must be to eliminate your third-dimensional-based fears.

No, it is not easy. But then, nothing worthwhile ever is easy. Anything you really have to work at, is a lesson you will remember and not forget so easily.

Well, we could go on with this subject for a very long time, but let’s face it, chelas, we have been going over this for far too long as it is. IT IS PAST THE TIME FOR PUTTING OFF UNTIL TOMORROW. IT IS PAST THE TIME FOR SITTING ON YOUR BACKSIDES. IT IS PAST THE TIME FOR PASSING THE RESPONSIBILITY OFF ONTO ANOTHER.

IT IS NOW YOUR TIME! IT IS TIME YOU STARTED DOING FOR YOURSELVES, AND STOPPED WAITING FOR ANOTHER TO GIVE YOU A MESSAGE. THERE IS NOTHING SPECIAL ABOUT THE RECEIVERS WHO WRITE THE MESSAGES FOR YOU, OTHER THAN THEIR WILLINGNESS. STOP AND THINK ABOUT THAT ONE AWHILE.

The time is upon you when the medium for these messages (this newspaper) may not be available to you. Then, what do you intend to do? Will you remember then what you have been told, and start hearing for yourselves, or will you just shrivel up and become part of the nasty statistics? The choice is completely your own.

Do not look to your neighbor to do it for you. He has had no more advantages than have you.

It is time to put away your childish behavior and begin to act and to live as you should. It is childish to quibble among yourselves and be jealous of another. Stop pointing your fingers at one another, for your shortcomings are no less than another's. Stop running around gossiping and tattling. It's time you moved up from your third-grade emotions and actions and began to take upon yourselves the full responsibility for selves.

The only reason you are behaving in such a manner is because you are afraid, and by pointing a finger at another, you are hoping that it will take the attention off yourself. But while that ploy may work with others in your immediate grouping, understand that it does not work with us—and GOD, above all, sees past all those little games. You might be able to hide your fears from one another, but you cannot hide them from God!

So long as you continue your current behavior, you are never going to step off that wheel of karma. You see, in order to step off, you have to let go of your fears—all of them, and take full and complete responsibility for every bit of your lives.

You bet this is a tough message! But, guess what? It's past time for hand-holding and nose wiping. It is time for you to grow up and become productive members of the Universe! But, that decision is completely up to you.

Have a good day, and thank you for sitting and penning this message. I am Toniose Soltec. I am in service unto the One Light of Holy God. Blessed art thou, oh children of the Universe!

Salu.
